BRIAND HOLDS ALOOF WAITING ITALIAN OFFER

French Minister Will Have No Further Discussion With Grandi.

WANTS M'DONALD TO FORCE ROME'S HAND

Also Favors Stabilization of Fleets on Their Present Basis.

MORROW FAILS TO GET SECURITY PACT

Fear Is Felt Now Paris May Try to Block Any Three-Power Treaty.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.

Paris, March 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand does not expect to return to London as head of the French delegation to the five-power naval parley before the end of this week, if then.

There is nothing in the present situation to indicate that he will return at all, unless with Prime Minister Andre Tardieu.

Both M. Briand and M. Tardieu have a busy week before them dealing with domestic matters. Debate is due in the Chamber of Deputies on ratification of the Young plan for a final reparations settlement and in the Senate on the budget. But if the premier and the foreign minister saw any change in the situation at London, one of them at least would return there.

Minister of Marine Jacques Louis Dumesnil left at 8 p. m. tonight for London accompanied by Admiral Darlan. M. Dumesnil is the newest member of the French delegation and the least supple, so his arrival in London will be of no great help to the parley. Francois Pietri, minister of colonies and another member of the French delegation, will follow M. Dumesnil to London Tuesday.

Briand Waits Italian Offer.

M. Briand does not want to return to London unless some change in Italy's attitude is assured. If his return would mean making any concession in the French position without corresponding concessions being made by all the other delegations he would surely not go back to the British capital.

Briand intimated in a talk yesterday with Lord William Tyrrell, British Ambassador here, who called on him on instructions from Prime Minister MacDonald, that the best finish for the conference, as things now stand, would be a stabilization of fleets on the basis of present programs. He expressed the conviction that it is up to Mr. MacDonald, as chairman of the conference, to oblige Italy to State her naval program, whateevr the figures may be.

It is said here that Mr. MacDonald wanted to make an effort in this direction, with the support of the

Emmitsburg Man Wins $11,500 in Sweepstakes

Agua Caliente, Lower California, Mexico, March 23 (A.P.).—By holding the Sweepstake ticket on Victorian, winner of the Agua Caliente Handicap, George Tisher, a mining man from Butte, Mont., was more wealthy today by $51,750. Bob Wood, Santa Ana, Calif., was paid $23,000 for his drawing of Alexander Pantages, and A. M. Comer, Emmitsburg, Md., won $11,500 for third place. Sweepstake tickets cost $2 each, with $115,000 given in prize money.

A. M. Comer, a hotel clerk at Emmitsburg, Md., received the news of his good fortune in winning third money in the Agua Caliente Sweepstakes with jubilation. He had been notified several weeks ago that he had drawn Donnay in the sweepstakes.

Train Hits Auto; Seven Are Killed

Gasoline Coach Crashes Auto Sedan at Crossing Near Auburn, N. Y.

Auburn, N. Y., March 23 (A.P.).—Four men and three women were killed in the collision of a gasoline coach of the Auburn branch of the New York Central Railroad with a light auotmobile at Shoemakers crossing, 4 miles west of here, tonight.

The wreckage was reported to have caught fire and the bodies burned. Two of the dead were tentatively identified as E. J. Bassom, and Earl J. Thomas, Syracuse.

The coach that struck the sedan, a gasoline-driven type, was disabled and its passengers were transferred to another train.

Obstacles Overcome As Vallee Organizes Connecticut Yankees

Numerous Engagements In and Near New York Lead Up to Memorable Offer to Recruit Band and Become Its Leader at Heigh-Ho Club.

CHAPTER II—THE YANKEES ARE FORMED.

REMARKABLE as it may seem, only one leader was impressed with this array of talent (Vallee's scrapbooks and records), and that was Larry Siry, one of the great society orchestra leaders. He engaged me for an affair at the end of that week.

Meanwhile the Lopez office had kept its word and I was one of twenty men at some affair nearly every week. My friend, George Wallace, who was office manager for Lopez, tried to interest Lopez in my book and records, but rather unsatisfactorily.

I was commuting from New Jersey to New York daily and getting rather tired of the trip. One night I felt inspired to write some of the big leaders. Every office has a booker who, while being subject to the wishes of the leader, exercises his own judgment in selecting men for its engagements, and who, whenever possible, gives his friends preference. One booker in particular was discourteous.

At a big office I secured a chance to play for its manager, and I suited him, but again the booker had too many saxophone friends of his own to employ to give an outsider a break. However, I knew that another very successful orchestra director was doing quite a bit of outside work and felt that I might find fortune in his favor. But as it is quite unusual for dance musicians to write even to their

GUGGENHEIM PRIZES GIVEN TWO OF CITY

Drs. Wesley and Ezekiel Receive Fellowships for Research Work.

MARYLAND MEN CITED

Two residents of Washington and two of nearby Maryland are numbered among the 85 scholars, novelists, sculptors, painters and other creative workers who have been awarded fellowships amounting to more than $200,000 by the John Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, according to an announcement today.

Dr. Charles H. Wesley, professor of history of Howard University, will study Negro slavery and apprenticeship in the British West Indies in the years 1807 to 1836.

Dr. Mordecai J. B. Ezekiel, agricultural economist at the Department of Agriculture, will study the methods used by governmental agencies in leading European countries in regulating economic activity and to determine the relative effectiveness of the methods used in directing various types of industries.

Dr. Ezekiel has been a member of the staff of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics since 1922.

Dr. Ford K. Brown, associate professor of English, St. John's College, Annapolis, received a continuation of the fellowship awarded two years ago. He will study the social ideas and influence of the English Evangelicals from 1790 to 1830.

Dr. Arthur Coolman, associate in physiology at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, will continue his study in the field of physical chemistry as applied to physiology and chemistry.

MAN WOUNDS GIRL AND KILLS HIMSELF

Jealous Sweetheart Fires House After Shooting Woman Three Times.

FRIEND MAKES ESCAPE

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 23.—Jealousy on the part of John Chrissinger, aged 23, of Mapleville, near here, was attributed by authorities as the cause of the probable fatal shooting by Chrissinger of Mildred Martz, 19, of Smoketown, here late today. Before ending his own life, Chrissinger set fire to the house.

The shooting and suicide took place at the home of Welty Moser here, with whom the Martz girl boarded, during the absence of the Moser family. Chrissinger, intoxicated, came to call upon the girl this afternoon. When she observed his condition she told him to leave and he did. In the house with the girl was a companion, Naomi Davis. After Chrissinger left they went upstairs.

Shortly afterward they heard a crash downstairs and a moment later Chrissinger entered the room, where the two girls were and ordered the Davis girl to leave, telling her he was going to end everything. She refused and Chrissinger then took a revolver from his pocket and fired three times at the Martz girl, all three bullets taking effect. One struck her in the head, another in the breast, and the third pierced her abdomen.

When Chrissinger began firing the Davis girl fled from the house and called the police, who found the interior afire when they reached the house. After extinguishing the blaze, they found the form of the girl, and nearby Chrissinger's body. Miss Martz was taken to a hospital.

According to the Davis girl, Chrissinger and Miss Martz had quarrelled on his first visit to the house

Texas Guinan Faces Police As Shooting Halts Party

Protests Innocence When Man Is Shot During Night Club Dispute.

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Leon Sweitzler was shot and seriously wounded early today in the office of the Green Mill Night Club while Texas Guinan delivered her valedictory at her farewell party on the floor below.

Sweitzer, his chest and left leg and arm punctured by slugs, told police from his hospital cot that the shots had been fired by Harry A. Voller, proprietor of the Green Mill; Arthur Reed, his floor manager, and an unidentified assailant, following an argument over the club lease.

The patrons, about 800 persons in all, friends of Miss Guinan, stage folk and contemporary entertainers, gathered for the most part to bid her good luck in her forthcoming New York appearance, did not hear the shots.

Texas was concluding her parting address with "Good-by, folks! You can always reach me through a New York police court!" when Sweitzer was carried across the floor by club attendants and rushed to a hospital.

Voller and Reed, accompanied by their attorneys, appeared voluntarily at the Summerdale police station and denied they had participated in the shooting. They were held on open charges.

Miss Guinan also went to the station to protest her innocence of connection with the affair. She was not

FOUR THIEVES DIE IN BATTLE WITH OFFICERS

FIGHTS IN BUFFALO FOLLOW CAR THEFTS

Two of Eight Machines Stolen Are Seen and Chase Ensues.

BOTH ARE WRECKED; SHOTS KILL DRIVERS

Bullets Fly When the Police Reply to Fire in Race Through Streets.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 23 (A.P.).—Four men, one of them identified as the slayer of Patrolman Carl Wunderlich last month, were killed early today in pistol duels with detectives, and a fifth man, known to the police, managed to make a sensational escape, after a capture, from the City Hospital, although wounded.

The dead are Walter Krajewski, 21, whom police had been seeking since February 6 for the killing of Patrolman Wunderlich; Henry Piotrowski, 20, like Krajewski, the possessor of a police record; Edward Dombkiewicz, 17, a brother of Peter Dombkiewicz, paramour of the "blonde bandit" and the man who recently tried to cut the throat of David Glickstein, jeweler, in Supreme Court, and John Dzazdzynski, 20.

The bodies of the four youths, alleged automobile thieves and stick-up men, were sent to the morgue and were later claimed by relatives. In one of the bodies, that of Piotrowski, eleven wounds, made by shotgun slugs and pistol bullets, were found in the back by Dr. Charles E. Long, medical examiner.

Bullet Plows Top of Head.

Dzazdzynski had a gunshot wound which plowed through the top of his head. Dombkiewicz had two bullet holes in the back of his neck, one in the breast and a finger partly shot off. Krajewski, alleged slayer of Wunderlich, had been killed with a bullet through the temple.

In both clashes with the police the men in the stolen cars opened fire on the police auto squad machine, Lieut. Arthur D. Britt, in command, said.

Eight automobiles were reported stolen within a short time before midnight Saturday and Lieut. Britt and three of his men cruised the East Side in search of them.

About 1:30 a. m. one of the missing automobiles was spotted. Driving alongside, Britt ordered the driver to pull in to the curb. Instead of complying the driver speeded away and fired at the police car.

Car Smashes into Curb.

The police returned the fire and after the first volley the stolen car swerved into the curb and knocked off a water hydrant. The occupant, identified as Walter Krajewski, was thrown through the front of the car. He died immediately. His head and neck were so badly cut from broken glass that a cursory examination did not disclose whether he had been hit by the police bullets.

After reporting to police headquarters, Lieut. Britt and his crew returned to the East Side. In Genesee street they met another stolen car.

The police car and the stolen machine were going in opposite directions and before the officers' car made a turn the other automobile, a roadster with four men in the seat, was speeding away. Their effort to shake off the pursuing police car was unsuccessful, however, and, Lieut. Britt said, all except the man at the wheel opened fire on the auto squad.

The battle continued for several blocks, through side thoroughfares and back to Genesee street again. Then bullets from a police riot gun struck the man at the wheel and the car swerved into a pole.

Man at Wheel Dies.

The man at the wheel, Henry Pistrowski, was killed, and the three others were wounded. The injured men were taken to the City Hospital. Two of them, later identified as John Dzazdzynski and Edward Dombkiewicz, died on the operating table. The other man, apparently badly wounded, escaped from the emergency operating room while the surgeons were attending to the others.

Edward Dombkiewicz, one of the dead men, is a brother of Peter Dombkiewicz, recently sentenced to life as a member of the "blond" bandit gang. Peter caused a sensation at his trial by stabbing one of the complainants while they were before the court.

Krajewski, the first man killed, is said by the police to have been the man wanted for the slaying of a policeman during the holdup of a chain store two months ago.

U. S. BUSINESS REPORT SHOWS EASIER CREDIT

Leader of Hoover Group Reveals Result of National Survey.

COMMERCE STATUS FOUND TO BE MIXED

MORE CONSTRUCTION JOBS ARE EXPECTED

Probable Expenditures of Utilities and Railroads to Increase.

(Associated Press.)

An estimate of the state of American business, Nation-wide in scope and expressed in detailed figures of production and distribution of commodities, was made public yesterday by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's business survey conference.

Expressly submitted without conclusions, the statement nevertheless said that "some early retarding factors, partly psychological, appear to have been gradually overcome," and sketched a state of trade and commerce with both good and bad points.

"The reports from the various industries indicate that the importance laid upon construction as an influence in restoring industrial balance have not been over-emphasized," Chairman Barnes said. "They show that for a revival of construction in its manifold forms a first requirement is adequate and reasonably priced credit.

"Since finance is of such importance, we summarize its various reports first.

Bond Issues Larger.

"January and February bond issues were 33 per cent larger than the same period last year. Bond prices formerly tending downward have turned upward in these last few weeks. Interest rates on standard issues continue lower than a year ago, with indications of further softening. The general outlook in the investment field is favorable, although bankers continue warning against artificial stimulation.

"Customers' rates at their banks have shown a declining tendency. In addition, acceptance rates, call rates and time money rates have all declined and are now substantially lower than last year, some rates marking the low points for several years. There is evidence that the general easing of bank credits is reaching the smaller centers. After downward tendency for some months, total bank loans are increasing, showing funds going into use.

"Excluding New York City with its large security transactions this indicator of business turnover is now slightly less than the weekly average of last year and slightly greater than the first quarter of 1928, with the seasonal decline this year less than the seasonal decline last year.

Savings Accounts Climb.

"New York savings bank deposits since the first of the year show steady net increase, substantially greater than last year's corresponding months. Elsewhere some districts show moderate increases over last year and others slight losses.

"New February life insurance business at $1,003,000,000 exceeded February, 1929, by 3 per cent.

"In most sections a marked increase in receipts of building and loan associations in comparison with closing months of 1929 is seen.

"Farm loans report slight increase with marked decrease in delinquencies and foreclosures as compared with last year and the previous year. Funds for good farm loans seem reasonably available. City mortgages show smaller volume than last year and year before with a small increase in delinquencies and foreclosures. Adequate funds are reported available for conservative new loans.

Installment Sales Static.

"Reports indicate installment sales approximately equal to last year with no marked increase in delinquencies.

"Upon the basis of progress already made this year, and more matured plans of the various fields of business, it is now possible to restate in larger totals earlier estimates of probable expenditures in 1930 for equipment and new construction. Utilities of all kinds contemplate such expenditures this year to an aggregate of $3,250,000,000, as against $2,863,000,000 last year.

"Other private construction in all of its forms, it now seems probable, will reach at least as large as last year.

"In the construction industries there are continued signs of im-

Charging Animal Slain as Heir to Throne Cranks Camera.

Rhino Camp, Uganda, March 23 (A. P.).—It was announced today that the Prince of Wales had a narrow escape from an angry bull elephant while taking motion pictures March 15. The prince was so intent on his picture that he failed to realize his danger, and the animal was shot by his companions, crashing to the ground barely 20 yards from the camera.

The incident occurred while the prince was on a two-day hunting expedition. The elephant, apparently enraged by the invasion of his retreat, charged down a hill toward the spot where the camera had been set up. Other hunters shouted a warning to the prince, but he ignored them. The picture was still being ground out when the great beast fell.

Besides the elephant pictures, the prince got some good films of the black rhinoceros, but has not yet sighted a white rhino, of which he wants a photograph for his collection.

This tiny port on the River Nile was the scene of unprecedented activity when the prinbe started yesterday on his safari in the Belgian Congo.

Smoking a pipe, the heir to the British throne stood quietly on shore amid the general din of native porters, chatting with the Belgian officials who had arranged for his hunting trip. Clad in the comfortable, rush-stained outfit he likes to wear, he looked the picture of health. His face was bronzed by weeks in the open under the African sun.

WOMAN SWALLOWS POISON IN HOME ROW

Battles for Life as Police Seek to Learn Exact Cause of Act.

MAN DECLINES TO TALK

While Mrs. Verdie Bierley, 38 years old, of Ogden street near Center street northwest, lay near death in Garfield Hospital yesterday, police were attempting to unravel a domestic entanglement that caused her to take a heavy dose of poison about 3 o'clock yesterday morning at their home.

Only Charles W. King, jr., whose real estate office is on New York avenue near Ninth street northwest, and her son, Buddie, 12 years old, were in the house when Mrs. Bierley took the poison. Tenth Precinct police were called and took Mrs. Bierley to the hospital. Attendants last night said it would be several days before she would be out of danger if she lives and that her chances are slim.

"I took the poison because I was so nervous and worried," Mrs. Bierley said yesterday. "I wanted to go back to my husband, but Mr. King didn't want me to."

Mr. King gave the address of 1519 Monroe street to the police, but it was learned that he is separated from his wife. He owns the house

SENATE DUE TO PASS TARIFF BILL TODAY

Measure Will Then Go Into Conference; Much Routine Work Remains.

SMOOT IS FELICITATED

(Associated Press.)

A final blast of oratory on the merits and demerits of the tariff bill and a move to return it to committee to limit the revision in the interest of agriculture are the only obstacles standing in the way of Senate passage of the long-standing Hawley-Smoot measure.

Passage is virtually assured some time today after seven or eight speeches from factional leaders. The measure, carrying increased protection on nearly every farm product in the tariff list and a general revision up and down of the industrial rate schedules, was completed by the Senate Saturday night after nearly seven months of sharp debate.

At variance in hundreds of particulars with the measure passed by the House last May, the bill upon passage will be returned to the House which, in turn, will ask a conference with the Senate to adjust the differences.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, veteran Republican tariff leader, does not expect the conferees to get down to

Motor Accident Dangers Not One Sided, Envoy Says

All Traffic Regulations Should Be Obeyed With or Without Diplomatic Immunity, San Salvador Charge d'Affaires Avers.

Members of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington are constantly in danger of being injured by reckless resident auto owners, Senor Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, First Secretary and Charge d'Affaires of the El Salvador Legation, contends in a letter written in reply to the query sent all foreign ambassadors and ministers regarding diplomatic immunity from District traffic regulations.

His letter, which comes after comments from several other envoys, follows:

I have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 19th inst., and in response thereto I desire to state that the fact that the traffic regulations should be obeyed with or without diplomatic immunity appears to me to be an incontrovertible truth which seems childish and absurd to discuss. All agree that everybody should obey these rules without any discrimination.

You direct my attention to an editorial published in your paper under the caption "Diplomats in Traffic," and you observe: "The Post regards this matter with considerable concern. It is one which may disturb the friendly relations existing between the citizens of Washington and the members of the Diplomatic Corps and is a source of danger to Washington residents."

I take great exception to this statement. That the Diplomatic Corps or any of its members constitute "a constant source of danger to Washington residents" is inconceivable. Your editorial refers to "the habitual recklessness of many members of the Diplomatic Corps, especially young bloods who take delight in violating the traffic rules and then escaping the penalty by invoking their diplomatic immunity."

Members of the Diplomatic Corps are not selected by their respective countries at random. They are educated, intelligent persons and they are deeply conscious of their responsibilities and of the moral duty imposed upon them to particularly respect everything that comes under Rover Promises Sweeping Quiz Into Charges Against Trio.

BURKE SUSPENSION TO BE AIRED TODAY

MURRAY EXPECTED TO SUPPORT OTHERS

Foster Woman Is Principal Witness in Probe on "Extortion."

Evidence relating to charges of conspiring to extortion brought against Policeman Ardie C. Swortzel, James Crotts and John Elgin will be laid before the grand jury tomorrow, District Attorney Leo A. Rover announced last night.

The three men went to a house on First street near Thomas street northwest early last Wednesday morning, and Swortzel is alleged by Rose Marie oster, an inmate of the house, to have demanded that she give him $30 for "protection for working on his beat."

Crotts was shot and seriously wounded a few minutes later by Policema nS. F. Gravely, of the Third Precinct, when he attempted to escape as the girl haled Gravely and Detective W. F. Burke and told them of the alleged attempt to "shake her down."

Girl Chief Witness.

The Foster girl will be the principal witness to be heard by the grand jury, Frances O'Brien, who lived at the First tareet house also will be called, as will Hugh C. Hummel, of Plainfield, N. J., who was in the place at the time and has given the police a signed affidavit saying that just before the shooting he heard one of the girls curse and declare that she would not "give any one $30."

Gravely, who was arrested Saturday and released in $1,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and Burke, who was susbecoming an officer, in that he had pended on Saturday for conduct un- "shown undue interest" in the Foster girl, also will be heard by the grand jury.

No warrant will be issued for Burke's arrest as an active participant in the shooting of Crotts, it was learned on unquestionable authority last night. In a letter written Saturday to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, Crandal Mackey, attorney for Swortzel, Crotts and Elgin, had demanded the arrest.

Declines to Discuss Letter.

Mackey charged that Burke had been quoted as shouting, "shoot him, Gravely, shoot him," just before the shots were fired, and that by thus instigating Gravely to fire, he had become an active principal participant in the shooting and therefore equally liable to prosecution with Gravely.

Beyond admitting that he had received Mackey's letter, Maj. Pratt last night declined to discuss its contents or to indicate what action, if any, might be taken in consequence. From other sources, however, it was learned definitely that Mackey's demand will be ignored and that Burke will not be arrested.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Murray will submit a report today to Police Inspector Thaddeus Bean, who is investigating the shooting, in which Murray will contradict the affidavit given by Burke to Inspector Bean on Saturday in which the detective denied that he had ever pleaded with Murray to nolle prosse a charge against the Foster girl of conducting a disorderly house.

Tell of Arrest.

Policemen Wanamaker and Mansfield, of the First Precinct, signed statements for Inspector Bean in which they told of arresting the girl in a raid last November 13, and of her subsequent release because, they charged, Burke had 'gone to the front" to Murray in her behalf.

The policemen said that after her arrest the girl had been released on $500 bond, and that later her attorney, Denny Hughes, had told Murray she would plead guilty and pay a fine if the amount were set at $100. This was satisfactory to Murray, and her trial was set for February 27.

On that date, Wannamaker said, he had been called to Murray's office, where he found Burke. He declared that the detective had pleaded with the prosecutor to nolle prosse the charge, explaining that the girl had left the District and that if the case were pressed he would have to reimburse the bondsman. Burke also promised, Wanamaker said, that if the girl ever returned to the District he would arrest her himself so that the case could be reopened.

Swear to Interview.

Mansfield testified that although he had not been present at that discussion, Murray had later told him the details substantially as sworn to by Wanamaker.

Both policemen swore that they had interviewed the girl in the House of Detention after the shooting and that when they asked her where she was on the date set for her trial, when Burke was said to have been pleading with Murray for her freedom, she replied: "I was in the District, across the street from the courthouse, but I was told not to go to court."

Murray's statement substantiating those of Wanamaker and Mansfield, is expected to be received by Inspector Bean this morning.

Burke and Gravely were said to have been present in an automobile at the First street address at the time of the shooting because they were seeking a man wanted in connection of a hold-up of the same place the preceding Sunday morning. This man, said to have been the sweetheart of one of the girls, was arrested by Burke in a local hotel shortly after the shooting.

Two New Planets Still Being Sought

Possibility Remains Others May Be Found, Tucson Scientist Asserts.

Tucson, Ariz., March 23 (A.P.).—Before the echoes of the discovery of the new trans-Neptunian Planet had died away, Dr. A. E. Douglass, director of the Steward Observatory at the University of Arizona, today said astronomers are searching for at least two more such bodies.

Dr. Douglas, now 63 years old, has been connected with astronomical work since, in his youth, he first used the old colonial telescope "B" of his great grandfather, Andrew Ellicott. For a decade he was an associate of the late Dr. Percival Lowell, who predicted the discovery of the recently found planet.

"It is the beginning of the solution of a long series of attempts made by many different astronomers to locate an additional planet," Dr. Douglas said.

"Since this new planet is much fainter than was expected, there remains a possibility that others may be found. The method used for such investigation will consist of putting some skilled assistant to work photographing over and over the suspected region of the sky."

Inland Steel Company Director Is Improving

Miami Beach, Fla., March 23 (A.P.). Dave P. Thompson, of Chicago, director of the Inland Steel Co., critically ill in an ocean-front hotel here following upon an attack of pneumonia, was reported "resting easily and slightly improved" today by attendants. Oxygen has been administered at intervals for the last two days, physicians said, and they ordered additional supplies and equipment to be brought here by airplane yesterday. Two planes were reported on their way here last night, but neither had arrived today.

Alexis Thompson, Chicago, son of the steel director, is at the bedside as are also Maj. and Mrs. Victor Beaufort, of London. Mrs. Beaufort is the divorced wife of Mr. Thompson.

Man Hit by Automobile Suffers Fracture of Leg

Knocked off the running board of a parked automobile on which he was standing on the Fort Washington road, 3 miles south of the District line, by the impact of a crash from another machine, Wilbur Johnson, colored, 26 years old, fell to the road and suffered a fracture of the leg when the machine rolled over the limb yesterday afternoon.

Johnson, who lives near the scene of the accident on the Fort Washington road, close to Bellevue Magazine, was admitted to Casualty Hospital for treatment. The man said the driver of the car stopped and inquired about his injuries before driving away without leaving his name. District police had not record of the accident.

Police Hunt Parents Of Abandoned Infant

Police last night were endeavoring to locate the parents of a one-day-old baby found by two youths abandoned in a valise Saturday night at Seventh and F streets northwest.

Although the baby suffered from exposure, authorities at the Children's Hospital said last night that he was doing nicely. Police believe that the baby had been placed on the curb only a few minutes before discovered

BISHOP SHIPMAN, 60, EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Prelate Lost Eye and Was Gassed While Serving in War as Chaplain.

WIDOW IS KNOWN HERE

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, Episcopal Suffragan Bishop of New York, and a veteran of the World War, died suddenly today at the dinner table in his home of a heart ailment. He was 60 years old.

As chaplain of the Twenty-seventh Division during the war, he lost an eye and was gassed. Four years ago he suffered a nervous breakdown, but recently had been considered in bettetr health.

At the Chapel of the Intercession this morning he confirmed 120 persons. He returned home apparently in good health, but was stricken suddenly.

Mrs. Shipman, socially prominent and daughter of Edson Bradley, of Washington and New York, collapsed. Mrs. Shipman is the owner of Seaview Terrace, one of the finest residences in Newport, R. I.

Bishop Shipman, a native of Lexington, Ky., was educated at Columbia College and General Theological Seminary. He was chaplain at West Point for a time and from 1907 to 1921 was rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest Here. He had been bishop for nearly nine years.

As Julie F. Bradley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. ington, where she was born and reared, residing here until her marriage to Bishop Shipman. Until about twelve years ago the Edson family made their home in a palatian mansion on Dupont circle, equipped with a theater among other costly appointments, which has since been torn down to make way for stores at that corner. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Edson, the latter dying several years later, moved to Newport, R. I.

Two Face Rum Charges After Auto Is Trailed

Charged with possessing and transporting liquor, Joseph Russell Becroft, 38 years old, of Sherrier place near Fifty-second street northwest, and James R. Lyon, 20 years old, of M street near Thirty-fourth street northwest, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective W. R. Laflin, of the Eighth Precinct Station.

The detective trailed their car for several blocks before he halted it at Fifteenth and Euclid streets. Detective Laflin alleges he found one half gallon of liquor in the car.

Engineer Gives Up Life Saving Train

Sets Brakes and Dies in His Cab; Nine Pullmans Stay on Track.

Mansfield, Ohio, March 23 (A.P.).—Charles A. Bell, of Mansfield, engineer on the fast New York-Detroit Limited, No. 105, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, averted a bad pile-up at the cost of his life when his engine left the rails near Spring Mill Junction, six miles west of here early today.

With only a few seconds to choose between leaping for his life and facing sure death in his cab, Bell remained at his post to set the air brakes when he felt the heavy engine hit the ties and careen toward a ditch at the side of the right of way.

The setting of the brakes stopped nine Pullmans which made up the train and about 80 sleeping passengers were saved from possible death or injury. The engine, with Bell imprisoned in the cab, burrowed a hole eight feet deep in the soft earth. Fireman P. F. Jenson, of Mansfield, was thrown out of the cab badly scalded.

G. O. P. Louisiana Leader Succumbs

Emile Kuntz Was Graduate of Georgetown College in Capital.

New Orleans, La., March 23 (A.P.). Emile Kuntz, collector of customs and Republican national committeeman of Louisiana, died at his home here late today. His death was sudden, his intimate friends not knowing he was ill.

For 30 years Mr. Kuntz was the Republican leader of Louisiana. He first became active in politics in 1901 when he was elected chairman of the Republican central committee of Louisiana. Since then his influence had spread and he had acquired a reputation for settlement of factional differences.

Mr. Kuntz spent nearly all of his life in New Orleans, although he was at Vera Cruz, Mexico, in April, 1865. Later he spent a few years in New York. He was a graduate of Georgetown College at Washington, D. C.

He was appointed collector of customs for the port of New Orleans during the Harding administration.

WomanGivesGypsy$13; Fails to See Her Again

Mrs. Edith Evans, of 307 Van street northwest, is confident that 13 is her unlucky number.

She told the police yesterday that on March 20 a gypsy woman visited her home and promised to make her wealthy if she would give her $13 to pray over for several days. Mrs. Evans drew the money from the bank and gave it to the gypsy, who promised to return it Saturday. The fortune teller failed to appear Saturday and when Mrs. Evans told her husband Arthur he decided to tell the police.

PRISON PRODUCT PROBLEM STUDIED

Meeting in Richmond Today Will Considerr Effects of Cooper-Hawes Bill.

11 STATES REPRESENTED

Richmond, Va., March 23 (A.P.).—Three score delegates from eleven States tomorrow will discuss the problem of keeping institution inmates at work producing commodities that can be marketed under the new Cooper-Hawes bill, to become effective in 1934, at the opening of the two-day Eastern-Southern conference on State institutional labor.

The meeting, called by prison and public welfare officials of Virginia, is attended by representatives from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Kentucky and Maryland, R. S. Humphries, representing the national committee on prisons and labor, announced.

Gov. John Garland Pollard will welcome the State institution authorities tomorrow morning at the opening of the conference, which is to continue through Tuesday.

Besides discuisson of the Cooper-Hawes bill, enabling States to pass laws regulating the sale of institutional products made in other States, other topics scheduled for consideration will include convict labor on roads and the practicability of interchanging institution-made commodities betwen States.

Among the speakers will be Frank Bane, Virginia commmissioner of public welfare; Henry G. Shirley, Virginia highway commissioner; John W. Snook, former president of the wardens association, and former warden at Boise, Idaho, and Atlanta, Ga.

Tomorrow afternoon the group will inspect the Virginia State Penitentiary. Tuesday the conference will continue without a fixed program.

Astor Yacht Used On Scientific Trip

Group Sails for Research Work in Galapalos Island Group.

Miami, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—The yacht Mourmahal, owned by Vincent Astor, sailed tonight with the owner and a group of scientists aboard for a month's cruise of the Galapagos Islands, Pacific group, in search of new species of plant and animal life.

Mr. Astor and members of the party arrived here late today and proceeded directly to the yacht. The scientists expect to assemble plant and animal life on Indefatigable Island, one of the little known members of the Galapagos group.

Two From Maryland Die as Boat Capsizes

Hagerstown, Md., March 23.—William Mort, 45, of near Great Cacapon, west of here, and Clarence Unger, 35, of near Hancock, were drowned last night while crossing the Potomac River in a boat. The men had a light on the boat, and when persons living near the river who had observed them pull off from the shore, saw the light suddenly disappear they investigated, and this morning found the empty capsized boat some distance downstream.

A large number of residents of Grear Cacapon have been grappling for the bodies throughout the day.

Man Ends Life, Buries Himself at Same Time

Wilbur, Wash., March 23 (A.P.).—The story of a miner who ended his own life and buried himself at the same time was told here today by Ben Olson, another miner, who discovered the grave.

Olson said he discovered the tragedy in an assessment claim near Kellar. Herman Vogler, owner of the claim, who had been missing since last winter, apparently placed several sticks of dynamite in the roof of the tunnel and then sat underneath until the fuse caps exploded them. The debris which fell killed the man and covered the body.

FOUR WOMEN, MAN ARE HURT BY AUTOS

Man and Wife Injured When Car Crashes and Overturns on Baltimore Boulevard.

PEDESTRIAN IS STRUCK

Jolted severely when the automobile in which they were riding overturned in a sideswiping crash on the Baltimore boulevard at the southern limits of Hyattsville at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a woman received serious injuries and her husband sustained minor hurts.

They are Mrs. Mary Twiford, 52 years old, of 498 M street southwest, who received a concussion of the brain, deep cuts on the head and lacerations of the face, and her husband, John Twiford, 63 years old, a gardener at the Capitol, who suffered contusions and abrasions of the forehead, lacerations of the fingers and minor head injuries.

Both were taken by the Prince Georges Rescue Squad to Casualty Hospital, where the man was treated and dismissed, and preparations were made to admit the womau. After treatment, however, she insisted on leaving against the advice of Dr. J. Rogers Young, according to hospital attendants.

Prince Georges County police said the accident occurred when the machine, operated by Twiford, was sideswiped in a collision with a car being operated in the same direction toward Washington by Milton H. Unger, of 312 Hoffman street, Baltimore.

Virginia Fitzgerald, 34 years old, and Nena Page, 37 years old, both of 1531 Euclid street northwest, were treated at the Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon for slight injuries received in an auto accident which occurred at the intersection of Defense and Crane highways, Maryland. After treatment the women went home.

Mrs. A. M. Lischgi, 75 years old, of 813 Fifth street northwest, suffered cuts and bruises yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an auto operated by Howard C. Parker, of 1640 Kalorama road. Mrs. Lischgi was treated at the Emergency Hospital.

William F. Allwine, 35 years old, lieutenant in the Jefferson District Fire Department of Arlington County, Va., was seriously injured about the hips at noon yesterday when crushed against the door of the station house and a truck speeding to a brush blaze. His younger brother, Freddy, was driving the machine, and a third brother, Chief Frank Allwine, had telephoned in the alarm.

Mr. Allwine was standing on the left running board of the truck, near the rear. As the apparatus swung from the building he was caught between its side and the heavy station door. The truck continued on its way, and Chief Allwine, who arrived just after the accident, picked up his brother and brought him to Emergency Hospital.

Although not likely to prove fatal, his injuries will probably confine the fireman to the hospital for several months, it was stated. Several bones about his hips were broken, and X-rays to be taken today are expected to reveal additional fractures.

Firemen of the Jefferson Department said that the brush blaze which indirectly led to Mr. Allwine's injury was the fourth answered yesterday morning. They attributed an epidemic of such fires to "gross carelessness or malicious intent."

$50,000 Fire Damages Brucetown Woolen Mill

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 23.—Fire last night wrecked the plant of the Brucetown Woolen Mills, Inc., in Frederick County, with a loss of $50,000 partially covered by insurance. Several of the walls of the three-story brick structure had collapsed by the time Winchester firemen arrived and little of value was saved. The origin was undetermined. Only a watchman was there at the time.

The original plant, erected nearly a century ago by the Jobe family, had been enlarged by a new company, which only recently installed modern machinery. The mill had been manufacturing uniform cloth for military preparatory schools regularly since last summer, and had many orders on hand. J. Victor Arthur, secretary, said today the mill will be rebuilt immediately.

Smoke-Screen Rum Car Eludes Police Chase

A rumrunner, emitting a heavy smoke screen from his auto eluded an Arlington County policeman after a long chase last night.

C. Wayne Carr, of the Arlington County police, picked up the trail of the rum-laden auto at Columbia Pike and Mount Vernon Boulevard and followed it through Rosslyn. The pursued machine sped over the Key Bridge into Washington and escaped. Carr was with Raymond Crack, Arlington policeman, when he was shot by rumrunners in February and is keeping a constant vigilance on all the Arlington County thoroughfares.

Union Soldier, 90, Honored at Party

Daughters of Veterans Give Surprise Affair on His Birthday.

Convis Parker, quartermaster of Burnside Post, Grand Army of the Republic, was honored yesterday afternoon on the occasion of his ninetieth birthday at his home, 1901 Fifteenth street northwest, with a surprise party by the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

The group was headed by Mrs. Anna Horn, president of that organization; F. J. Young, commander of the Department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, and both Col. and Mrs. O. H. Oldroyd.

In the party which honored the aged veteran, a resident of Washington for 40 years, were Mrs. Hattie Canada, Miss Anna Hage, Mrs. Mary Van Ness Fauth, Mrs. Caroline M. Gury, Mrs. Kathryn Rahn, Mrs. Anna Eicker, Mrs. Esther Lippold, Mrs. Isabel Bontz, Mrs. Nan Slattery, Mrs. Cora Davis, Mrs. E. Helen Temple, Miss Jennie Hamilton, Mrs. E. D. Shaw, Mrs. Allie Boss, Miss Alice Lippold and Adolph Shippert among others.

RUM RING CHARGED TO CUSTOMS AGENTS

Echoes of Foran Accusations Reverberate in Note to Senator Norris.

INVESTIGATION IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

Echoes of charges made against Col. Arthur F. Foran, comptroller of the Port of New York, by the Anti-saloon League of New Jersey, were heard yesterday in a letter forwarded to Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, by Ernest S. Braidwood, discharged customs agent.

The letter purported to disclose a conspiracy among customs officials at New York to nullify the prohibition law. It charged corruption and asserted that Norris should include an investigation of the Customs Bureau in his resolution to authorize a Senate inquiry into enforcement conditions.

Foran, whose nomination for reappointment is before President Hoover, was charged with opposing the dry laws and with being "personally unsympathetic to prohibition." Despite opposition from the New Jersey dry league, Senators Kean and Baird, of New Jersey, recommended the reappointment of Foran. His term expired January 31.

Braidwood, in his letter, said that those who had knowledge of the alleged smuggling ring included "several special Treasury agents; at least three prohibition agents, two Federal assistant district attorneys; several inspectors of customs, two United States appraiser employes, besides an official of a steamship line operating vessels for the United States Shipping Board."

Braidwood suggested that "certain men" be called to Washington who can testify as to the "dishonesty of enforcement officials, which the Senate should be willing to have disclosed for the public benefit."

Braidwood charged that politicians attempted to interfere with the removal of "crooked agents" and that customs officials winked at transportation of large lots of liquor to the homes of Federal officials.

A raid on Foran's hunting lodge in Hunterdon County last January was made the basis for the Antisaloon League's charges. No liquor was found during the raid, but the league presented an affidavit stating that gambling devices, a bar and empty bottles had been found.

Rum Atuos Elude Pursuit of Police

Drivers Risk Collisions in Traffic in Wild Dash; Another Is Held.

Risking a crash almost momentarily in weaving perilous paths through traffic at Silver Spring and along Georgia avenue northwest near the District line, two suspected liquor-laden automobiles eluded Thirteenth Precinct police Saturday night after outdistancing Montgomery County police when the arrested a man in another car for investigation.

Informed that rum runners were heading into Washington at a fast clip along the Colesville pike, Sergt. Guy Jones and three other Montgomery County policemen drove to a point near White Oak, where the two speeding cars passed. In the ensuing chase, according to their report, another car whized by and succeeded in blocking the road after swerving dangerously from side to side. Police fired several shots, which halted the car. They arrested the driver, John Albert Tolson, 24 years old, who gave two Washington addresses.

At Georgia avenue, in the District, Thirteenth Precinct police took up the chase, but the terrific speed set by the suspected rum runners through traffic, passing on the wrong side of street cars, and endangering both pedestrians and other motorists, enabled them to outdistance the police cars.

$8,000,000 Bond Issue For Buenos Aires Made

Public offering of a new issue of $8,000,000 6½ per cent external sinking fund gold bonds of 1930 of the province of Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, is being made today by a group headed by the First National Old Colony Corporation, and including Harris, Forbes & Co. and Continental Illinois Co., these bonds being dated February 1, 1930, and maturing August 1, 1961. They are priced at 95½ and interest, to yield 6.85 per cent to maturity.

Almost three years have elapsed since the Province of Buenos Aires has made a new public issue of external bonds. In February, 1928, a $41,000,000 6 per cent issue of Buenos Aires bonds was placed in this market but this was entirely a refunding operation, and did not increase the volume of outstanding dollar bonds. The present financing serves to supply the province with funds to construct schoolhouses.

19 Bombardment Planes Arrive at Montgomery

Montgomery, Ala., March 23 (A.P.). Nineteen bombardment planes under command of Maj. H. J. Knerr, which left Langley Field, Va., this morning en route to Mather Field, Calif., to participate in annual air maneuvers, landed at Maxwell Field here early this afternoon.

Eight of the planes arrived at 1:30 p. m., and the remaining eleven, which had stopped at Pope Field, N. C., for fuel, checked in 30 minutes later. Monday the planes will fly to Dallas, Tex., the next overnight stop on the six-day cross country trip.

ALLEGED DISRESPECT ANGERS SUMMERALL

Exact Nature of Aberdreen Incident Is Not Made Known Here.

OFFICERS ARE REBUKED

Disciplinary measures may be taken against the officers and men at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, who acted in a disrespectful manner toward Gen. C. P. Summerall, chief of staff, during a demonstration late last week.

The exact nature of the occurrence is not known, although Gen. Summerall left the field in disgust and officers in charge of the demonstration of the gun were rebuked. Lack of courtesy to the ranking officer of the Army is given as the cause of the reprimand.

Gen. Summerall went to the post to witness the demonstration. Officers and men in charge of the trial acted in a manner that was distasteful to the chief of staff. Prompt exception to the conduct was taken by the general and he expressed himself firmly to Col. Edward M. Shinkle, commanding officer.

INSTITUTE PLANNING SESSION AT VIRGINIA

Harry F. Byrd Will Conduct Round Table at Public Affairs Meeting.

UNIVERSITY TO BE HOST

Charlottesville, Va., March 23 (A.P.). Dr. Charles G. Maphis, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, announces that eight round tables have been arranged for the fourth annual session which will be held at the University of Virginia from August 3 to 16.

Harry Flood Byrd, former Governor of Virginia, is one of the distinguished authorities who will direct one of these discussion groups. "Reorganization of State Government" is the subject to be considered under the supervision of the former Virginia executive.

Arthur J. Morris, of New York, president of the Morris Plan Banks, will lead a round table on "Consumer Credit in America and Its Relation to Present and Future Prosperity." This discussion will be for only one week, but the other round tables will continue throughout the entire two weeks of the session. Mr. Morris is a native of Virginia and an alumnus of the university.

"Business and Government" will be the subject of a round table to be conducted by Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, professor of government in the University of California at Los Angeles. "Agricultural Problems" will be taken up under the direction of C. J. Galpin, economist in charge of farm problems and rural life in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the United States Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Thomas H. Reed, professor of political science in the University of Michigan, will supervise the discussion of "The Administration of Public Business." Since the founding of the institute, Prof. Reed has each summer directed one of the most popular round tables in the series.

Maj. LeRoy Hodges, managing director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, will continue the round table on "The Economic and Industrial Development of the South," which was held last summer. Another to be carried on again is the discussion of "Latin-American Relations," by Dr. Clarence Haring, of Harvard University.

"The Task of the Country Church" again will be led by Dr. Henry W. McLaughlin, director of the country life department of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Each of these round table leaders will preside over at least one of the open forum discussions which are to be held in Cabell Hall every morning while the institute is in session.

Wife of President Of Harvard Dead

Mrs. Anna Parker Lowell Entered Fully Into Life at University.

Cambridge, Mass., March 23 (A.P.). Mrs. Anna Parker Lowell, wife of Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, died at the Lowell home here today after an illness extending over almost a year.

Mrs. Lowell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Lowell, of Boston, and was a distant relative of her husband.

She entered fully into the life of the university. Her Sunday afternoon teas for students particularly were widely attended and endeared her to each new generation of Harvard men. Last June the Lowells observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, but the occasion was marred because Mrs. Lowell already had been taken ill.

Rescue Squad Called As Cake Chokes Woman

Mrs. Emma Koennel, 45 years old, of 902 Webster street northwest, was almost strangled early last night when a piece of cake she was eating went into her windpipe.

Mrs. Koennel was finishing her dinner with her family and a guest when the cake became lodged in her throat. Her family, alarmed, called the fire rescue squad. Lieut. O. B. Holmes, in charge of the second rescue squad, responded and worked with the woman until her condition became better. Emergency Hospital's ambulance also responded, and, after treatment, Mrs. Koennel was allowed to remain at home.

BRIAND HOLDS ALOOF WAITING CONCESSION ON PART OF ITALY

United States, but that he got no support from Washington and refused to do it alone.

The Paris press today is filled with protests against the interpretation being placed in London newspapers on the withdrawal of all the French delegates, even over the week end. British commentators interpret this as a clear indication that France wants to break up the conference. French editorial writers vigorously deny that this is the case.

France-Italian Deadlock Complete.

The tenor of comment here is that France will cooperate fully with the other four powers, but the conviction is expressed that it is up to Mr. MacDonald to induce Italy to abandon her demand for parity with France.

Lord Tyrrel heard from M. Briand that the veteran French foreign minister is ready to return to London to make any kind of pact circumstances permit, but M. Briand made it cear that he has nothing further to discuss with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, unti Itay changes her attitude. Deadock is compete on this point, M. Briand informed the British Ambassador.

He aso made it cear that he regards a five-power pact as out of the question as ong as Itay maintains her present attitude.

In refusing to consider France in any way responsibe for this impasse, M. Briand has French pubic opinion behind him. The Tardieu government has nothing to fear if he remains firm for the opposition in the Chamber of Deputies is soidy anti-Fascist.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The London naval conference is waiting to see what France proposes to do next and despatches from Paris leave the French attitude shrouded in perhaps intentional mystery. The American and British delegations will take advantage of the lull in major conference activities to hold a joint meeting tomorrow.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow is thought to have made a last and probably hopeless effort to induce Prime Minister MacDonald to offer France some sort of a security agreement as a final, almost posthumous, effort to get a five-power pact.

From the start of the conference Mr. Morrow has concentrated on this objective with energy. Always fertile in expedient, he has made progress at times, but has been defeated by the decision of the United States not even to enter a consultative pact and by the political opinion here against any further British commitments on the continent.

Morrow's Fight Appears Lost.

This opinion overrode other views that Great Britain could afford to make some gesture toward implementing article XVI of the League of Nations' covenant to give France more guarantees against attack. Mr. MacDonald's attitude and powerful support obtained elsewhere has at times caused hope in that part of the American camp which has disbelieved in the efficacy of a three-power agreement and concentrated on a five-power pact. But the political situation here—in the Cabinet, in Parliament, in the press and in the country—has been too strong and Mr. Morrow's gallant fight has apparently been lost.

He has stuck to his post like a machine gunner surrounded by the enemy long after the position had been abandoned by his comrades and seems still to be firing a few probably futile shots. Those who are acquainted with the details of his work know that where he failed no one could have succeeded.

Although the course of the coming week is not clear, a clash on another front between France and Italy would not be unexpected. Italy is anxious to liquidate the five-power failure and go home, her delegates believing that further negotiations here with France are dangerous as well as futile in view of the ill feelings aroused.

France May Seek Global Agreement.

France, so far as can be learned from Paris advices, although not even the chiefs of the other delegations here are clear tonight as to Premier Andre Tardieu's intentions, intends to send part of her delegation back with M. Briand following later to try and secure a five-power agreement on the global versus category compromise in order to take this to Geneva for future parleys there.

This will cause delay, and anti-French opinion here believes further that the French tactics will be devoted to blocking a three-power pact. However that may be, it is not certain the French will be able to get their "basis" for future conferences agreed to by Great Britain or United States or Italy. The view of other powers is that France was given great concessions in this matter in the belief that she would make concessions, when it came to figures, which have not been made. It is probable, therefore, that strenuous opposition will develop to ratification of the deal by which Great Britain and the United States surrendered part of their old view that limitation of navies should be by categories of ships and not by total tonnage.

At no period of the conference has the position been so obscure or so dangerous. France in one sense seems through, and so does Italy, but France was invited here and can not be sent home, and her opportunities for delaying matters and embroiling things still further are obvious if M. Tardieu cares to play this game.

Hoover Will Not Order Return of Delegation

There is not the slightest possibility that President Hoover will recall Secretary of State Stimson and the other American delegates now at the London conference on naval disarmament, it was said in authoritative quarters yesterday.

The delegation will return only after its work is completed whether it succeeds in negotiating a five-power treaty, a three-power agreement or fails to negotiate anything at all.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, one of the delegates in London, made known the President's stand when he stated there in the early stages of the conference, "We will stick until we settle."

It is known that the President has no intention, and never did have, to order the American delegates back until the conference comes to a final conclusion in the regular way.

Liquor Smugglers Fight One Another

Snipers at El Paso Blaze Away by Mistake for Nearly One Hour.

El Paso, Tex., March 23 (A.P.).—Liquor smugglers working near El Paso-Juarez international bridge got their signals mixed last night and fought among themselves an hour while United States border patrol men watched the battle from a nearby vantage point. No fatalities on this side of the border were reported.

After officers had arrested Aristeo Macias, 16, and Guadalupe Hernadez, a 26-year-old woman, who had waded the Rio Grande with about 50 gallons of liquor, snipers stationed on the American side to protect the waders opened fire. Another band of snipers on the Mexican side, believing United States officers were firing on the youth and young woman, answered the fire. The battle raged between the snipers within half a mile of downtown El Paso for nearly an hour before the smugglers learned they were firing on each other.

Two Youths Killed In Airplane Crash

High School Student Pilot and Friend Die as Craft Falls in Florida.

Tampa, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—Irwin A. Yarnell, 17, of Highland Park, a high school student, and Donald Darling, 22, of Lake Wales, were killed here today in an airplane crash near the Municipal Airport. Yarnell, a licensed pilot, took the plane up from the Municipal Airport just before noon and had risen to about 80 feet when it stalled and spiralled downward. It nose-dived into a stump.

Both youths were unconscious when spectators extricated them from the cabin. Yarnell died on the way to the hospital and Darling died an hour and a half later.

Yarnell passed the Government test for a private license last July and rented a plane at the airport this morning for a flight with Darling. The two youths had been in the air less than five minutes when the crash occurred.

DOCKS FIRE CAUSES $4,000,000 DAMAGE

400 Cars and Two Piers Are Consumed as Hoboken Blaze Spreads.

FIVE SHIPS ARE SAVED

Hoboken, N. J., March 23 (A.P.).—The city's worst fire since 1900 which started at 10 o'clock last night and wrecked the upper part of the waterfront, was believed under control at 6 o'clock tonight. Two piers of the Lamport & Holt Line were ruined and more than 400 automobiles destroyed. Estimates of the damage vary from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000.

Two New York fire boats continued tonight to play powerful streams of water on the wreckage to prevent spread of the fire. Pine timbers forming the flooring for the pier sidings, covered with concrete, were still smouldering. Danger of the flames reaching other piers has passed.

ADD ADD.

Five vessels of the Lamport & Holt Line—the 21,000-ton liner Voltaire, the Cid, the Strabo, the Bruyere and the Bernini were towed to safety in the middle of the river by fire boats. The freighter Cid, loaded with a cargo of oil, caused grave fears at first that if flames reached here there would be an explosion that would precipitate an uncontrollable conflagration.

The fire started in a pile of oil and rags about 200 feet behind pier 16. A brisk wind carried the flames to this pier along a float bridge, which is used by floats to put freight cars ashore. From the float bridge, the flames spread downward, attacking the wooden underpinning.

Pier 16, a wooden structure about 500 feet long, was destroyed within a few hours after the fire started. Spreading by means of a heavy layer of oil on the water, the flames then attacked the wooden underpinning of pier 15 and spread along 1,000 feet of bulkhead under the steel structure.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on breaking through the 7-inch concrete flooring which separated them from the blazing foundation of pier 15. With hydraulic rams and electric drills they managed to get at the burning timbers in some places with streams of water. The constant danger that the concrete plaza would collapse, however, necessitated extreme caution on the part of the fire fighters.

400 Persons Fail to Find Aged Missing Preacher

Sylva, N. C., March 23 (A.P.).—Efforts of a posse of more than 400 persons to locate the Rev. W. T. Hawkins, 73, of Cashiers Valley, who disappeared Wednesday from his home in the Cashiers Valley section of Jackson County, failed today after a five-hour search of a wide area near the aged pastor's home.

The search will be continued tomorrow. Mr. Hawkins disappeared Wednesday after leaving his home in search of a cow which had strayed from his pasture. Friends fear he fell from a precipice.

Order Will Force Fox To Defend Finance Plan

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Winfield R. Sheehan, vice president and general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, announced today that he had obtained from Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook an order, returnable next Friday, requiring William Fox to show cause why he should not be prevented from putting into effect the so-called Bancamerica-Blair plan for refinancing the company.

By JAMES HAY, JR.

IF, as now seems possible, Mr. Huston holds on to his chairmanship of the Republican national committee, he will owe his salvation to the psychology of the American people, a psychology that has developed in recent years.

If before the World War an opposition press had blared forth the news that a man in his position had put another organization's money into a marginal stock account, his doom would have been a foregone conclusion.

The boys congregated around the stove in the cross-roads store and the ladies of the village sewing circle would have yammered for his head and filled the valleys with the exulting yell: "Throw the stock gambler out!"

* * * *

BUT since the prewar days a change has come over the spirit of our dreams. We, the American people, have moved out to the cleared ground of frankness in our attitude toward money, stocks and bonds.

Before the war so many of us were financially minus that we got a big compensatory kick out of lamoasting the rich and choir-practicing the good old Rooseveltian chants about wealthy malefactors and the degrading influence of plutocracy.

During the world conflict, however, so many of us grew rich that the rest of us began to think that the big money was within the reach of everybody, and everybody took to reaching. If materialism was a curse, we were eager to see whether it was as bad as advertised.

MOREOVER, we discovered that the stock market was the place to get money. We learned all about margins, bulls and bears. Anybody could beat the market of 1929, and the man who neglected the glittering opportunity was a dolt, a nitwit and a ninny!

When Mr. Huston got his jolt from the Senate committee, leaders of both parties, reacting to the training of earlier years, professed a great horror. Public opinion, they thought, would crucify him.

* * * *

BUT overnight reflection brought another viewpoint. Democrats opined that, to make the Huston doom certain something more devastating must be brought against him. Republicans argued that a Nation which regarded money with affection and approached the stock market with avidity could not display a killing wrath against Mr. Huston without appearing supremely funny, not to say superbly ridiculous.

A certain amount of invective is being loosed against the chairman, but the general idea seems to be that he is a product of his times, the exponent of a national psychology in which two outstanding points are money and "we should worry!"

It is possible, the Huston adherents admit, that even a national psychology may swiftly change, but just now they discern no veering of the psychological weather vanes.

As to Mr. Huston's lobbying—we've investigated lobbyists all winter, and what have we done to them?

FAVORABLE VOTE ON TARIFF BILL DUE IN SENATE TODAY

their labors this week because of the time required for printing the revised voluminous document and the routine formalities of getting it to the conference. The bill probably will be in conference more than a month. Then each house must approve the conference report before the measure is sent to the White House.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee; Senators Watson, Indiana, and Shortridge, California, the ranking Republicans on the committee, and Senators Simmons, North Carolina, and Harrison, Mississippi, ranking Democrats, will be the Senate conferees. Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee, Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts, and Bacharach, New Jersey, the ranking Republicans, and Representatives Garner, Texas, and Collier, Mississippi, ranking Democrats, will form the House conference committee.

Shortridge's selection comes by virtue of the absence in London of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who ranks next to Republican Leader Watson in the finance group.

Senator Smoot was the recipient over the week-end of messages of congratulations from friends all over the country for the manner in which he conducted almost single-handedly the Republican argument.

"I tried my best to be patient and not engender any bad feelings during the entire contest," the 68-year-old Utahan said yesterday with a calmness that undoubtedly prompted the scores of telegrams asking, "How did you do it and keep up?"

Furnifold M. Simmons, the Democratic tariff leader, eight years Smoot's senior, was glad the contest was over, too. The "little giant," as his colleagues call him, was not quite as active on the floor as in prior tariff battles, but behind the scenes his advice on all important controversies always was sought. On the shoulders of genial Pat Harrison fell the burden of the Democratic leadership on the floor.

Democrats did not wait to express their condemnation of the Senate measure.

Can Not Be Defended.

"The bill can not be defended," said a statement issued by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, through the Democratic national committee. "It is a cluster of unredeemed pledges. It is a bundle of bargains and betrayals."

The Texan, who gained a place on the tariff-framing finance committee soon after he entered the Senate, predicted the export debenture plan and the substitute for the flexible provisions, written into the bill by the coalition of Democrats and Republican independents, would be "sandbagged in the conference committee."

"The Smoot-Hawley bill has been 'Grundy-ized,'" Connally asserted. "It breaks the President's pledge contained in his call for the extra session—a 'limited revision of the tariff.'

Farmers to Be Plucked, He Says.

"Under the pretext of revising the tariff as a measure of farm relief, the farmers and consumers generally are to be plucked more closely than ever before. Old duties have been increased and new duties imposed on a variety of other necessities.

"The Republican campaign pledge of 1928 to place agriculture upon a plane of equality with industry," he said, "has been proved to be the same old Republican political hocus-pocus of beguiling the farmer before the election and despoiling him after the election."

Wireless Is Seized By Shansi Forces

"Model Governor" Now Is in Control of Peiping and Tientsin.

Peiping, China, March 23 (A.P.).—The nominal control of the Nanking Nationalist government over North China continues to wane, the latest move of the Shansi forces being to take over the wireless administration here. Yen Hsi-Shan, the so-called "model governor" of Shansi, who is cooperating with Feng Yu-Hsiang and the Kuominchun generals in a hostile movement against President Chiang Kai-Shek, now is in complete control of the Peiping and Tientsin districts.

The northerners at Peiping have taken over the telegraph and telephone offices, the headquarters of the Nationalist commander in chief of the land, naval, and air forces, the residence of Wellington Koo, which had been set aside as a personal residence by President Chiang Kai-Shek, the district Kuomintang headquarters, and various other institutions.

The vernacular newspapers and news agencies in Peiping and Tientsin and the government offices at Tientsin are also under Yen's control.

ESTRANGED WIFE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

in which Mrs. Bierley lived. When asked for an explanation of his presence in the Ogden street residence, he refused to talk.

One of the reasons for the quarrel between Mrs. Bierley and Mr. King was over a younger daughter, Thelma, 17 years old, who is visiting in Richmond. Mr. King had said, according to Mrs. Bierley, that the girl could not return and live in the Ogden street house. Her mother insisted she could.

"I have known Mr. King about twenty years," Mrs. Bierley said, "but I have been going with him only two years. I was tired, though, and I wanted to live with my husband again."

The couple had been visiting an elder daughter of Mrs. Bierley, Mrs. Stambaugh, at Thirty-fifth place near T street northwest, before they returned to Ogden street. Just how long they had been quarreling at her home before Mrs. Brierley went into the bathroom and swallowed the poison she did not know yesterday.

Buddie Bierley was asleep in another room until his mother called him after attempting suicide. He came to her aid, she said, just before she lost consciousness.

"I'm sorry I did it now," Mrs. Bierley said yesterday afternoon, "and I want to live."

H. M. Bierley, the husband, still lives in Washington. He has been separated from his wife for several years.

and a few native huts in a clearing of the papyrus grass that lines the river banks. But yesterday an army of native porters, their black skins glistening with sweat, dashed about with much shouting, carrying on their heads the royal party's baggage, rifles, ammunition, moving-picture camera and other kit, which had been taken off the steamer Lugard to be transferred to waiting motor cars and lorries.

The general uproar was increased by an influx from two other steamers "in port," the Samuel Baker and the Livingstone, which, with the Lugard, comprise the entire fleet of Lake Albert. Such a vast assembly of shipping was never before seen by the dusky inhabitants of Rhino Camp, who all turned out to take advantage of the occasion.

MORE BUILDING IS DUE

provement, except in residential building, which still drags. Contracts awarded in the week ended March 14 totaled $106,000,000, the highest weekly figure in eight weeks. February permits for additions, alterations and repairs in 279 cities show a decided increase in numbers over January, but a smaller total value. * * *

Lumber Business Declines.

"Lumber manufacture shows a decline of 13 per cent for the first ten weeks of the year, compared with last year, and shipments are 12 per cent below last year. The rate of shipments recently shows improvement.

"The railroads, on March 1, had on order 35,400 new cars, as against 37,820 last year and 21,700 two years ago, and locomotives on order were 450, against 291 last year and 171 two years ago. Steel rails ordered since January 1 were 198,000 tons, against 189,000 tons last year and 125,000 two years ago. The program contemplating total expenditures in 1930 for equipment and improvements of $1,050,000,000 is obviously well under way. This means $140,000,000 more in the first six months of 1930 than for the first six months last year. Total employes January 15 in class I railroads were 1,561,000 against 1,594,000 last year and 1,614,000 two years ago. The pay roll total for February, 1930, was higher than for February last year and 4 per cent larger than February two years ago. Carloadings, so far this year, are about 6 per cent off as compared with last year, but the loadings of package freight—so-called less-than-carload freight — representing merchandise moving into consumption, show about only 3 per cent under last year.

Expenditures Planned.

"Electric railways capital expenditures of $147,000,000 are contemplated in 1930, against $103,000,000 last year, and reports indicate this program is well forward. The February pay roll indices for car building and repairs are practically the same as for February last year.

"Shipping trades report falling off in tonnage carried.

"Ship building yards this February were employing 28 per cent more men than in February a year ago. They were employing 10 per cent more than in November when a survey showed the yards had contracts for $95,000,000 in merchant vessels and $32,000,000 in naval vessels. Recently new ocean mail contracts have been advertised and contracts for four such routes awarded, meaning in time more new construction.

"Domestic telegraph business since January 1 has averaged one-half per cent below last year, against an expected 4 per cent increase.

Phone Expenses Climb.

"Telephone construction expenditures in January were 25 per cent in excess of corresponding expenditures in January, 1929. There has been a good start on the capital expenditure program of $700,000,000, comparing with $638,000,000 total for 1929. New installations of telephones in January and February were below expectations, but preliminary reports for March indicate improvements in volume. Long-distance telephone business, although below expectations, shows an increase of 3 per cent in January, 4 per cent in February and 5 per cent so far in March.

"Radio tube sales were 12 per cent less in January and February, as compared with last year. New set sales for January and February were 12 per cent more than in November and December and compare favorably with one year ago.

"The electric light and power utilities plan for 1930 total capital expenditures of $865,000,000, an increase of $65,000,000 over last year. The first quarter contracts indicate good progress in carrying this out. Electricity produced the first half of March exceeds the same period last year by about 2 per cent. The gas companies construction program of $400,000,000 is proceeding, and, with the portion allocated to the first quarter likely to be exceeded, will equal or exceed 1929. Sales of manufactured gas in January were 2 per cent under last January, and in February under 3 per cent under last February.

Oil Reduction Suggested.

Stocks of gasoline on March 8 equaled 53 days' supply, and have led to a suggestion of the Federal Oil Conservation Board that the refining industry reduce operations to a six-day basis.

"Anthracite production has averaged about 5 per cent below last year, weather conditions being moderate.

"Bituminous coal production has fallen below last year, partly because of the same weather conditions and partly by reason of the level of industrial activity being under the level in the early part of 1929.

"The iron and steel industry for the third week in March operated at 75 per cent, against 94 per cent in last year's high activity. Indications are for an increase in production. Structural steel orders are about 4 per cent under 1929. Rail mills are operating at capacity; tinplate mills at 85 per cent. Some line pipe business is in contemplation. Steel industry still feels a smaller automobile production. Increased structural steel orders are expected to sustain or perhaps increase present rate of activity.

Auto Production Climbs.

"February production of 359,000 automobiles would indicate on average seasonal trends a 1930 production of about 4,600,000 cars. Current reports indicate increasing production. Dealers' new car stocks are reported low. February pay rolls exceeded January by 25 per cent and exceeded December by 28 per cent.

"The farm implement industry reports some curtailment.

"Sales of machinery are normal. Inquiries in good volume, but there is some hesitancy about placing new orders. Machine tool orders continue lower and pay roll indices in this field showing 16 per cent below last year's good figure. Activities in construction machinery are equal to 1928 and are 12 per cent below 1929. The heavy machinery industry is doing well, being almost up to 1929 record. * * *

"Practically all retail and wholesale lines report cautious buying. Stocks of merchandise were relatively low. Consumer buying shows little appreciable curtailment. Conditions in rural sections are reported better than last year. Retail sales in February and the first half of March appear to be lower in dollars than last year, but in view of price variations the quantity of merchandise going over retail counters seems to approach the volume at this time last year."

mothers or sweethearts, let alone to orchestra leaders, I am told that this orchestra leader laughed and threw my letter in the waste-basket.

I never heard from any of the other men to whom I had written.

In my letter to one office I went so far as to try to stress the fact that I would be of advantage to them on the engagements they played for Long Island society because I had graduated with so many sons of Long Island's elite that the boys would usually welcome me and ask their mothers to have that same band for future affairs.

The office could never see this, apparently. But in the summer of 1929 I had the great satisfaction of playing for Mrs. Payson at the Payson-Whitney estate, Little Neck, Long Island, at which engagement there were many former Yale friends of mine, including John Whitney, who was in the class of '26, and who at intermission insisted that the guests sit around in a circle while I sang, and then introduced me to every one. We secured many other engagements through that one.

One leader for whom I have the greatest admiration is Eddie Davis, who has been catering to New York society for years and who plays the violin beautifully. Eddie engaged me on the say-so of one of his saxophonists and liked me so well that I had just about agreed to throw in my lot with his office and stay with him and had accepted many engagements when I received the Heigh-Ho Club offer.

I had the most pleasant relations with the Bernie office, which was carried on by one of Ben's brothers, Herman.

Herman is a likable character, but my first impression of him left me quite disconcerted, as he was bundling into his greatcoat just as I entered his office, and in a most discouraging way told me: "I'm sorry, I'm sorry, but my bands are all intact!"

However, I left my scrapbook and the records and went back a few days later, to receive much the same reply, but with Herman's promise that he would try to listen to the records. The third time I cornered him at his desk and I impressed him well enough so that I finally got a hearing. He took me over to a rehearsal room where one of the Bernie outfits was rehearsing and called to his brother Dave, who plays the piano. We played a few choruses of some popular tunes, and I seemed to suit Herman because he told me to drop in the next day. He gave me nine engagements.

One of these engagements was in Baltimore, and Herman went with us. The party was for a young girl whose brother had been in my class at Yale, and they made me feel at home.

I look back on my contact with Herman Bernie as one of the most pleasant and refreshing experiences in my early days in New York. It gave me a great deal of pleasure, a year and a half later, to be able to substitute for Ben Bernie himself at an affair at the Commodore when he was away in Pittsburgh, and Herman came to the Lombardy, where I was playing at teas, to ask me if I could do this good turn for Ben.

On to Recognition.

About this time the Heigh-Ho Club job was offered me, and although I was very well set with several of the leading offices and had many engagements ahead, I accepted it. We were to try out on Monday night, January 9, and the Sunday night preceding the tryout I was one of twenty musicians recruited from the Ben Bernie and Whiteman offices to play at the annual Jewish Theatrical Guild dinner at the Commodore, tendered to William Morris, sr., its president. I played on a tenor saxophone which I borrowed, as they did not need me on the alto saxophone, the instrument I usually played.

Some saxophone players will refuse an engagement rather than play a different size instrument than the one they are accustomed to; especially do they refuse to play the tenor saxophone, as it is not a solo instrument like the alto, but I liked playing the tenor just as much, if not more.

Just a year from that date I received a telegram from William Morris, sr., asking us to be one of the star vaudeville acts at the annual Jewish Theatrical Guild dinner which was being tendered Eddie Cantor, its first vice president. The orchestra was composed of practically the same men with whom I had played the tenor saxophone the previous year. I will never forget the sensation that came over me as we climbed out onto the stage following the wonderful introduction, to receive a tremendous ovation, when only a year before I had sat among the twenty-piece orchestra and applauded with the rest of the audience for the acts that came out one after another.

The following Monday afternoon I met the boys who had been so hastily recruited for the Heigh-Ho Club job. I was not a bit hurt when I saw the change of expression that came over the faces of the five boys who did not know me, because I realize only too well that I do not look like an orchestra leader. The other two, Cliff Burwell and the tenor saxophonist, Joe Miller, had played with me and knew that I had some ideas and liked my work. I had played many engagements with Cliff Burwell at the Westchester Biltmore during my college years. In fact, I regarded his pianistic ability so highly that had I been unable to secure him I would not have taken the Heigh-Ho engagement.

We gathered in a small rehearsal room in Times Square. And the five still eyed me somewhat disappointedly as I said to them:

"Let's get to work!"

the name of public order, of law and regulation in the country to which they are assigned.

Multitude of Drivers.

Traffic accidents are, unfortunately, incidental to all classes of people, and members of the Diplomatic Corps are not immune in this respect. But it is difficult to understand why a regrettable incident, such as the one which has created this discussion, should produce a tirade against the Diplomatic Corps. The Minister of Bolivia, in his response to you, very properly pointed out that the real danger in traffic arises from the multitude of reckless drivers in this city who are not members of the Diplomatic Corps. Far from being "a constant source of danger to Washington residents" every member of the corps is exposed to a peril from which he should be protected.

The tendency to severely criticize the Diplomatic Corps, as evidenced by your editorial, is, fortunately, not world-wide. The general impression that exemption from local jurisdiction is a matter of courtesy is erroneous. The immunity of diplomatic officials is sanctioned by public and international law in all civilized nations. In the United States, sections 4063-64 of the Revised Statutes establish that "A diplomatic representative possesses immunity from the criminal and civil jurisdiction of the country of his sojourn," and, further, "He can not waive his privilege except by consent of his government." The rights and privileges enjoyed by foreign diplomats in the United States are no different from those enjoyed by American diplomats abroad. Consequently any threats of withdrawing courtesies are based upon a wrong assumption.

In my opinion, the agitation created around Commander Polich's accident is unwarranted. I know him personally and I can vouch for his uprightness and discretion. I am sure that he would be the last individual in the world to take advantage of any privilege for the purpose of avoiding the financial, material or moral consequences of an unfortunate occurrence. His attitude in assuming the hospital expenses and his attendance upon Mr. Hammond, while believing in good faith that the fault was not his own, are deserving of praise rather than blame. Has any one given a thought to the effect that this accident has naturally had upon Commander Polich himself?

Would it not be well whenever any accident or incident involving any member of the Diplomatic Corps occurs, to approach any discussion of the same with the assumption that the diplomat concerned is just as anxious to avoid friction or unpleasantness as is the citizen of the country in which he resides? Be assured, Mr. Editor, that every member of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington is extremely concerned to secure that courtesy, consideration and respect for established order shall not be a monopoly, but shall be reciprocal to the nth degree.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Very truly yours,
C. LEIVA

held, although she remained at headquarters for five hours.

"This is my first record at this police station," she said. "I usually make them for the talking-machine people."

Sweitzer said he held a lease on the quarters occupied by the club but had sublet to Voller under the condition that the club remain in operation until May 1. He learned Voller intended to violate the agreement by closing the place, he said, and he'd gone to Voller's office to demand $2,000 as full payment of the rent, but Voller objected.

The argument started in the club lobby, Sweitzer said, but suddenly Reed struck him with a pistol and with Voller and a man he did not know carried him to the second-floor office. The bickering was concluded there, he said, when the stranger shot him through the leg and the others fired on him as he turned to flee.

Linked With Slaying.

Police sought to connect Voller and Reed with the recent bombing of the little club opened by Sweitzer after he relinquished the management of the Green Mill. They also believed they may soon clear the mystery of the slaying of Joe Cada, racketeer who was shot to death on February 2 shortly after he had left the Green Mill in company with two other men.

Police said Voller had been sentenced in Detroit in 1918 to serve 15 to 30 years for robbery of the Statler Hotel and was released through a pardon in 1922. He was wanted in Cincinnati in 1927 in connection with transportation of fight films, records show. Reed, according to the officers, has served several prison terms, including time at Leavenworth and Folsom.

Pat Roche, chief investigator of the State's attorney's office, said a report that Cada was slain because of a plan to kidnap Miss Guinan for ransom has been investigated at the time of the killing, but that no evidence to bear out the theory had been uncovered.

Miss Guinan's contract as chief hostess at the club was to terminate in two weeks although she had announced she would leave Wednesday for New York to fill a week's special engagement.

Following the New York appearance, Miss Guinan was booked for four weeks at the Palladium in London.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Many Capital Women Join in Reform Work

Enlist in Fight Abroad on Narcotics and Tuberculosis.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WASHINGTON women seem to be doing a notable work in helping to clean up the far corners of the earth. As a member of the League of Nations commission organized to put down the international narcotics traffic, Mrs. Hamilton Wright has been fighting the good fight for several years. Mrs. John Allan Dougherty has but recently returned from China, where she devoted months to establishing child health centers and to building up an organization to carry on the work. And now comes word of the very brilliant work which Mrs. Florence Forrester, a quondam resident of the Capital, is doing in fighting tuberculosis in India.

As Mrs. George Becker, wife of a distinguished scientist, Mrs. Forrester's house at 1700 Rhode Island avenue was a mecca for scientifically minded groups for many years and she herself became known to the initiate as an archeologist of distinguished attainments. Some time after Dr. Becker's death, she married a British army officer, Col. F. Campbell Forrester, who was in the Indian service, and went with him to India. It was during this period that she became interested in welfare work in this teeming and colorful empire and, although she is now separated from Col. Forrester, she continues to live in India.

After a year or two's residence in India, Mrs. Forrester came home last spring to attend to some business matters and to try and raise funds for an antituberculosis crusade. She then told her friends something of the program in which she was interested. Since her return to Calcutta, the work has taken shape and the Tuberculosis Association of Bengal, of which Mrs. Forrester is honorary secretary and treasurer, has inaugurated a campaign of education and hygiene which is already showing remarkable results. The president of the group is the Right Hon. Sir Frances Stanley Jackson, Governor of Bengal.

Although Mrs. Forrester's headquarters are in Calcutta, her work as an organizer takes her pretty much all over Bengal, establishing tuberculosis dispensaries and training health visitors whose work is to seek out suspected cases and, after they have been examined by competent physicians, to give instruction in hygiene and proper nursing. The work, of course, is largely educational, and Mrs. Forrester does a good deal of lecturing before women's groups, frequently meeting under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Dougherty, to go back a bit, is to speak today at the Woman's National Democratic Club's luncheon on her important mission in China, which, she says, was made easy by the fact that the Chinese who have been educated in the Occident are so awake to the importance of child health work and so eager to receive training in the essentials of hygiene and welfare work.

The two sons of President and Mrs. Hoover are together with their parents at the White House this weekend for the first time since their father's inauguration. Herbert Hoover, jr., who has been staying at the fishing camp of Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, near Frederick, Md., arranged to return to greet his brother Allan, the younger of the two boys, who arrived Saturday night. Allan is taking a course in business administration at Harvard.

Representative and Mrs. Guy U. Hardy entertained a number of friends at dinner last evening at their home, 2017 Belmont road, their guests being Representative Archie D. Sanders, Representative Andrew J. Hickey, Representative Frank Murphy, Representative Elliott W. Sproul, Representative George J. Schneider, Representative Ed M. Irwin, Representative Robert R. Butler and Mr. Lyman Hardy.

Mrs. Thorn Valle will go to Philadelphia today to spend several days as the guest of Miss Emily Gilpin Hopkinson, of Merion Manor, Ardmore.

Mr. Harry Covington, jr., was host to a party at the Club Chantecler supper dance on Saturday evening when his guests were members of the bridal party of his sister, Mrs. Lewis Clark, whose marriage took place Saturday at noon.

Southern Visitor

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS CATHERINE BELLE McBRIDE,

of Dallas, Tex., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ash at their home in Chevy Chase. Miss McBride is a cousin of Mrs. Ash.

Miss E. W. Lenssen Wed To Boaz Walton Long.

Miss Eleanor Wilson Lenssen, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Lenssen, of 901 Lexington avenue, New York, and the late Mr. Lenssen, was married to Boaz Walton Long Saturday at the home of her mother. None but immediate relatives were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Ralph Sockman, pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Both the bride and the bridegroom dispensed with attendants.

The bride is a direct descendant of Peter Goelet, the first of the name in this country, through his daughter, Elizabeth, and also of James Lowry, colonial representative of the crown in New York City.

Mr. Long is the son of Mrs. Elisha V. Long, of Las Vegas, N. Mex., and the late Chief Justice Long, of New Mexico. For nine years Mr. Long was in the diplomatic service of the United States. In 1913 he held the position of chief of the Latin Republics division of the State Department. He also held the posts of Minister to Cuba, Salvador and Honduras.

Mrs. James Maxwell, of Toronto, accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Clark, of Montreal, is at the Dodge Hotel for about ten days.

Exclusive Potato Club Formed.

East Lansing, Mich., March 23 (A.P.).—The heaviest drought of 35 years in Michigan last summer brought the most exclusive "300-bushel potato club" in the history of the organization. Only ten farmers produced 300 or more bushels an acre, compared with an average club membership of more than 30.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"A Husband's View."

DEAR Miss McDonald: In business he is kindly, considerate, straight. His employes will do anything for him because he is so kind. He likes people. He knows how many children his superintendent has. He knows when any one is sick, or overworked and worried. He is a man who deserves to be liked.

He has three sons. He loves them in his way. Their future is his great concern. They must never have to worry as he worried in his boyhood and his youth. He likes to talk with them. He takes them to shows. He is a good father.

He has a wife. He buys her fur coats and pays steep bills to famous modistes that she may have just what she wants in clothes. He takes her to parties, to the opera, to Europe. She goes on visits and he misses her. He loves his wife in his way. He is to all outward appearances a good husband.

But he is in reality neither a good father nor a good husband, nor a good man. For his home is not sacred to him. His marriage is to him not what marriage was meant to be. He jeopardizes his own good name, and the future of his sons by his misconduct away from home. And he believes that his wife does not object. He says:

"She has the finest home a woman could ask for, she has all the money she wants, she has friends, and a good time, and that's all a woman wants."

And he believes it! He does not deny that she must know of his misconduct. He does not deny that he would hate his boys to know. But he thinks a woman wants only money and a house, and a car and a crowd of friends to play bridge with, and give her these and her husband can be blackmailed, or sued, or pay, or do as he pleases. Where does a man who is gentle, absorb such ideas of womanhood? How can be love, marry, become a father, and still believe a woman's interest in a man is centered in what she can get?

This man loves his mother, grieve when she is ill, or lonely, or sad. He is a good son. He might have been one of the few truly beautiful souls on earth. Instead, even his wife's love is sordid to him. Even he is purchaseable. Who or what caused this otherwise sweet and generous man to accept the lowest possible estimate of woman, including the woman who is the mother of his sons?

Can any man explain to us this riddle? A man gentle, and tolerant, forgiving and sweet, and honestly believing that any woman's love can be bought, and even his wife, no different than the rest?

Are men born with these ideas? Or do they acquire them? And how, holding such beliefs, can they be either gentle, tolerant or happy

Can some man answer? We asked him and he said, "Why not?" So now we ask again, how can a man be happy who believes these things of woman?

Fifth Ave. Fashions

NEW YORK

A PRINTED silke crepe in dark background printed in green tones captures new charm for immediate and spring wear.

It rather suggests princess lines with its long molded bodice and flaring hem. It is shirred at center-front indicating normal waistline.

It is sleekly flattering with flounce of skirt in diagonal movement in slenderizing wrap-around treatment.

The one-piece bertha capelet collar is shaped through shirring at center-front. A smart detail is noted in tied bands of long dart-fitted sleeves.

It's so entirely feminine and wearable it will prove a very economical choice.

Style No. 8272 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting makes this stunning dress.

Black silk crepe with collar of eggshell shade is fascinating idea for street or afternoons.

Purplish blue canton crepe, navy blue crepe silk, crepe marocain in royal blue, Paquin red chiffon, and royal blue Alencon lace are irresistible ideas for its development.

FREEMAN PREDICTS RELIGIOUS TRIUMPH

Episcopal Prelate Declares Christianity Has Faced Worse Situations.

SPECIAL REPORT GIVEN

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Christianity has no need to fear the present sentiment against religion, Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington, D. C., declared in an address before the Sunday Evening Club at Orchestra Hall tonight.

"History is replete with records of situations far more critical than the present," Bishop Freeman said. "Take the crucifixion of Christ, upon which Christianity was built. The first three centuries of its history show ar opposition traced in bloodshed and its period of growth were marked by martyrdom and sacrifices.

"Our age differs little from those that have gone before. There are saints in our Caesar's household today. It is their wholesome ways, lofty ideals, unchallenged virtues and consistency of living that save us from moral atrophy and decay."

Committee Issues Report.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The American committee on religious rights and minorities today made public a report of a subcommittee which said that Soviet religious activities are attributable not to any "objection to any particular form of religion, but to hostility to any religion as such and to a determination to extirpate it for the coming generation in any and every form." The committee voiced an appeal to Russian authorities "to adopt a more liberal policy in dealing with the conscious beliefs of their people."

The committee said it was not influenced in making the appeal by any political, social or economic structure of the Soviet system, but by a belief that it is "the imperative duty of all right-thinking men and women to voice their protest against grievous injustice wherever it exists."

Persecution Not Feared.

In voicing its opinions, the committee said, it did "not overlook the fact that intolerance and antagonism to religious liberty have sometimes disgraced other countries, including our own. The committee added that history has shown that persecution of religion by the state has never achieved its purpose, as "the sacred beliefs of mankind can not be stamped out that way."

Arthur J. Brown was chairman of the subcommittee on whose report the committee's statement was founded.

Man Shoots Self in Foot.

Highlights of the World War

As Related by Veterans Themselves

There Were Others

Most of the old Twenty-Seventh Division gang recall that verse which was paraphrased to "Madamoiselle From Oudezeele," &c. They may not know it, but she was real, and if persistence means anything, she must be in the United States today.

Because she might read this, let's say her name was Irene. Back in 1918, when she was 17, Irene was beautiful, which is more than can be said of most of the girls the A. E. F. saw or met abroad. I know she was beautiful because I still have her photograph.

In public Irene treated us all alike, but when I walked alone with her between those long avenues of Flemish poplars at dusk, she would tell me fervently of her love. And after we moved further south, there were long, frequent letters.

Then we were mustered out. A few days later came another letter. "I love you so," she wrote. "Please bring me to America as your adoring bride, for oh, I love you so." There was more, but that's enough to quote here. But those were lean days, after the war, and I had no money to support a wife, even if I could have paid her passage over. Later, perhaps.

It was several months before I met George, who had been in B Company. We talked, and Oudezeele was mentioned.

"Remember Irene?" he asked. "She wrote me asking me to bring her over and marry her. Wish I had the cash to do it."

Later I met at least five others who had been similarly remembered and honored. Perhaps there were others, too, and among them one who was not so broke. ABE GRUDD,

Ride 'Em Cowboy

Endeavoring to give my buddies, all sons of the Golden West, all due credit, we arrived at training camp a bunch of rugged cowhands, most of whom had flaws in our general physique due to repeated contacts with mother earth after nosedives or tailspins from the backs of none too surefotted mustangs. As a result we were almost classed as mavericks or rejects, but upon second thought the medical examiners put us in the Medical Corps, regardless of saddle sores, broken arches, dandruff, halitosis, B. O., and what not.

The fun really started when the top-soak gave us our first command of "outside," before we had had time to don our khaki. Getting into a general stampede we fell into line, with boots, spurs, ten-gallon hats, &c., and at the command came to attention with what grace we could muster. To an onlooker the sight must have been pathetic. Some tripped over spurred heels, others had their hats knocked off and several bruised ribs resulted from the command, "right dress."

We won't dwell too strongly on their "rookie" days, but after eight weeks of hard training on the hot, sandy, wind-swept flats of Kansas, the gang became fit specimens of the American fighting man and soon crossed the seas, where, from the hills of France, rang that old familiar call—"Powder River, a mile wide and an inch deep."

A Black Duck

Coming from North Carolina, where the Negro is addressed as "niggah" and recognizes the person calling him such as his friend, I had occasion to have an amusing experience on the ship when going "over there" in 1918.

During the voyage, on looking down on the deck below I noticed one colored man in particular because of the fact that his shoes were never laced. One evening four of the colored soldiers were brought up to our deck to help with the evening's entertainment and in the group was the man whose shoes were never laced, and they were not laced at that moment. Thinking it would not be amiss to call his attention to his careless toilet I raised my voice and said in my most commanding and affected Southern accent:

"Look here, niggah, why haven't you laced yoo shoes up, the ideah of yoo being so carless."

His eyes opened wide and to the top of his voice he said:

"My Gawd; if their ain't some one from home."

"An' look here, miss, I done didn't lace them shoes up on purpose, 'cause when this here ship goes down this niggah ain't goin' to have nothin' hinderin' from swimmin'."

Wooden Shoe Influence

One day I was walking along the street in Dijon, when I saw two colored soldiers standing in front of a bakery, or "patisserie," as they call it. They appeared to be in some difficulty and when they saw me, saluted and said:

"You is 'Merican lady, ain't you?"

I said, "Yes; can I help you?"

"Well, we wants to git a loaf o' light bread and dis girl in here wants some kin' of a ticket. We cain't understan' her talk."

I explained to them that she wanted a bread ticket, and I had some with me, so I gave them several and told them where to go to get a supply, so when they happened to be away from their outfits they could buy bread whenever they wanted it. They were most grateful, and one of them said:

"We just knowed if 'Merican lady would come along she would hep us out. We knowed you was 'Merican lady as soon as we seed you."

I told them of course they knew that, for I was in uniform, and they replied:

"Yes, but we can tell 'em anyway, even if dey isn't dressed in uniform. We seed a lady Sunday all dressed in blue, but we knowed she was 'Merican. They steps out different from these here French women"—which was their way of expressing that we walked differently.

Home by Rail

As you know, there is a railroad line in France running into the Chateau country called the "Paris-Orleans Express." One day I happened to meet "John," a colored cotton picker from our plantation who had now turned soldier. I stopped and chatted with him a moment and said:

"John, did you have a nice trip coming over?"

John replied: "This is one niggah what ain't going back by that there Atlantic Ocean when dis here war is over."

I said, "John, how do you expect to get back if you don't cross the Atlantic Ocean?"

To my amusement, John said, "You know dat railroad running over dere? Well, dat's de way I'se going"—by de way of New Orleans."

A Great Help

My first job in France was office work at Red Cross headquarters in Paris, but after the big offensive of 1918 had been going on a day or two thousands of wounded were brought to the Paris hospitals direct from the field dressing stations, and word went around that the hospitals were badly in need of help. Two Red Cross girls, who lived where I did, and I went to the nearest hospital and volunteered for work wherever we could be used. That night we typed casualty lists until 2 a. m.

The next morning the nurse to whom I reported said I could help with the dressings. The first patient was a young Italian, who had almost all of the flesh on one arm shot away by shrapnel, leaving all the bones exposed. After she got the dressings off, she said: "You can hold his hand." I don't know what I thought but it didn't seem to occur to me that he had not strength enough to hold his arm up, and my subconscious idea must have been to try to comfort him, so I gently took hold of his good hand. Imagine my chagrin when the nurse gave me a withering look and said: "Hold up his other hand."

Walker to Speak On Alaskan Game

Zoological Expert to Give Illustrated Lecture at Y. M. C. A. Tonight.

Ernest P. Walker, recently appointed assistant director of the National Zoological Park, will give an illustrated lecture on Alaskan wild life tonight at 7:15 o'clock in the lobby of the Central Y. M. C. A., 1736 G street.

Mr. Walker spent many years in Alaska, where he formerly was chief game warden, resident representative of the biological survey and executive officer of the Alaska Game Commission. He has been in the fish and game service of the Federal Government since 1913. He was transferred from the biological survey to the zoo March 1.

This will be the first of a series of illustrated public lectures to be given in the Y. M. C. A. lobby on Monday evenings, according to announcement of E. A. Drumm, of the "Y" staff. There will be no admission charge. Women as well as men are invited.

Man Is Hurt Playing Soccer.

James Holmes, 45 years old, of 1426 Twenty-first street northwest, was injured yesterday afternoon when he collided with another man while playing soccer at Georgia avenue and the District line. He was removed to Walter Reed Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Royal Brown for cuts and bruises on the head and face. Mr. Holmes collided with a Patrick Ryan, of 3023 D street northwest, when he was injured.

Envoy From Chile Gives Radio Talk

Progress in Home Country Is Cited by Davila in Address.

Chile and its progress were discussed yesterday afternoon by Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, Chilean Ambassador to the United States, whose address was broadcast over the coast-to-coast hook-up of the Columbia System. Ambassador Davila's talk featured the "Conclave of Nations" program, which was dedicated to Chile last week. Latin-American music, mainly that originating in Chile, was played. The speaker was introduced by Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press Associations.

"Chile was perhaps the poorest of all Spanish colonies on this continent," the Ambassador said. "We were more a burden than an asset, but in the last century we have achieved actual prosperity. Our foreign commerce which in the last three years alone increased 204 per cent, has the highest favorable balance of trade of all the nations of the world."

The speaker said that Chilean authorities had made English a required study in the nation's schools, and that other efforts were being made to promote cultural relations between his country and the United States.

Ventura Gas Output Cut.

Ventura, Calif., March 23 (A.P.).—A campaign to conserve natural gas resulted in the reduction of the daily output in the Ventura field from about 280,000,000 cubic feet to 180,000,000.

THE INKWELL AND THE DEVIL

In the ancient Wartburg of Tannhaeuser fame they show you the spot on the wall where Luther, the mighty reformer, threw his inkwell at the devil. This is only one of the innumerable, exciting relics of Germany's undying romance: castles, walled towns, music festivals, the Oberammergau Passion Play. The vivid present offers the gaiety of cabarets, theatres, musical comedies, health resorts, sports, informal cafes. No visé charge, old-world courtesy, and moderate prices in beautiful Germany.

"Going to Europe" means going to Germany.

The Last Word for Informal Entertaining

An interesting grass green flat crepe pajama ensemble is illustrated—Flared trousers with fitted yoke trimmed with bands of deep cream, almondeen and orange crepe, blouse of deep cream and trimmed with bands of crepe, and it is of course a tuck-in. The jacket is finger-tip length and has large sleeves.

TARIFF—AND POLITICS.

After six months' debate the Senate has completed the tariff bill. A day or two will be devoted to post mortems, recriminations, and alibis in which statesmen will explain why they dodged and shifted, and then the bill will be passed—passed by Democratic as well as Republican votes.

The debate has lasted two months longer than was consumed in discussing the Fordney-McCumber bill. After making allowance for the increased complexity of tariff questions, the fact remains that the Democratic-insurgent coalition needlessly delayed the bill, frightened industries by attempts to deprive them of tariff protection, postponed the return of prosperity, and finally crumbled under the skillful generalship of the Republican leader, Senator Watson. He was successful in preventing unfair reductions in some schedules and in obtaining fair protective duties in other schedules. He was aided by several former coalitionists, notably Senator Thomas, of Idaho, who induced some of his insurgent colleagues to deal more fairly with industry.

Democratic critics of the bill are trying to convince the public that Senator Grundy was the field marshal under whose strategy the coalition was smashed. They know better. The break-up of the coalition was a difficult feat and could not have been accomplished by a new senator. An old and practiced hand was at work. Senator Watson kept his patience in the face of flagrant betrayal of party obligations by insurgents who did not hesitate to try to curry favor with Western farmers by attacking industries entitled to protection. He prevailed upon some of these insurgents to mend their ways and cooperate in the enactment of a bill dealing fairly with both agriculture and industry. The chief credit for the improvement made in the tariff bill during the last month goes to Senator Watson. His tactful and persistent management prevented the Senate from passing a bill that might have wrecked the Republican administration and party.

No doubt there will be a struggle in conference. The Democratic-insurgent coalition is still anxious to impose the debenture graft upon the Treasury, and to defeat President Hoover on the flexible provision. But the Senate bill is a good bill in spite of the wreckers, and the prospect is now favorable for the emergence of a fair and honest tariff bill from the conference. The debenture plan will be beaten.

In so far as the tariff question will affect the forthcoming campaign, the Republican party is in a better position than the Democratic party. Democratic leaders in the Senate blundered when they yielded to their ancient free-trade heresies and thereby repudiated their Houston platform pledge to support protection of industry, agriculture and labor. If the Democrats had prevailed in the Senate, with the aid of their renegade Republican allies, industry would have been badly injured and American labor would have been terribly wronged. The record has been made, and nothing in it reflects political credit upon the Democrats of the Senate, with the exception of the votes they will cast for the passage of the bill. The insurgents are in a worse position than the Democrats, for they must go home with a record of perfidy to their party, without the excuse which the Democrats can set up, that opposition to the Republican bill was merely partisan strategy. The diehard insurgents were faithful to no party and no principle. The Republicans of their States should replace them with genuine Republicans.

The best leadership on the Democratic side was exercised by genial Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who announces that the bill is inconceivably wicked and that he will vote against it. Since the Democratic platform has been amended by Senate Democrats to repudiate protection, Senator Harrison's position is honest, however fruitless it may prove in inducing the people to elect a Democratic House or Senate.

AN INDEX OF AMERICA.

Stock-taking has been found to be good business. From the same standpoint census-taking is good politics. Every ten years the Nation makes a check-up on its growth, the development of its resources, the progress of its citizens, and the changes in its varied walks of life. This national inventory is one of the most valuable services rendered by the Department of Commerce.

Organization for this work has been going on for months. When 110,000 enumerators set out on April 2 to compile the growth of this vast country during the last decade they will set a remarkable machine in motion. By the end of the month, the Census Bureau anticipates, a brief history of each man, woman and child will be gathered in the form of a card index. These cards will be rushed to the Census Bureau, for sorting and tabulation by machinery. The Nation will then have at its finger tips the most complete information that has ever been collected in regard to America.

The development of census enumeration has been remarkable. When the first census was taken 140 years ago it had but one purpose—to provide a basis for apportionment of the House of Representatives. Next month more than 120,000,000 persons will be asked 24 questions involving home ownership, marital condition, education, nationality, occupation, military service, ownership of radio, etc., in addition to the usual questions about sex, age, race and place of birth. The completed census will be an invaluable index to American life.

Two of the most important questions added this year are those dealing with unemployment and distribution. The country has never known the extent of its unemployment, and can not deal intelligently with it until this information is supplied. The census of distribution is designed to throw additional light on the great waste of effort now involved in transferring goods from the producer to the consumer.

The census will cost the taxpayers approximately $40,000,000, but the information it will supply will be worth far more than that. In the words of Dr. Louis I. Dublin, chairman of the advisory committee on the population census, "we shall have not merely a counting of the people, but a full exhibit of the elements of our national strength; a picture of our qualities and characteristics as individuals and as a nation; a statement where we stand, where we came from, and, it is hoped, some indication of where we are destined to go."

THE HOMICIDE RATE.

If the homicide rate can be taken as an index of all crime, the United States appears to be growing more lawless every year. Frederick L. Hoffman, insurance statistician, announces that for every 100,000 persons living in 31 leading American cities 10.5 were slain during 1929. The rate is higher than for the two previous years, and is exceeded only by those for 1924 and 1925.

Why is murder so prevalent in the United States? There are eight times as many homicides in proportion to population in this country as in Canada. Violent deaths are 21 times more numerous here than in Great Britain. Since murder is usually the outcome of other crimes, it may be assumed that lawlessness in general is far more prevalent than in other parts of the world. The explanation of this condition is as baffling as the problem of remedying it.

Dr. Hoffman blames prohibition for the increased homicide rate. "The enforcement of prohibition," he says, "has brought into existence an organization of crime and criminals such as no other country on the face of the globe has ever known in the history of the past." But the proportion of slayings increased faster before prohibition was enacted than afterward. From 1900 to 1915 the rate jumped from 3.4 to 8.2, an increase of 4.8. During the last fifteen years the increase has been but 2.3. Dr. Hoffman's statement appears to be purely conjecture.

There are many factors entering into the disregard of human life in the United States, chief of which is failure to enforce law. At present the States and the Government are attempting to remedy a condition for which they do not know the specific causes. It is hoped that the National Crime Commission will furnish a foundation on which remedies and further studies can be based. The Nation can not afford to remain indifferent to a homicide rate which, interpreted into action, means the slaying of some 2,500 citizens each year.

NAME IT VOLSTEAD.

The discovery of a remote planet having been accomplished, the world is now confronted with the staggering problem of selecting a name for the stranger. It is noticeable that most of the wiseacres who are struggling with this problem allude to the newly discovered member of the solar system as a "new planet," but they bring no evidence to prove that the stranger is any younger than the Earth, Mercury, Venus or Mars. As it is 4,000,000,000 miles distant, astronomers are having some difficulty in detecting its characteristics, but there is plenty of time and space in which to carry on the study.

What shall the stranger be named? The list of gods and goddesses is not exhausted, of course, but some objection has been raised against granting a monopoly to the Olympians to the exclusion of meritorious modern aspirants for immortality. Why should Vulcan be honored and Volstead cold-shouldered? The best known name in the universe, undoubtedly, is Volstead. Those who fret at any allusion to Volstead ought to be gratified by its fixation at the outer rim of the solar system, where inconceivable cold and stygian darkness hold the stranger prisoner; while those who wish to confer signal honor upon the name of Volstead should hail the opportunity to exalt it to the stars. Thus both wets and drys can find in this suggestion a common meeting ground and happy concord—the only place under the firmament where they can possibly agree.

By all means confer upon the stranger the name of Volstead. If he can be the means of reconciling wets and drys in the slightest degree he will confer a benefit upon harassed humanity. Since this is the only method of profiting by the discovery of his existence, the champions of all other names should abandon their claims and join wholeheartedly in choosing "Volstead" as the name of this remote and friendless planet.

MARCH TAX COLLECTIONS.

The uneasiness as to whether tax collections for the March 15 period would reach the estimate has been dissipated. From March 1 to 19, receipts were $384,853,000, a figure exceeding by $5,000,000 that for the corresponding period of last year. For the fiscal year, up to March 19, payments of $1,637,000,000 were received, representing an increase over the corresponding period of 1929 amounting to $172,000,000. Although the Treasury refuses to predict whether March collections will reach the estimate, there prevails a definite optimistic sentiment that, despite the stock market collapse and the $160,000,000 tax reduction, the Government will raise the revenues it requires without difficulty.

Two factors explain the large return. With the exception of the last three months, 1929 was a banner year, and although in most industries the wheels were slowed down following the market collapse, generally speaking the year as a whole produced profits. Corporation returns are relatively large. In addition, most of the thousands of individuals who "went broke" in the market lost only paper profits. Many of them were even forced out of the market at a slight profit. Individual returns will not show a large taxable item based on profits from sale of securities, but they probably will not show an excessive deduction based on loss from such sales.

Last week the Treasury Department made public a chart of Government expenditures for the first eight months of the current fiscal year. From July 1, 1929, through February 28, 1930, the general expenses of all departments and legislative establishments ran $120,000,000 ahead of the comparable figures of the preceding year. All expenditures, exclusive of public debt retirement, were $2,168,000,000 as compared with $2,123,000,000, an increase of about $44,000,000. With the cost of Government mounting, it is small wonder that the Treasury is anxiously watching the March tax showing.

The only machine that has equaled the 10,000-foot dive of the Navy's new bomber is the one constructed by the Senate coalition.

A "nonskid" rug has been developed, so there is still hope for grape fruit relief.

Well, the Hagerstown Almanac says it's spring!

"THE WAMPANOAG CLASS"

By COLBY M. CHESTER,
Rear Admiral, U. S. N., Retired.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That most appreciated and timely article recently published in the London Times by Admiral Wilfred Henderson, R. N., and reproduced by you, pays a tribute to America's demand for the freedom of the seas. Americans are in full accord with the admiral's conclusions, which read as follows:

> If we want security for our population from starvation in war time, the sensible course for us to pursue is to surrender frankly our medieval conception of the rights of belligerents and the nonrights of neutrals in war, and agree with the United States of America in their long and consistently held view of freedom of the seas except in blockaded waters. This will at least insure our food supplies—they will arrive in neutral bottoms, and British shipping must be convoyed. Du reste, naval warfare will then be as it was in the past—namely, an affair of navies; the civil population will no longer be the cat's-paw, and naval war will be decided (unless limitation of tonnage and gun caliber are agreed upon) by the nation possessing the largest, fastest and most heavily armed vessels—no amount of small cruisers will be of any avail whatever."

But a better citation of naval history than that which Admiral Henderson quoted to prove his contention may be found in the American Records of the Civil War, 1861-66. The naval war did not end until the freedom of the seas became fait accompli in October, 1866; when numerous squadrons of ships, including the U. S. S. Vanderbilt, the largest and most speedy vessel afloat at the time, chased the Confederate cruiser Alabama around the world for five long and boisterous years, without coming in contact with that vessel. Then her captain accepted a challenge to fight a duel with the U. S. S. Kearsarge, off Cherbourg, France, and fired the first shot which stuck in the stern post of the Kearsarge. The failure of the shell to explode prevented the Alabama from becoming the champion of the entire American Navy.

The people of the United States then went crazy, as the British admiralty has recently done, over the question of "commerce destroyers," and a member of our national legislature from the West, who had but recently learned that "the damned ship was hollow," designed a battleship of huge proportions and stuffed it through Congress. The act authorized the construction of several so-called "commerce destroyers," of the Wampanoag class, capable of chasing the little Nautilus across the sea at a speed of 17½ knots per hour, 20 per cent faster than any other vessels in the world at that time. But they were so full of machinery—speed being of paramount importance—that there was no room in them for armaments. Soon after the insane asylum which had brought into being these abortions had adjourned, however, these crazy-quilt, nondescript contraptions were turned into sailing vessels to carry American potatoes to market.

Let us, for God's sake, now agree to maintain, at least one spot on this mundane sphere, where humanity may have peace, "Rocked in the cradle of the deep."

New Use.

Toledo Blade: Every utility is abused by somebody. We had often thought of the radio as a welcome interruption to lively family disputes. Then came the story of the man who turned on the full volume, that the neighbors couldn't hear his wife's screams when he beat her.

Seems Hopeless.

Terre Haute Tribune: According to a bulletin issued by one of the largest life insurance companies in the world, "one seeks in vain for a single encouraging element in the automobile accident situation." One-third of all the accidental deaths among policyholders of this company, during the larger part of last year, were caused by the automobile. It is the only form of accidental death now on the increase in this country.

May Have to Diet.

Louisville Courier-Journal: England has appropriated another $45,000 for the entertainment of the naval parley delegates. If the conference lasts long enough the government may have to cut the naval program to pay for the lunches.

CHARACTER.

Run out the race unto the end
And finish where you can,
Or lose or win, when you come in
Be none the less a man.

Play out the game unto the last,
And if you fail today,
Come home content your strength was spent
In learning how to play.

What if another takes the prize?
There's many a prize to be;
And an honest name holds longer fame
Than a last week's victory.

Use all you have of strength and skill,
But never try deceit;
You can keep your grin if you've cheated been,
But not if you're the cheat.

Run out the race until the end,
And conquer if you can,
But lose or win, when you come in
Be none the less a man.

None Would Train for Football If the Crowd Cheered None But Class Leaders.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

I BELIEVE it is possible to save America from the money-madness that is teaching us to "get ahead" at any cost and by any means that may seem expedient.

It can be done by the simple process of substituting one prize for another.

Consider the methods of the man who narrowly missed conquering the modern world.

Napoleon did not conquer by himself. He used a machine made of men. And he was able to use men because he knew their hearts.

He established an astonishing system of medals and rewards and thus attached men to him as the hand is attached to the arm that supports it.

All normal men yearn to excel—to win recognition—to rank above their fellows, and to achieve some title or make some display that the world will recognize as proof of superiority.

When men scheme to win money, they are scheming to win power, distinction, privileges and the respect of the world. It is the final reward they covet, and money is merely a means to their end.

It is not too much to say that the goal of every man's ambition is a reward that will serve as evidence of his superiority.

As a boy in school he is reconciled to his studies because there is a gold star to win, or a place at the head of the class. Life is made sweeter in youth if he wins the right to wear a block letter. His M. A. is a certificate of superiority that confers the right to look down on common men as from a great height. And his final Ph. D. justifies years of toil for it makes him a prince among the learned.

Eagerness for rewards prompts men to sacrifice their fortunes to win public office. It inspires the financier to multiply his holdings. It strengthens the humble devotee of religion who conquers his flesh in hope of an ultimate compensation in Heaven.

The wide world over, men of high and low estate are spurred by the same ambition. And as they toil and study and scheme in competition, they make the same prayer to fortune: "Glive me a reward that will serve as proof of my superiority."

Why not harness an appetite so universal and so greedy?

Every good democrat would gladly be a prince if he could. No man of humble birth but wishes his ancestors were illustrious. Then why not provide, in lieu of natal excellence, an official recognition and rank to be won by achievement?

Who would scheme for mere wealth if by discovering a germ he could win rank and prestige denied the millionaire?

Caste there must be and will be, for man's nature demands it.

Money is now the measure of rank because no better is provided. Why honor wealth in the name of democracy when a caste system based on achievement would give every man a rank to match his merit?

THE ONCE OVER

NAVAL PARLEY SOLILOQUY.

(With apologies to Thomas Hood.)

I remember, I remember
That dim and distant morn
When to a drone of platitudes
The conference was born;
The tender talk of sacrifice,
The gestures day by day;
The pledges of the diplomats
Who mean not what they say!

I remember, I remember
The schedules that we bore
For parity of naval strength
And peace forevermore;
The speeches that MacDonald made,
The talk of warships sunk,
The chatter about tonnage cut—
Today it seems such bunk!

I remember, I remember
How England and Japan
And Italy and war-torn France
Talked brotherhood of man;
How each professed to crave the day
When navies would be small—
And then with rare facility
Forgot about it all!

I remember, I remember
The hopes that Hoover had,
The warm exchange of messages
That made our hearts so glad;
My spirit flew in feathers then
That is so heavy now,
For how was I to know the things
They'd later disavow?

I remember, I remember
The pictures that we drew
Of battleships and cruisers scrapped
And navies knocked askew;
Of submarines wiped off the seas
And tonnage cut in half—
When I recall the speeches now
I can not help but laugh.

I remember, I remember
Our hopes so bright and high;
I used to think their gleaming tops
Were closed against the sky;
It was a childish ignorance,
But now it saddens me
To know our aims are farther off
Than when we crossed the sea.

Add similes: As conspicuous as a whisky breath at a flower show.

PLEA OF A LONG PATIENT INVESTOR.

Today Steel leads the market rise,
Tomorrow lags behind;
Oh Mister Farrell, won't you help
The stock make up its mind?

TOOT! TOOT!

The New Haven road, with elaborate ceremonies, has christened its New York to Boston de luxe train the Yankee Clipper, every car of which bears the name of a famous clipper ship. Whether any attempt has been made to recapture the spirit of the old sailing days by having the engineer wear a sailor hat is not stated, but this department respectfully suggests the following revised sea chanties for passengers and crew:

Solo—Were you ever in Boston, Mass.?
Chorus—Away, you Boston!
Solo—Did you ever ride on a train of class?
Chorus—We're bound for Boston, Mass.
Away, you Boston!
We're travelin' swell,
So fare you well;
We're bound for old Boston, Mass.
Solo—The engineer's a bloomin' dude.
Chorus—Away, you Boston!
Solo—The brakeman's never coarse or crude.
Chorus—We're bound for Boston, Mass.
Away, you Boston!
So fare you well,
My bonnie young belle,
We're off for old Boston, Mass.
Solo—As I was walking down Forty-third street,
Chorus—Wey! Hey! Blow the man down!
Solo—A passenger agent I happened to meet,
Chorus—Give us some time to blow the man down.
Solo—Says he, "You're a Back Bayer by the cut of your hair—
I know you're a Back Bayer by the clothes that you wear."
Chorus—Wey! Hey! Blow the man down!
Solo—You've driven the engineer crazy with speed,
The fireman, too, is exhausted indeed,
Chorus—Give us some time to blow the man down.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Remarkable Victory of Dr. Olaya Herrera, of Colombia, Who Is Soon to Visit Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with much interest the article appearing in the March 20th issue of your newspaper, entitled "Brazil's President Coming." I am in warm sympathy with the sentiment expressed in that article as I know of no Latin-American country in which the United States is held in higher esteem. I write, however, to point out that next month another president-elect of an important Latin-American republic will visit this country. I refer to Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, who has recently been chosen to head the destinies of the Republic of Colombia.

The visit of Dr. Olaya Herrera may be even more significant than that of Dom Julio Prestes. Dr. Olaya Herrera comes from a country where public opinion in the past regarding the United States has not been as warmly sympathetic as has been the case in Brazil. In spite of this fact, Dr. Olaya Herrera made his campaign on the principal issue of friendship for the United States. He pointed out so convincingly and with so much courage the fact that Colombia's best interests rested in a closer and more friendly relationship with the United States, that he was overwhelmingly elected in spite of the fact that those who were supposed to know maintained that any man running on such a platform could not possibly be victorious in Colombia.

Dr. Olaya Herrera won because all the world admires courage and sincerity. His victory was unparalleled in the annals of the modern history of Latin America. Press dispatches tell us that he will leave Bogota, the capital of his country, in a few days, and fly to the seaport of Barranquilla. From there he will cross the Caribbean, not in a boat but in an airplane. What could be more up to date than the actions of this fearless, straight-thinking man of the new era in Latin-American affairs?

Let us not overlook the coming of so picturesque a character as Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, already well known to the people of the United States because of his years of service in Washington as the representative of his country. M. M. HEAD.

Cherry Blossoms Around Tidal Basin Are White, Not Pink.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is to be regretted that, in most pictures of the Tidal Basin, the Japanese cherry blossoms are colored pink. They are, in fact, white, with only the faintest trace of pink. The pink-blossoming trees, unfortunately, were removed to East Potomac Park several years ago and bloom ten or fifteen days later than the white.

In their spotless drapery the Tidal Basin trees are not less beautiful, though less gorgeous, than those of the misleading pictures. Nevertheless, it is likely enough that sightseers are often perplexed if not disappointed when they discover that the scene is not as extremely colorful as they have been led to believe.

I was once asked where the Jap trees were located, although they were plainly in sight. I remember the circumstance because my local pride suffered a little bit until I happened to think that the inquiring tourist's notion of their appearance had probably been formed from some gaudy postcard picture.

In anticipation of next year's Cherry Blossom Festival, it seems to me that something should be done to get rid of this widespread misconception. By means of a descriptive word or so in the festival's advance literature and advertisements a good deal might be easily accomplished.

HENRY HARRISON.

Spring Has Came! Fan Sees Senators in World Series Already.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have a hunch that the Senators this year will land in the money. The hunch is based on the idea that they will not start out overloaded with confidence, as was the case last spring.

Even when overconfidence results from the winning of a league pennant or a world series, baseball authorities speak of it as a handicap. When our club commenced the 1929 season inoculated with exhibition-game confidence, the wonder is that the experts failed to place them where they belonged, in the hod-carrier class.

This year, with Rice and Judge and Ruel and Bluege sound in wing and props, Myer, Cronin, West and Barnes in proper shape, the pitching staff in winning mood, and a bunch of likely rookies pepped up for big-league seasoning, their prospects are bright for a brilliant and profitable season, assuming that they do not again develop pipe dreams on their way back from training camp.

If only Goose Goslin at his best were in the line-up, I would not be astonished if Walter Johnson should make his admirers glad next fall with world series added to his smoke-ball laurels. SAME OLD JAKE.

Why Should Taxpayers Furnish an Airport for Commercial Fliers?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will some one tell the taxpayers of the District of Columbia the theory upon which they are to be taxed to establish a station, it might as well be called, for commercial airplane companies to embark and disembark passengers? There must be some sound reason for it; otherwise such patriotic statesmen as those who advocate spending the taxpayers' money for an airport for the benefit of commercial airplane companies would not favor legislation to that end. The taxpayers of the thousands of cities and towns in the country did not provide the railroad companies with the stations or the steamship companies with their wharves and warehouses. The rail and water transportation companies provided these accessories themselves. Why should not the air transportation companies do the same?

What is the answer to it all?

ITALY CELEBRATES FOUNDING OF FASCI

Parades Held in Big Cities After Mussolini Warns of Perils Ahead.

BIANCHI GIVEN TRIBUTE

Rome, March 23 (A.P.).—With Fascist demonstrations of party strength and unity in every city and large town, Italy today celebrated the eleventh anniversary of the foundation of the "Fasci," the combat units from which the Fascist party arose.

The Fascist secretaries in all districts read a message from Premier Mussolini in which the duce declared that during eleven years Fascism had prevailed over a thousand difficulties of every kind, but that many more no less grave awaited it.

"They impose upon us always more peremptorily the command the United discipline by which the Fascist Italian people should always more and more unite into a single group," he said.

Future Regarded Calmly.

"Today the first battle legions find themselves side by side with the young men who have grown up to a life dedicated to a faith which unites two ages and two historic moments, the past and the future of the nation. Let us therefore regard with tranquil security the unfolding of events. Retrograde forces in coalition against young Fascist Italy do not disturb us.

"Let us make known to every one that we have the same spirit, the same will and the same motto of seven years ago. Added to that we have experience, method and a more profound knowledge of men and things. With these reflections we rest one day to remember, while Fascism enters its second decade, which will be more glorious and more combative than the first. On guard!"

The message was published yesterday in Foglio d'Ordine, the Fascist order sheet.

After a big meeting in Milan, Augusto Turati, secretary of the party, reviewed a parade of Black-Shirt militia. Milan is considered the birthplace of Fascism.

Planes Roar Overhead.

In the Augusteo Auditorium at Rome, Deputy Achille Starace, undersecretary of the party, addressed another meeting, while squadrons of airplanes went roaring in aerial demonstrations above.

All the cities of Italy were bedecked throughout the day, and special illuminations were turned on tonight. Floodlights bathed the public monuments.

Fascist leaders everywhere paid tribute to the memory of Michele Bianchi, one of the "quadrumvirs" of the famous march on Rome in October, 1922. Bianchi died on February 3, this year, while minister of public works. He was the first of the Duce's four chief aids in the historic march to die.

The simple Fascist rites for the dead were observed. At each meeting an officer of the Black-Shirts called out, as though calling the roll, "Comrade Michele Bianchi." And the assembled militia shouted back as one man, "Present!"

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—"Can you imagine me supporting Gifford Pinchot for anything?"

The speaker was Joseph Grundy, better known as "Uncle Joe," and now a senator of the United States. The time was the early spring of 1922. Within a week he was moving heaven and earth to nominate Pinchot over Vare's candidate, Alter, and Pinchot was both nominated and elected.

There are those here who think that history may repeat itself. Grundy is a fighter. He has waved talks of compromise aside impatiently. He wants to be elected senator, of course, and the way to that end could be smoothed easily by his accepting Vare's candidate for governor, Francis Shunk Brown. But this senatorial election is only for the unexpired Vare term—two years. In 1932 he will have to make the senatorial fight all over again.

• • • •

MOREOVER, Grundy now dominates the State by virtue of the governor, Fisher, being his man. If he agrees to let Vare's man, Brown, become governor, his power at Harrisburg ends.

So when he sits down at that conference in Pittsburgh, called for today, with Gov. Fisher, with Andrew W. Mellon, in whose honor the birthday party is being given, it may be difficult for the Mellons to placate him. Grundy's own candidate for governor, S. S. Lewis, already has the backing of the Mellons, but Gov. Fisher has been noncommittal, Fisher and Lewis having been virtually enemies since Lewis spoke his mind about the highway department, and opposed the governor in raising the gasoline tax.

INCIDENTALLY, although Grundy made Fisher governor, there has been a curious change in allegiance as the years have passed. The Mellons had a candidate of their own for governor four years ago, while Vare was a candidate for senator himself and proposed Beidleman for governor. Grundy cared nothing about the senatorship, but he did want Fisher for governor. The Mellons regretfully accepted Grundy's will as to the governorship in order to obtain Grundy's support for George Wharton Pepper against Vare.

Then was put on the campaign of the millions. Its slush funds shocked the country and inspired frenzied denunciation in the Senate. The money spent for Vare caused such furore that the Senate refused to seat him. Yet twice that much was spent on the other side nominating Fisher and attempting to nominate Pepper. Incidentally Ed Beidleman died thinking he had been counted out in Mellon-controlled Pittsburgh, and there are many living who agree with him.

• • • •

Fisher discharged his debt to Grundy, who forced the Mellons to take him, by appointing Grundy senator, some think. At any rate, he has seemed to be drifting into the Mellon alignment, but he finds difficulty in swallowing the Grundy and Mellon gubernatorial candidate. Lewis and he were good friends four years ago, but things have happened since.

But, Mr. Grundy is a hard man. He forced the Mellonis to take Fisher four years ago against their protest. Now he may force them to whip that same Fisher into line.

• • • •

His weapon will be Gifford Pinchot. If Grundy can not control the governorship himself, he does not propose to let any one control it who is going to work against Grundy, and he has no illusions but that Vare's man Brown will do that very thing.

• • • •

So Grundy may do in 1930 what he did in 1922—support a man with whom he disagrees utterly on almost everything except dislike, for very different reasons, of the Vare organization in Philadelphia, unless the Mellons are able to convince Grundy that his own man, Lewis, can be nominated for governor.

Meanwhile Pinchot is having the time of his life.

Europa Under Bremen's Average on Second Day

S. S. Europa, March 23 (A.P.).—Bucking strong headwinds or adverse currents for the greater part of time, the liner Europa made 704 knots from noon yesterday to noon today, traveling at an average speed of 28.04 knots. Her sister ship the Bremen made 706 knots on the second day of her maiden voyage.

The Europa encountered headwinds and rough sea all yesterday afternoon and last night, but today met beautiful gulf stream weather. The currents were adverse, however.

EIELSON'S FUNERAL IS HELD IN SEATTLE

Rites for Him and Borland Conducted After Bodies Arrive From Arctic.

HUNDREDS PAY TRIBUTE

Seattle, Wash., March 23 (A.P.).—Seattle paid final tribute today to the memories of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic aviators who went to their death in an airplane crash near North Cape, Siberia, last November. They were attempting a flight from Teller, Alaska, to the fur trader Nanuk, icebound at the cape.

The bodies were recovered after months of searching and brought to Seattle by plane, train and ship, the steamship Alaska bringing them here from Seward, Alaska. The Alaska arrived last night, many hours overdue, having been buffeted by head winds continually on the trip south. As a result of the delay, funeral services, originally planned for Saturday, were postponed until today.

The bodies were taken from the ship last night and escorted by civil and military organization to the mortuary, where they reposed in their flag-draped coffins until the services today. Borland's final resting place will be a cemetery in Seattle, the home of his parents, while Eielson will be interred at Hatton, N. Dak., his boyhood home. The body will be taken there in a special railroad coach with a detachment of the North Dakota National Guard as guard of honor.

Hundreds of Seattle residents waited patiently at the dock for the Alaska to arrive last night, and stood reverently by as the bodies were escorted through their ranks to the mortuary.

With the Alaska docked, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Borland, parents of Earl Borland, and Miss Adeline Eielson, sister of the flier, went aboard to meet relatives who had accompanied the bodies to the States from Fairbanks, Alaska. Ole Eielson, father of the pilot, returned with the body of his son. Mrs. Earl Borland, with her two small sons, also came south.

Included i nthe funeral party were two Rusian aviators, Commander Mavrick Slipenov and Fabio Fahrig, who had aided in the search for the bodies, and three Canadian aviators, Capt. Pat Reid, Sam MacAuley and William Hughes, who were taken north to engage in the rescue expedition.

1. He was not a citizen of the United States.

2. He was the head of an independent nation, in the Western Hemisphere which was once at war with the United States.

3. His country was the scene of serious religious controversies during the past few years.

4. After heading his government for one term he retired and was later reelected, but was assassinated before taking office.

Oil Burner Explodes Shattering Building

An explosion which could be heard for many blocks shook a building at 2 New York avenue yesterday morning, tearing out a brick wall and shattering a large plate glass show window.

Policeman Heyne was standing near New York avenue and North Capitol street when he heard the report of the explosion. He sent in an alarm immediately. When the firemen arrived they found considerable damage had been done. An oil burner was given as the cause of the explosion. The window shattered by the blast was in the showroom of the Triangle Motor Co.

GANDHI ASKS WOMEN TO AID IN REBELLION

Those Who Can Have Children Taken Care Of Urged to Join March.

DELAY SOUGHT IN BENGAL

Suva, India, March 23 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi announced today on his arrival from Jamnusar that women who can arrange satisfactorily for the care of their children should join the civil disobedience campaign against the British government.

His statement was in reply to questions asked here by Miss Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya, a prominent social worker. He explained that he neither desired nor expected women to neglect their children in furthering the cause.

Miss Chattopadhyaya proposed to tour Bombay presidency and enroll two sets of women volunteers, one to take an active part in the civil disobedience campaign and the other for propaganda work. It was understood that Mrs. Gandhi will lead the first party of 37 volunteers from Ashraf, proceeding by train to Bulsar, and thence to Titel, where they will join in the campaign to violate the salt laws. By an innovation in the camp arrangements, mixed camps for both sexes will be established for the volunteers wherever possible.

Calcutta, India, March 23 (A.P.).—In view of the all-India congress committee resolution not to start civil disobedience until Mahatma Gandhi has reached his destination on the Gulf of Cambay and actually commits a breach of the law, Bengal leaders today appealed to the workers to delay their campaign until then.

The leaders suggested that the interval be utilized in enlisting and training volunteers. Meetings are being held throughout the presidency of Bengal. A number of young men from the Tippera district have gone to Mitenapose to offer their services in the manufacture of salt in violation of the British monopoly. The latest enlisted volunteers are the chairman and vice chairman of Howrah municipality, a suburb of Calcutta.

3 MORE DAYS TO ENTER

And to Compete for an Extra Prize of $500 in GOLD

Together With 85,000 Extra Votes for Each $20 Worth of New Subscriptions

HURRY! You still have a wonderful chance to win this big special prize and to pile up a margin of extra votes that will put you well in the forefront of candidates for one of the twelve big automobiles and sixteen radios that will be given away at the close of the campaign on April 5. Three days, employed in energetic canvassing of your friends and acquaintances, should enable you to win, as the many improvements and additions to the contents of this newspaper are making it doubly desirable to everyone. Come in today and talk it over with the campaign manager whose office is located on the fifth floor of The Post Building—he may have some information of great importance to you if you are from a district in which there is now little or no representation.

The special prize of $500 will be paid for results secured within the period which began on March 13 and ends Wednesday, March 26, at 9 P. M. Little activity has thus far been noticeable and the campaign manager feels that some new candidate could start today and outdistance competition.

FLAGSHIP OF BYRD STARTS FOR HOME

50 Members of Expedition on Board; Commander to Come Later.

DUNEDIN SAYS GOOD-BY

Dunedin, New Zealand, March 23 (A.P.).—Carrying 50 members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition homeward, the bark City of New York, flagship of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, sailed this afternoon from Otago Harbor for Tahiti, en route for New York.

Admiral Byrd was among a crowd of more than 10,000 that thronged the wharves to say good-by. He is remaining here a few days to complete business affairs and will travel by mail steamer homeward, rejoining the City of New York at the Panama Canal. He bade his shipmates farewell before the tug took the bark down the channel.

Pushing out into a gray mist and bucking a stiff easterly breeze, the Byrd flagship, after sixteen months in the waters under the Southern Cross, started the expedition's journey home from its conquest of the South Pole by air and its triumphs in the fields of exploration and scientific research.

The steamship Eleanor Bolling will follow her in a few days. The ships are leaving many friends behind them in Dunedin. Capt. Melville and the crew of the City of New York have become particularly popular here since making it their base on arriving in November, 1928. Their adventurous trips to the great ice barrier won the admiration of all, including even the native Maori chieftains.

Capt. Melville was entertained by the master mariners of the port and also by a big gathering of Maoris. One Maori chief expressed his delight that such small craft as the City of New York were able to venture successfully into the far regions of the Southern seas.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

'Twas a sad, sad story told down on E. Street last night, where lines usually form toward the box office of the National Theater.

It seems that the good patrons of the theater hurried through their Sunday night suppers, bent on seeing the new musical comedy, "Jonica," unfold itself for the first time on any stage.

Well, to make a long story short, the show didn't come off, at all, at all. For some reason or other, one of those exigencies that often arise in the world theatric, the producers called off the performance. They say it was not ready for presentation. So a lot of good folk, who had passed up church on the way downtown, went home disappointed; went home, or down on Ninth street, where Jimmy Lake, manager of the Gayety, was covorting in his own show.

* * * *

It is rather well known about the town that Mr. Jimmy Lake is an entertainer of no mean ability, as they say in the Arabian Nights. Before the Gayety Theater Jimmy had he took over the management of trouped all over the globe with burlesque and other companies. Never a comedian, in the true sense of the tertainer who had a flair for comword, he was, none the less, an enedy. So it was natural that he should from time to time feel the urge to step out before the footlights. To satisfy that impulse, Mr. Lake organized himself a company called "The Big Revue." He sent it galavanting over the Mutual Circuit. When it appeared in Washington last night, during the natural course of bookings, it was but natural that Mr. Lake should turn the business of the theater over to his able assistants, don the make-up and the cane, and appear once again as Dapper Jim, the boy who has a way with him. Well, he went over big, from all reports, and ony time Mr. Lake grows tired of managing a theater there is, sir, the road.

Ed Walsh, of Chevy Chase and way stations, has never lost his interest in the theater; nor will he ever. He now avers that the one best bet in this man's town is the revival of "The Merry Widow," scheduled for the week at Poli's, beginning tonight. In the cast of this old operetta is one Donald Brian, a very dear friend of Mr. Walsh's, a friend of the olden, golden days in the theater when Washington was Washington and there were no ten commandments, or words to that effect. At any rate, Mr. Donald Brian is going to meet a lot of old-time theatergoers during the course of his week in Washington, and it would not be a bit surprising to see him trip the light fantastic on the dance floor of the Press Club, where Mr. Lee Poe Hart, chairman of the entertainment committee, is always on the lookout for promising material.

And lest we forget, there is Robert Downing, the Washington boy, down at the Auditorium the first three days of this week in his old play, "Virginius." Who should walk into the office, as this is being written, but one Bill Wilkison, the well known press agent, ahead of "Journey's End," at Poli's next week. Says Bill: "It was 42 years ago, come this Eastertide, that I first came to Washington—ahead of Robert Downing in "The Gladiator." Told that Robert Downing was down at the Auditorium Mr. Wilkison said: "Though 'tis the journey's end, I'll go see him." He'll be there tonight when the curtain goes up.

GAYETY

The "Big Revue," with Lillian Dixon and Claire Devine, is the production which Jimmy Lake, manager of the Gayety, had sailing under his own cmfwyp throughout the Mutual circuit. It came to rest at the Gayety Theater yesterday.

Unofficially, yesterday was Jimmy Lake's day. Manager, producer and performer was the thiumverate role accorded this former burlesque star, whose "Big Revue" demonstrates the same showmanship that Gayety-goers have witnessed here during the current burlesque season. Stepping into the cast, assuming a character part, Jimmy showed his employes how it was formerly done, when "Lake," as comedian and straight man, was a byword with burlesque fans.

Lillian Dixon was ever ready in entertaining the assemblage with her popular vocal numbers and nifty dancing.

Two laughable comics, Reeb and Hart; a clever soubrette, Jane Vitale, and Kelly, a vocal specialist, complete the cast of Lake's performers. This constitutes one of the best productions on the Mutual circuit.

Body Found on Canal Towpath.

An unidentified colored man about 35 years old was found on the towpath of the C. & O. Canal, at the foot of Thirtieth street yesterday. The body was removed to the District Morgue, where an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Auto Deaths Show Big Increase in 1929

New York, March 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A sharp increase in automobile deaths in 1929 over 1928 is shown in figures released today by Owen B. Augspurger, president of the New York Automobile Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association. The 31,500 killed in 1929 represents an increase of 12 per cent over the 28,000 killed in 1928. Augspurger said: "There were approximately 107 deaths to every 100,000 cars registered in 1929. This represents an upward trend since 1927. There were 157.4 deaths per 100,000 cars registered in 1918. Deaths from motor vehicles have increased threefold in a ten-year period."

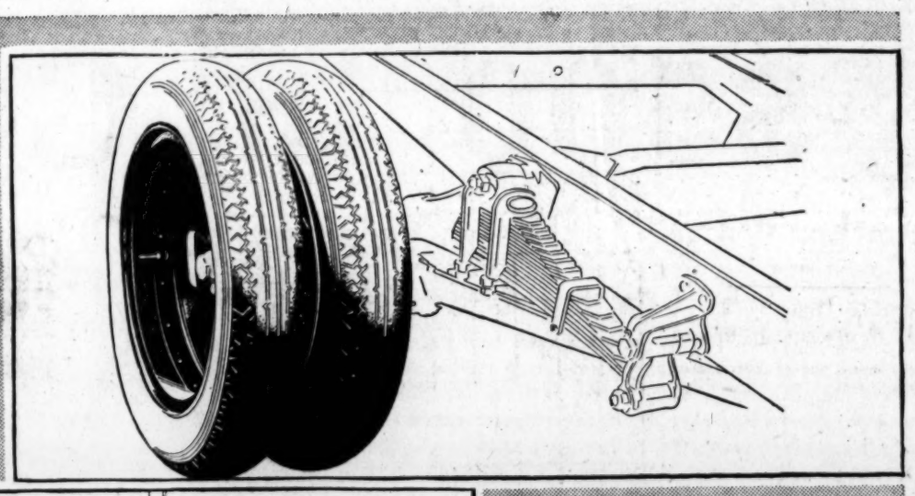
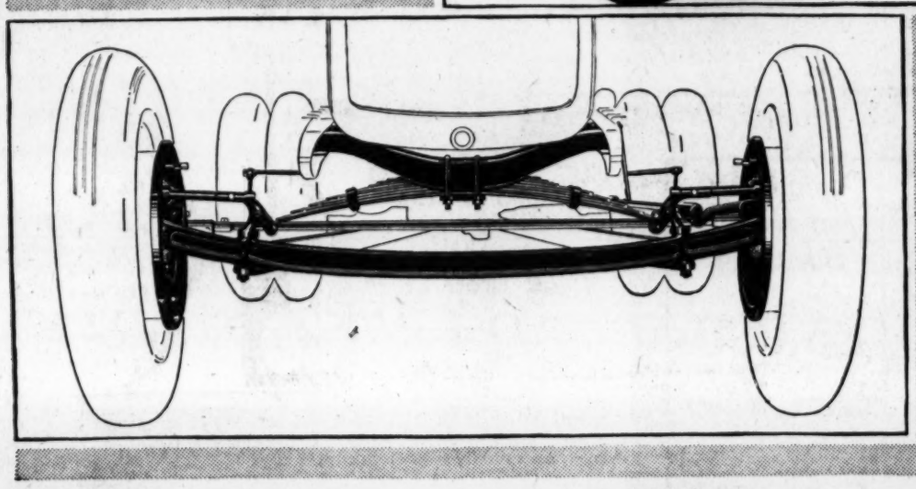
New features of the FORD TRUCK

Dual Rear Wheels and Balloon Tires
Interchangeable all around





New Front Axle and Spring
Unusually sturdy front construction

ONE of the first features of the Ford truck to impress you is its rugged strength. At the front end, for example, the special Ford design transverse spring is heavier than formerly, with wider leaves. The new front axle, a chrome-alloy forging, is twice as strong as before. The front radius-rod is heavier, and the king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings are larger.

Likewise, the front brakes have been made stronger, the drum diameter having been increased from 11 to 14 inches, the same as on the rear wheels. This provides a high degree of safety.

A feature of the Ford truck which you will find convenient and economical is the new wheel and tire equipment. Dual rear wheels can be installed at small additional cost. With the dual equipment, balloon tires of one size are used throughout, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

Other new features of the Ford truck which add to its reliability and performance are the 4-speed transmission, which gives a wide, flexible range of speed and power, and the new spiral bevel gear rear axle. The axle-shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating design of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

Your Ford dealer will be glad to show you these and many other features which make the Ford truck such a remarkable value.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

AN ALL-STAR program by the Selberling Singers this Thursday evening will mark their exit through the backstage door of the ether following the conclusion of the winter series. It is promised the hour will be back next fall with new songs, novelties and new ideas in radio entertainment.

In the meantime, the quartet composed of James Melton, Lewis James, Elliott Shaw and Wilfred Glenn will be featured in the program to be known as the Raleigh Revue, having its premiere on Friday evening of this week. In addition, the revue will present Alfred Shirley, master of ceremonies; Edna Kellogg, soprano; Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, two-piano team; and a new radio orchestra directed by William Merrigan Daly.

Station WRC will broadcast only the first half of the new hour, because of arrangements made previously for broadcasting another new attraction, to have its premiere at 10:30 o'clock the same evening.

THE early bird adage has been upheld by the District Court of Appeals in the issuance of short wave licenses to the Universal Wireless Communications, Inc. The court refused to order the Radio Commission to recall the permits, as requested by the Radio Corporation of America, despite the fact that an injunction held up the license of RCA and others the day after they were issued.

Universal Wireless, being on the job the day the grants were made, pocketed its licenses before the court had heard of the commission's action.

Martin Codel, well-known writer on radio topics, will address listeners of the Columbia Broadcasting System in "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" program at 6:15 o'clock on Wednesday. His subject will be "Radio and Its Future," the title of his new book, soon to be off the press.

THE following has been brought to our attention by a reader of this column:

"On March 18, 1930, Stations WRC and WMAL were off the air due to an S O S signal. The following stations continued to operate: WJSV, WOL, WBAL, WRVA and WJZ. Are these stations exempt from the ruling that all coastal stations must shut down during the period distress signals are being transmitted? Kindly make some kind of an alibi for them, if possible."

We can't!

The recent capture of a New York forger in Honolulu after identification by a photograph sent by radio across the Pacific has attracted attention to another way in which radio can aid in the apprehension of criminals.

William Hard, recently returned from London, will resume his regular broadcast schedule from the studios of WRC at 7:45 o'clock tonight. Frederic William Wile may be in Washington in time to do his turn at the usual hour on Thursday evening.

"The Violin Maker of Cremona," an old classic, adapted from the French of Francois Coppee, will be the dramatic offering over WRC at 9 o'clock tomorrow evening.

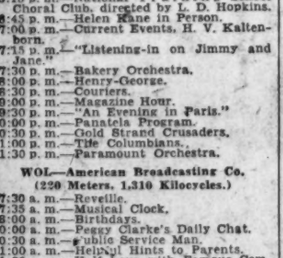
Baby Mine



Dare Interprets the Mode

.. Cape and three-shade trimming combinations are the new notes in this green crepe that are of especial interest. (Courtesy of Mag-Helly, Paris).

Paris, March 23.

HAVE you an old straw hat in your attic, or two or three or six? Drag it or them down.

Take all the trimming off, lay it flat on the ironing board, and, with a brush dipped in benzine or pure castile soap and water, scrub the daylights out of it. Then iron it under a damp cloth or have it blocked, which would be much better, exactly to your head size, and then buy transparent varnish and varnish it! Don't put the varnish on too thick, of course, and be sure that it's transparent.

And with a little further clever manipulation, you are going to have the cleverest new summer hat in town!

• • • •

Patou favors certain discreet flower touches on his hats. They consist either of pink or white, or pink and white parma violets, or very shiny small pink or white gardenias, or large, very soft and fragile pink or white roses.

• • • •

And then feather poms and chous, how they do make their appearance on the dressy type of afternoon hats! There is much to be said for the smart close-fitting felt hat—but how much also is there to be said for the new dress hats for more formal afternoon and evening wear!

• • • •

At last a place where you can buy good stockings in Paris—don't drop dead, it has been found—and any suffering lady who has ever spent any time in Paris at all will know what we mean when we rave about the stockings we have to wear this side of the Atlantic.

No less than Schiaparelli, a famous French couturier, has decided to have her own particular kinds and shades of stockings woven in America, and somehow or other has managed to have them exported to France in such a way that she can manage to sell them at a nominal price. Hurrah for Schiaparelli!

• • • •

You're going to hear plenty about capes this summer so you won't mind my talking about them a lot, will you, especially when they so enchantingly appear on something or other as they did today in the pale green crepe ensemble of Mag-Helly that I had the good luck to sketch for you?

And, by way of novelty, don't you love the way the cuffs and hanging tie are put on? They were in one much darker and one much lighter shade of green than the cape of the dress.

• • • •

You take a dollar-ninety-five-cent pair of gloves, then you buy a dollar-and-a-quarter felt hat shape—and you sit down and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and then, if you're lucky and they aren't all gone (because these are going to be awfully popular), you get back a leaflet telling you how to make the most gorgeous and expensive looking gloves with a cuff that matches a bag! You know, short sleeves and fancy cuff gloves are the mode for summer.

• • • •

In addition, we have lots of interesting things to tell you in the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Post.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF March 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Little importance can be attached to astrological influences on this date—they are too weak to be of either assistance or harm. Victories will be attributable solely to your own determination and mental outlook, and not to "luck."

Children born on this March 24 will be robust and strong, and will possess both mental and physical courage. They will not amount to much at their studies, but by a strong personality, assisted by "push," are sure to be successful.

You have an unquenchable thirst for knowledge, and you will never consider yourself too old or too big to learn. You are able to rise above those who are not willing to secure efficiency by forgetting themselves. You are not afraid to drop in status from the expert to the learner, or of "making a fool of yourself" for the sake of finding out something. You are not twice ignorant in the same place.

Your spirit is one which will never grow old with the passing of the years. Your interests in life will never droop and you will grow old gracefully and charmingly. You are not a spoil-sport, but you are not afraid to keep your own point of view, even if considered stuffy or old-fashioned. You never agree with any one, young or old, simply to gain cheap popularity. Your prejudices, your opinions, your likes and your dislikes, are your very own, and not second-handed.

Nature has kindly endowed you with an even temper and a large bump of optimism. A sense of humor has smoothed over many a rough spot for you and for others. Your life will be crammed full of experiences and adventures, and you will make and keep a host of worthwhile friends.

Successful people born March 24:

Joel Barlow, diplomat and poet.

William E. Leroy, naval officer, "the Chesterfield of the Navy."

Fanny J. Crosby, poet and hymn writer.

Arthur Bergh, musician and composer.

Herbert (Otto Henry) Lang, naturalist.

Matilda J. Gage, reformer.

How to Give Cod Liver Oil to Baby.

(Children's Bureau.)

With the baby on your lap, pour the cod liver oil into a spoon held in your right hand. With your left hand open the baby's mouth by pressing his cheeks together between your thumb and fingers. Pour the oil little by little into his mouth. If his mouth is not held open until the oil is entirely swallowed he will expel what is left in his mouth. It is rare for a baby actually ot regurgitate oil. Cod liver oil will not upset a baby's digestion. Older babies may be given orange juice with the cod liver oil, or after it. It is best, however, to teach them to take it directly, unmixed with anything else.

Queen Asks Policeman To Make 14 at Luncheon

Cairo, Egypt, March 23 (A.P.)—Comrades of the native officer in charge of the police at Sakkara consider thirteen his lucky number, since it was responsible for his getting an invitation to have luncheon with Queen Marie and Princess Ileana of Roumania.

The queen and princess, while visiting the ancient monuments at Sakkara, were invited to luncheon by the head of an excavating party. They accepted, and on arriving, discovered that an unexpected guest had increased the number of diners to thirteen. The queen hesitated to sit down to a meal with a party of thirteen persons, so the native officer was summoned to join the luncheon party. The lunch was voted a complete success.

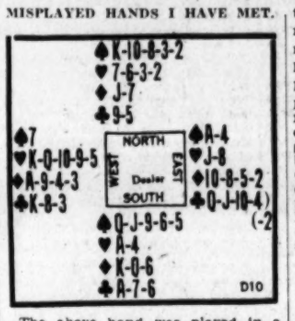
WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The above hand was played in a game of Contract Bridge. South started with two Spades, as his hand reached the six-trick measurement required for that bid; one No Trump would have been another correct bid for South. West bid three Hearts, North three Spades, East passed and South bid four Spades.

Had the hand been played in Auction, the bidding doubtless would have been: South one Spade, West two Hearts and North two Spades, which would have held the contract.

In the play West led his King of Hearts, which South won and led a trump; East won and led a Heart, and West permitted East to hold the trick. With so many trumps in the North hand, there was no point in West's overtaking so as to continue Hearts with the idea of forcing South. East then led the Queen of Clubs; South won, took one more round of trumps to exhaust East, and then led a Diamond. West won, cashed a Club and so saved game. The Declarer was inclined to blame his hard luck for not being able to make game with so strong a holding in his combined hands; but it was not his luck that was at fault.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South, winning the first trick, should have foreseen that employing the method shown above—which might be called the "normal manner" of playing the hand, he would lose one trick in each suit; but by leading a small Diamond to trick 2 he would extract the adverse Ace before he lost his Ace of Clubs. The enemy then would take in their one good Heart and next lead a Club; but South, winning with the Ace of Clubs, would give dummy a Club discard on a third round of Diamonds before starting his trumps. By playing in this way, Declarer would avoid the loss of a Club trick and win the game.

Push and Pull Train.

Paris, March 23 (A.P.).—A locomotive that pushes and pulls is an innovation on a French railroad line. Like a motorman of an electric train, the locomotive, when at the rear, is controlled from the front of the train by the engineer sitting at a special control station.

OUTSIDE CONTRACTS EXPLAINED BY FORD

Company Never Committed to Policy of Making All of Autos.

DID NOT CUT EMPLOYES

Detroit, March 23 (A.P.).—Reports that a large part of the work heretofore done in certain departments of the Ford Motor Co. was being let out on contract to outside firms, brought from Henry Ford today the statement that the company never was committed to the policy of producing in its own plants everything that went into Ford cars and trucks.

More than 2,300 firms throughout the United States supply the Ford Motor Co., Mr. Ford said. Business throughout the country is aided by this policy of decentralizing manufacture, he added.

Asked whether employment in the parent plants here had been reduced by the discontinuance of certain departments, Mr. Ford said:

"We inquired particularly into that before we acted. Thus far the men have been kept at other work as far as possible and that means practically every man was retained in employment."

The plan has not only effected economies in production, according to another official of the company, but has served to spread employment. "We have land enough," he said, "to duplicate a department for the production of everything required, but why should we take that work from those already established and experienced in making such parts? It would add to our expense of manufacture to build up such departments.

"We are trying to spread work around. The more we can spread manufacture and employment, the more certainly are we making it possible for tens of thousands of people to stay at home and work instead of flocking to Detroit to increase the general problem."

Bond Prices Rise In Strong Market

Easier Money Conditions React Favorably to Securities.

As a consequence of vigorous resort to its powers by the Federal Reserve System over the discount rate, bill rates, open market rates, and direct action in cooperation with foreign central banks, easy money conditions have reacted favorably on the bond market. Public demand and the increasing disposition of banks to buy bonds, notwithstanding tremendous new offerings this year, have brought bond prices to the Fisher index figure of 101.6, as compared with 100 for 1926. This is the highest level since February, 1928, when the index stood at 103.5.

Trading in all bonds on the New York Stock Exchange reached March 20 within 10 per cent of October 29, the 1929 record. Daily value of bond tradings last week on this exchange increased by 59 per cent over the preceding week.

World-wide low community prices have combined with the low money rates to make bonds attractive, because of their increased dollar purchasing power in yield and principal. New bond issues last week totaled over $187,000,000 against new stock issues of less than $10,000,000, making the second largest bond week for the year.

Length of Depression Is 4 to 18 Months

History of business depressions shows us that such periods last anywhere from four months to a year and a half. The business set back that began in the autumn of 1923 lasted until the autumn of 1924.

The deflation beginning the summer of 1920 did not end until early 1922. On the other hand, the severe depression that accompanied the declaration of war in 1914 lasted only from August until the next April. The present depression started in June, 1929.

(Argentine Republic)

6½% External Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of 1930

Dated February 1, 1930 Due August 1, 1961

Interest payable February 1 and August 1. Principal and interest payable at the office of The First of Boston Corporation, Paying Agent, in New York, in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, or, at the option of the holder, in London, at the office of Harris, Forbes & Company, Ltd., Sub-Paying Agent, in Sterling at the rate of $4.8665 to the Pound, or, at the option of the holder, in Buenos Aires, at the principal office of The First National Bank of Boston, Buenos Aires Branch, Sub-Paying Agent, in Argentine Gold Pesos at the rate of 1.0364 Gold Pesos to the Dollar. Principal and interest payable in every case without deduction for any Argentine taxes, present or future. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Redeemable in whole or in part on 30 days' notice on any interest date at par and accrued interest.

The Province covenants to provide a cumulative sinking fund of 1% per annum, calculated to be sufficient to retire all the bonds by maturity, to operate semi-annually by purchase below par and accrued interest, or, if bonds are not so obtainable, then through drawings by lot at par and accrued interest. The Province reserves the right to increase any sinking fund payment.

THE FIRST OF BOSTON CORPORATION, NEW YORK, Paying Agent
HARRIS FORBES TRUST COMPANY, BOSTON, Authenticating Agent

The following information (transmitted by cable) is furnished by Señor Francisco Ratto, Minister of Finance of the Province:

Province of Buenos Aires The Province of Buenos Aires is the most important province of the Argentine Republic and ranks first in area, in population and in railroad mileage, as well as in industrial, agricultural and commercial development. The area of the Province (117,700 square miles) is greater than the combined areas of the New England States and the State of New York. The population exceeds 3,600,000, being more than one-fourth of the entire population of Argentina. A separate Federal District (analogous to the District of Columbia, U. S. A.) containing the city of Buenos Aires, capital of the Argentine Republic, adjoins the Province and, with its population of more than 2,000,000, provides a permanent and important market for the food and other products of the Province.

Authority and Purpose of Issue The issuance of these bonds is authorized by Law 3941 of November 2, 1927 enacted by the Legislature of the Province. The proceeds will be used to provide school houses and other public buildings in various parts of the Province and to redeem $4,000,000 of short-term obligations of the Province issued to provide funds for like purposes. Under contracts already entered into by the Province, 110 school houses have been completed or are nearing completion and plans have been prepared for 223 additional school buildings. This new construction will result in a substantial saving through the release of rented buildings.

Security These bonds are the direct obligation of the Province of Buenos Aires which pledges its full faith and credit for the due and punctual payment of principal, interest and sinking fund. In addition, Law 3941 authorizing these bonds appropriates, as subject to specific charge and lien for the exclusive benefit of the bonds issuable thereunder, an annual amount out of the revenues of the Inheritance Tax calculated to exceed the maximum annual requirement for interest and sinking fund on such bonds.

After deducting annual prior charges from the Inheritance Tax receipts for 1929, the remainder is equivalent to more than 5½ times annual service charges on this issue and more than 3¾ times annual service charges on the total amount of bonds authorized under Law 3941 including bonds not yet issued—calculated at current rates of exchange. Such remainder is equivalent to more than 7 times annual service charges on this issue at par of exchange.

Finances The revenues of the Province continue to reflect the constant improvement in its financial status that has been manifest for the last four years. For the fiscal year 1927 the revenues collected amounted to $48,995,000; for 1928 to $54,531,000, and for 1929 to $57,750,000. The fiscal year 1927 showed a deficit of $1,993,000. The fiscal year 1928 closed with a surplus of $443,000, and the fiscal year 1929 with a surplus of $224,000.

For over 30 years, with the exception of two years during the World War, the Province has never failed to provide funds for the interest payments on its external debt. The Province funded the 1915 and 1916 interest payments at the time and sinking fund payments were resumed in 1919 and 1920.

The total funded indebtedness of the Province, including this issue, amounts to $268,340,000 and the assessed value of privately owned real estate is in excess of $5,000,000,000.

All conversions of Argentine pesos into United States currency have been made at par of exchange, namely 42.45 cents per paper peso. The current rate of exchange (as of March 19, 1930) is approximately 37.75 cents per paper peso. The Caja de Conversion (Argentine Currency Conversion Office) was closed continuously from August 1914 until August 1927, when it was reopened. It was again closed on December 16, 1929. The total amount of gold held by the Caja de Conversion exceeds, however, $427,690,000 (as of March 19, 1930) representing a reserve of over 77% of the currency in circulation, which gives Argentine currency one of the highest gold reserves in the world. In addition, there is on deposit abroad to the order of Argentine embassies and legations an amount of gold equal to more than $11,000,000 and against such deposits there have been issued in Argentina approximately 26,000,000 paper pesos (not included in the foregoing calculation) with respect to which the gold reserve is accordingly 100%.

Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell of New York, who as to questions of Argentine law will consult with Dr. Benjamin Garcia Victorica, Buenos Aires. We reserve the right to reject subscriptions in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for and to close the subscription books at any time without notice. Temporary Bonds or Interim Receipts deliverable in the first instance at the office of The First of Boston Corporation, 100 Broadway, New York.

MERGER OF ALL TYPES OF WIRE AND WIRELESS LINES URGED

Capital and Competition Said to Need Great Company

Needless Duplication of Plant and Equipment Declared by Leaders to Exist; Television Ahead; Congressional Action Sought.

By IRVING FISHER
(Professor of Economics, Yale University).

Certainly the radio and other branches of the communications industry are hampered by needless duplications.

Whereas, the normal demand has been not more than 4,000,000 new sets a year, the over producing facilities have brought the factory mark up to 15,000,000 sets in a year.

The returns from television may not be divided between a dozen lucky foresighted men, but between a few large corporations that have for several years past been working on the idea.

Television is only one of the new developments on which the radio industry is cooperating with the electrical giants.

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., March 23.—Two powerful forces are driving radio and the wired services toward consolidation. These services include the broadcasting networks, making of receiving sets, companies that produce talking moving picture equipment, movie theater and production companies, the electrified phonograph business, music publishing companies, projected extensions into television and the domestic and foreign radio communications business, with its alliances with the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., All-America Cables, Inc., Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation. There is also a much-debated proposal to take in the vast cable system of Western Union.

The first of the two impelling forces is the requirement for large initial investment, which spells proportionately large fixed charges and small running expenses; and, second, the monopolistic character of the communications services, which means that competition can survive in this field only if protected by legislative act. But there is the tendency, under competition and small running expenses, to run prices down almost to zero. That is, competition tends toward the cuthroat variety. The remedy, in the case of railroads, has been ratefixing under Government regulation.

Check on Waste.

That would be possible for the wired and wireless services, as eloquently advocated by Owen D. Young, Gen. James G. Harbord and Clarence H. Mackay. Newcomb Carlton, president of Western Union, on the other hand, and F. B. McKinnon, president of the Independent Telephone Association, assert that the large well-organized companies should be allowed to compete. As for overinvestment and overproduction, opponents of the merger plan point out that they are even more in evidence in cotton textiles, boots and shoes, newsprint, coal-mining and some other industries.

It might be answered that the tendency to mergers is today pronounced in all these fields, in the universal effort to check waste. Certainly the radio and other branches of the communications industry are hampered by needless duplications. The public is perhaps best acquainted with the case through knowledge of the overproduced manufacture of radio receiving sets. Harold A. Lafount, of the Federal Radio Commisison, declares that this industry has been "undergoing the most drastic economic depression of its brief history."

As in all new industries promising large and quick profits, many companies entered this field that could hardly be said to belong there. Whereas the normal demand has been not more than 4,000,000 new sets a year, the overproducing facilities have brought the factory mark up to 15,000,000 sets in a year.

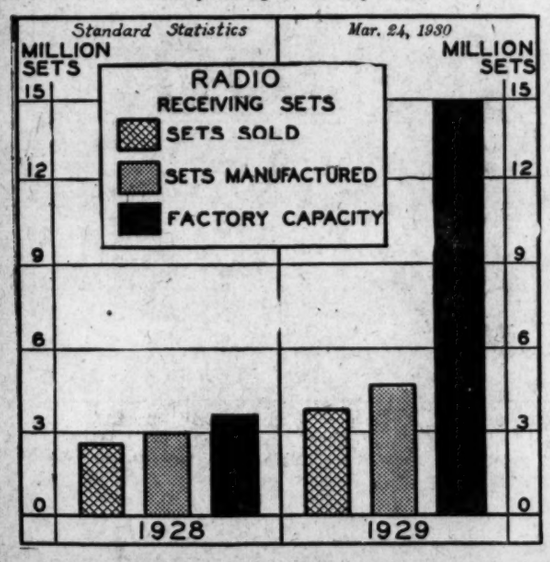
During the first three-quarters of 1929 this tendency was, in a measure, counterbalanced by an enormous increase in the buying of radio sets. For the entire year 3,500,000 sets were sold, or 1,000,000 more sets than in 1928. Despite the stock market crash, the average value of these products sold reached almost $450,000,000 for 1929, or about 40 per cent above the total for the preceding year. But during the final quarter of 1929 almost half of the 300 makers of radio sets and accessories were fighting for their lives.

There has been "distress selling" of radio merchandise since last November. As is usual while prices are tumbling, the purchasing public largely withholds its buying until prices "touch bottom." Nevertheless, it is officially reported that more than 1,500,000 sets on hand have been disposed of during the past three months.

Merging Process Afoot.

The process of merging and amalgamation in the communications field goes steadily forward. Meanwhile inventions are being stimulated. In radio during the past year the screen-grid tube has been generally adopted, while further refinements are ahead. Television opens up vast opportunities. In the enormous field of entertainment and education, these new methods will possibly entirely supersede present methods. The returns from television, however, may not be divided between a dozen lucky foresighted men, but between a few large corporations that have for several years past been working on the idea. It will spring fully developed commercially from their laboratories. It will be signalized in advance by rising prices of their stocks as foreshadowing the expected improvement.

But television is only one of the new developments on which the radio industry is cooperating with the electrical giants. The radio electrical equipment, telephone communication and amusements fields are getting to be more and more like one huge industry with well-defined departments. A merger of these interests would be devoted to research and waste-elimination rather than to competition. If it comes, it should be administered as a public trust under rigid governmental supervision.



Over-capacity of radio-set manufacturers, 1929, contrasted with 1928, together with ratios of actual production and sales.

MARKET IS BULLISH ON CHEAPER RATES

Industrial Common Shares Have Regained 37 Per Cent Lost in Crash.

PUBLIC HAS RETURNED

By H. B. BROUGHAM
(Irving Fisher Service).

The stock market turned bullish last week on the general decline of money rates, with the 2 per cent renewal rate the lowest since 1924, the cut in the British and New York Reserve rediscount rates to 3½ per cent, call money in New York obtainable at 1½ per cent, and an anticipated further lowering of the reserve rate to 3 per cent. Gov. Young, of the Reserve Board, urges "more initiative and less hesitancy" on the part of business leaders. He notes that the tide of cheap money has risen on a chastened stock market, in which he fears no recurrence of the speculative hysteria of last year.

If the market value of listed shares has advanced, with the Fisher index of all industrials showing 37 per cent recovery at the close last week from losses sustained by the crash, Gov. Young would interpret this as discounting a hopeful future for American business. The brokers' loan account, $121,000,000 higher last week, indicates strong participation by the public in the security markets. The banks also are buying bonds in quantities as quotations rise. On all sides there is evidence of renewed faith in industrial and trade values.

Last week only five of the twenty industrial common stock groups failed to recover ground lost in the slump of March 12-15. On Friday record highs since the crash were reached by utilities, steels, radio, chemicals, motors, accessories, building supplies and preferred stocks.

Average daily tradings in all stocks last week amounted to $216,000,000, declining $1,200,000 from the preceding week, but running to a total of $268,000,000 on March 19. Average daily trading in common industrials were $166,300,000, or $8,000,000 short of the preceding week's average.

Record tradings for 1930 were made in oils on March 17, steels on March 19, and motors on March 20.

Rise in London and Paris.

The stimulus of low British and Continental money rates is being felt in higher stock prices in London and Paris. On the London exchange prices fell for eight weeks consecutively from January 10 to March 7, but to date have recovered half the ground lost, with a gain last week of 0.4 per cent over the preceding week.

Paris stock prices rose last week by nearly 2 per cent—the first week of gains since January 17.

Following three weeks of no change stock prices in Berlin slumped last week by 3.2 per cent to 83.0, or 0.6 per cent below the record low of 83.5 at the bottom of the crash on November 29.

The compact survey of New York stock exchange movements of common industrial shares is given below in price indexes (1926 equals 100). There are two indexes of market price movement. The first ("Shares Outstanding") represents all common industrial shares listed on the exchange, the importance of each stock being considered according to the shares in existence, or outstanding. The second index ("50 Leaders") shows the price movement of the common industrial stocks most heavily dealt in during the week, this list changing weekly with the shifts in trading popularity.

The "Shares Outstanding" index shows what a substantially representative $100 worth of stocks in 1926 would now amount to if held unchanged since that year. The "50 Leaders" index shows the result of reinvesting the $100 every week in the market favorites of that week.

The last column of the table gives the rate of return on the week's 50 leaders at current prices.

Light Rainfall Help to Seeding

Winter Wheat Continues in Satisfactory Condition.

Seeding of spring wheat proceeded apace last week in the Missouri Valley area between Pierre and Sioux City. Mild temperature and light rainfall helped the process.

Winter wheat continues in generally satisfactory condition, with lack of uniformity, however, in the Ohio Valley crop, dryness in Oklahoma, and some damage from high winds in the Rocky Mountain foothills.

COMMODITY PRICE TURN THOUGHT NEAR

Long Decline in Wholesale Market Is Believed at Its End.

FARM PRODUCE BLAMED

The tide of battle seems near the turning point in the long decline of the wholesale commodity price. Last week's all-commodity price index fell only slightly off by 0.22 per cent to a new low mark of 90.7, but the chief blame for this attached to one heavily weighted group—farm products. The cause for optimism was in the fact that there were 56 per cent rises as against 44 per cent falls, while the preceding week showed 33 per cent rises in comparison with 66 per cent falls. Thus, since a majority of the group commodity prices have turned upward, a slight improvement in only a few groups will swing the all-commodity price index to the plus column.

The purchasing power of the dollar, sensitive to the long-continued commodity slump, rose 0.18 per cent to 110.2. This is a rise of nearly 2 cents since February 21.

Fluctuations in the general wholesale price jevel and in the purchasing power of the dollar are given below for the United States for various periods, based mainly on Dun's quotations. The average for the year 1926 is the base used.

FARMER PRODUCT PRICES STILL WEAK

Drops Are Recorded in Beef Steers, Potatoes, Hogs and Wool.

LEATHERS SHOW GAIN

Continued weakness in agricultural products was responsible for the further commodity price decline of last week. In the farm products division falls were recorded in beef steers, potatoes, lambs, hogs and wool, while the foods division was off in sugar and hams. For many weeks the raw materials and finished goods groups, in which most of the above items occur, had shown more falls than rises. Last week the falls and rises were equal.

Nonagricultural products came up 0.11 per cent, the first indication of a rise since January 10. This was caused primarily by strength in semi-manufactured goods group, which showed twice as many rises as falls, among them hides and leathers, metals, and textiles. The last group reversed its trend after the sharp drop of more than 1 per cent in the week of March 14.

English Commodity Prices Fail to Hold Gain.

The English commodity price level again took a downward trend last week, losing 1.6 per cent, and counteracting the gain of the preceding week. It sagged to a new low of 82.3.

French and German commodity prices reversed the downward trend of long standing, rising by less than a half of one per cent.

Italian prices remain weak.

When to Get on Ground Floor.

The effect of a new invention on the ratio of the price of stock to earnings of a concern exploiting that invention is to increase the ratio, because the price of the stock reacts to the anticipated future earnings after the new process will have had time. Buying stock with the ratio very high is "getting in on the ground floor." Sometimes the stock never emerges from the basement.

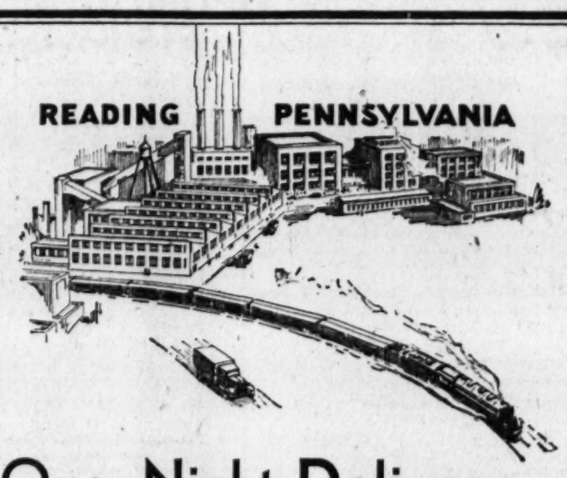
READING PENNSYLVANIA



Over Night Delivery
to New York and Philadelphia Markets

ONE in every five pairs of hosiery worn in the United States is made at Reading, Pennsylvania. Reading also produces enough wrought iron pipe every year to reach across the country and back. Fifteen of the largest industrial plants of their kind in the world are located here.

This concentration of industry is the result of decided advantages.

1. A trading center for 210,000 people, Reading is within overnight reach by rail or truck of New York, Philadelphia, and other important markets.
2. Willing and intelligent labor is available in ample supply. 90% of the population is native-born and nearly one-half of the homes are owned by the dwellers.
3. Raw materials, including iron, limestone, clay, and the world's largest deposits of anthracite coal are within easy access.
4. During 1929 electric output at Reading increased nearly 20% indicating its growing use in home, store, and factory.

Executives interested in Reading or its products are invited to write our Industrial Development Department or the Chamber of Commerce, Reading, Pennsylvania.

D. C. COLLEGE BASEBALL NEARS

G. U. Nine Plays Two Games This Week at Barracks.

COLLEGE baseball makes its 1930 bow here this week when Georgetown's veteran nine meets Franklin and Marshall College and Dartmouth on Friday and Saturday, respectively, at Washington Barracks field.

Contrary to reports, Gallaudet will not commence activities this week, having been forced to cancel its game scheduled with Briarley Hall for Wednesday and a tentatively scheduled contest with Charlotte Hall for Saturday. The Florida avenue nine will open its season on April 3 against the University of Vermont at Kendall Green.

The inaugurals for Catholic University and Maryland University are due next week, Catholic being listed to entertain Dartmouth next Monday in Brookland Stadium and Maryland to do battle with Cornell on April 5 at College Park.

C. U. Line-up to Be Named Saturday.

Considering Georgetown's accomplishments in the South last week, the Hilltop team should give a good account of itself in the two games this week-end. It is improbable that either Franklin and Marshall or Dartmouth is further advanced in training at this stage of the season than Coach Red Smith's club.

On the whole, Georgetown had a successful trip, as it not only won two of its three games, but exhibited good form in all departments. It received fine pitching from Harry Noznesky and Bill Lomax, both sophomores, and demonstrated promising work afield and at bat. A total of 30 hits, including eight for extra bases, were propelled by Hilltop bats.

Capt. Ralph McCarthy, center fielder, and Johny Dunn, shortstop, led their teammates with totals of seven and five safeties, respectively.

Catholic University's squad is working hard and talking little, but the general impression is that the Cardinals, with a new coach at the helm—Chick Gagnon—will show improvement over the Brookland Team of last year.

Coach Gagnon ran his charges through a couple of practice games last week and expects to repeat this week. He probably will not pick his regular line-up until Saturday. Those given trials in the various positions thus far are Lou Gioffre and Bob Kelly, first base; Rocco Biasi and Johnny Oliver, second base; "Babe" Belfi and Joe Walsh, shortstop; Carl DeMello and E. Gallardo, third base; Ralph Dunn and Ted Bonetti, left field; "Whitey" Peifer and Rod Morrissey, center field; Norman Cosker and Capt. Gene Murphy, right field; Mike Marucci and Ed Kosker, catcher, and Lou Hurley, Ed Frankovich, Pete Masi and "Douce" Devin, pitcher.

Gallaudet's starting line-up also is uncertain at present, but probably will be known before the week is out. Coach Walter Krug, however, has been using frequently the following: Del Cosgrove, first base; Simon Katz, second base; George Brown, shortstop; Paul Zieske, third base; Claude Hoffmeyer, catcher; Konrad Hokanson, pitcher; Heime Antila, left field; John Wurdemann, center field, and Leonard Lau, right field.

D. C. KICKERS WIN UPSET VICTORY

Silver Spring Eleven Is Victim, 3 to 1; Game Forfeited.

D. C. KICKERS gained a surprise soccer victory over Silver Spring yesterday when it won a 3-to-1 match that was touted as a sure win for the Marylanders before game time. Rockville failed to put in its appearance for the scheduled contest with Gaelic-Americans.

The District Kickers played the type of game that has characterized it for the last several weeks to gain the decision over the second-place Maryland eleven. Eulrich and Heller were the outstanding players for the winners.

Rough Beach Delays Don at Daytona Beach

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 23 (A. P.).—Kaye Don, British race car driver, tonight settled down for an indefinite wait for beach conditions to improve sufficiently for him to take his Silver Bullet machine on to the ocean speedway for an attempt to better the world automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour.

The beach today showed little indication of an immediate improvement. All along the sandy stretch, numerous bumps appeared, and here and there weer minature gullies in which water remained after the tide receded. Nntil the waves smooth out the defects, Don does not intend to take his car on to the course.

There is no definite assurance as to when the beach will be in proper racing condition. The American Automobile Association's sanction for the trial expires on March 30 and unless the record-breaking attempt is made before that time, an extension will be sought.

United Grays Defeat Celtics in Thriller

An early lead gained by the United Typewriter Gray Five in an Independent Pro League game with the St. Mary's Celtics yesterday in Schuler's Hall at Alexandria, was just sufficient to carry the Grays to a 31-to-30 victory. The Celtics rallied frantically in the closing minutes of play, but were unable to overcome the commanding lead piled up by the winners in the first half.

Hayes set the pace for the victors and McMenjman, Wright and Campbell shone for the Celtics. The Grays held a 19-to-11 advantage at intermission.

FINAL RALLY BY DIXIES DECIDES

Stewart Bros. Five Defeated, 33 to 25, by Dixie Pigs.

STEPPING out in the closing minutes of play, the Dixie Pig Five yesterday defeated a stubborn foe in the Stewart Bros. Photographer Quintet at Silver Spring yesterday afternoon, 33 to 25. Not until the final quarter were the victors able to shake off the determined Photographers.

Johnny Sherman led the winning attack, although Bob Lyles and Lee played prominent roles. Dave Keppel and Harris shone in the Stewart play.

The lead alternated frequently during the first half, but intermission found the ultimate victors in front, 16 to 14. The Stewarts continued to dog the steps of the Dixie Pigs until the final five minutes of play produced a safe lead for the latter team.

24 BASEBALL GAMES FOR W. & M.

Indians Open Season Tomorrow With Drexel Nine.

WILLIAMSBURG, March 23.—William and Mary's Baseball Team, swinging into action Tuesday afternoon will find the Drexel Institute Nine the first foe of the season.

With varsity applicants out for every berth, and with an unusually promising set of sophomores vieing for places on the varsity team, the Indians this year should present one of their strongest diamond combinations. Coach "Cy" Young, who last year sprang the biggest surprise of the season to pilot the Indians to the championship, will again direct the destiny of the Green, Gold and Silver.

Wallace, who last year turned in the most creditable peformance of any college twirler in the State, will be supplemented by Scott, Rux, Syer, Milchrist and Griffin.

At first base MacBride, of last year's freshman outfit, is giving the veteran Charlie Scannon a fight for the varsity berth, although the former's decided edge in fielding and experience as a first-sacker is expected to gain the position for him.

Maxey Seeks Job At Second.

The situation is duplicated at second base where "Red" Maxey, most sensational half back in Virginia gridiron circles last season and the holder of a berth on the mythical all-State team, is giving the dependable Abe Silverman considerable to worry about.

"Rosy" Ryan seems to have the shortstop job in the bag, although Eaglebert and Parker, both sophomores, are applicants for the honor, with each showing up to good advantage in practice sessions.

At third base the veterans, Sauerbrun and Demarest are waging a merry battle with Sauerbrun, however, displaying a slight edge.

The outer garden will be patrolled by Moore, a sophomore, in right field; either Bradley or Frank Mozeleski in left field and with a pitcher, Scott or Wallace, in center field.

Karl Koski Triumphs In A. A. U. Marathon

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Karl Koski, of the Finnish American A. C., won the national A. A. U. Marathon championship today, covering the 26 miles 385 yards in the extremely fast time of 2 hours 25 minutes 21 1-5 seconds.

Koski went into the lead at the end of the fourteenth mile, gradually increased his margin and won by more than a mile from Jack O'Reilly, of the Gladstone A. C., Toronto. O'Reilly's time was 2:33:08. Matt Lamp, of the Millrose A. A., was third in 2:33:20 and John D. Stemple, Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, fourth, in 2:35:44.

Others in the first ten were Percy Wyer, Toronto, 2:36:09; Russell Jekel, New York A. C., 2:39:23; Bill Kennedy, Portchester, N. Y., 2:42:39; Harvey Frick, Millrose A. A., 2:46:26; Eddie Weiss, Holy Cross Lyceum, 2:47:26; Al Measick, Brooklyn Central Y., 2:48:37.

Mike Dwyer, Tappan Post, American Legion, was eleventh; J. A. Vickery, Portchester, N. Y., twelfth; E. S. Frayling, Dorchester, Mass., thirteenth; George Boland, unattached, fourteenth, and J. A. Haynie, Baltimore, fifteenth.

The Millrose A. A., by placing men in third and eighth places, won the team title. The Tappan Post, American Legion, with men in eleventh, twenty-second and thirtieth places, was runner-up.

Tilden Wins Twice In Cannes Net Finals

Cannes, France, March 23 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden easily defeated the ambidextrous Italian, Giorgio de Stefani, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4, in the finals of the Cannes tennis tournament today. The doubles title also fell into Tilden's hands. He and Wilbur Coen conquering the Japanese, Takeichi Harada and Yoshiro Ohta, 6—3, 6—0, 1—6, 6—3.

In the mixed doubles, however, Tilden met with a reverse, he and his German partner, Cecilie Aussem, bowing to Elizabeth Ryan and Harada, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1.

In the singles Big Bill was not extended. He had De Stefani racing all over the court, and the Italian never had a chance.

VICTORIAN WINS $125,000 AGUA CALIENTE HANDICAP; NATS POUND BALL TO DEFEAT CHATTANOOGA CLUB, 7-1

Lookouts Set Down With Two Hits

Moore, Liska, Brown Show Top Form in Second Game.

West Leads in 14-Hit Attack, Gets Triple and 2 Singles.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 23.—Washington pitchers again held the Lookout hitters to but two hits and, as they were combing fourteen from the opposing boxmen, it was a very simple matter for them to turn in a victory, the final tally reading 7 to 1.

Manager Johnson used a trio of flingers, Carlos Moore, Ad Liska and Lloyd Brown, and the first and last of those named pitched hitless and runless ball, the Lookouts breaking the ice at the subway hurler's expense. Sammy West was high gun of the Nat sharpshooters, poling out a triple and two singles, with Bluege next in line with a three-bagger and a one shot. McLeod, Loepp and Moore also came through with a brace of bingles, while the fielding highlights were turned in by Barnes, West and Loepp.

Capacity Sabbath Crowd on Hand.

A Sabbath crowd of about 10,000 was on hand but the Lookouts gave them little over which to enthuse, either from an attacking or defensive standpoint.

Moore looked much better than in his previous start against Birmingham and the Nationals were leading, 5 to 0, when he turned over the pitching assignment to Liska. Moore was presented with a traveling bag his first time at bat by friends from his home at Cleveland, Tenn., and his response was two hits for himself and none granted the Lookouts.

Meanwhile, Knott had not been effective although two errors by mates hurt his cause. West led off with a single, advanced when Loepp strolled, and scored on Dashiell's poor peg after a brilliant one-hand stop of Barnes' grass cutter.

Loepp, subbing for Rice, opened the third with a double, which missed going into the left field stands by inches. He was safe when Gooch dropped Treadway's toss for a force play on Barnes' roller. He scored on Hayes' sacrifice fly, and another marker was made when Judge walked and Bluege came through with a lusty triple to left center.

Liska More Liberal Than Mates.

Round 4 netted two more Washington runs, the result of Moore's opening one baser, West's triple over Matthews' head and Loepp's air sacrifice. Liska faced the Lookouts in the lower half of this frame and granted them a run in short order. Dashiell and Gooch, first natives up, singled in rapid order, the first named completing the circuit a step at a time on two long sacrifice flies.

Wineapple granted two wasted hits to his former mates in the fifth, but was scored on twice in the next canto. West started the trouble by poking a dragging bunt past Wineapple. He took third on Loepp's single and counted after the catch of Barnes' long fly. Loepp then stole second, advanced on Hayes' air sacrifice, and registered when Gharrity lined one to short left. McLeod followed with a one-baser, but Gharrity was nipped trying to reach third on the clout.

The Nats started like they might add to their total in the final frame, but fell victims of a double play after Tate had singled and Brown had walked. This was the last bit of excitement of the game.

St. John's Lacrossemen Prepare for Englishmen

The St. John's College lacross players are hard at work training and organizing their team to meet the Oxford-Cambridge Twelve in the opening game for both teams on April 1 in Central High School Stadium.

Undefeated in thirteen games last year, and undisputed winner of the national championship, St. John's is right now worrying over the problem of filling some vacancies left by losses of veterans of the 1929 team.

Three of the missing stars were named on the All-American Team. They are Ferris Thomsen and Clem Spring, the two homes who between them accounted for 60 goals; and Long John Boucher, stellar point. Thomsen and Spring failed to return to St. John's last fall, and Boucher, who graduated, accepted the position of lacrosse coach at Randolph-Macon College at Ashland, Va.

GOSLIN NOW FACES FULL PENALTIES

Outfielder, 2 Weeks Overdue, as Griffith Remains Firm.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 23.—While President Clark Griffith, of the Nationals, has no vindicative feelings toward Outfielder Leon (Goose) Goslin, and would welcome him into the fold at salary terms originally offered, it is understood that no penalties provided in baseball rules as punishment to recalcitrant players will be waived in this case. This means that if and when he reports the big flychaser must pay his own training expenses for 30 days or until such time as he has gotten himself into playing form satisfactory to Manager Walter Johnson. Meantime, his name will remain on the suspended list, to which it was automatically added when he failed to sign and report three days after ordered to.

Had Goslin shown up here by tonight it is understood that the Nat owner would have waived this penalty, but the player is two weeks overdue tomorrow and it is the belief here that he will be shown no favors from now on and that, if he fails to report this season and the team has a bad year, the figures on the 1931 contract offered him will be so small that he will need a magnifying glass to read them.

Batters to Get Fill Of Practice.

"All we have to do is to specialize in batting practice and team play and we are ready to start the season," Manager Johnson stated tonight. "I believe most of our hard work is over. The players all seem to be just about ready and will be without pressing by the time we get back home, and from now on I am going to give the batters practice just as long as I am able to dig up pitchers and throwers who can shoot the ball to them. Our teamwork and pitchers will develop naturally in the exhibition games we will play."

While Joe Cronin, who reported later than the others, is not quite

Potomac Boatmen Battle Company F in Tournament

A. A. U. Court Program Tonight at Tech Attractive.

TWO of the outstanding unlimited quintets in the District A. A. U. basket ball championship tournament clash head-on in the Tech High Gymnasium tonight at 9 o'clock, when the Potomas Boat Club meets the Company F Team of the Hyattsville National Guard.

This game, a quarterfinal fray, may or may not prove the feature, as three other prospective thrillers are scheduled, any one of which may run into overtime.

In the other unlimited class battle, the Jewish Community Center Five meets the Takoma Firemen at 10 o'clock in the second round. Two 130-pound quarterfinal struggles are on the program. The crack Jewish Community Center Flashes, who have lost only two games in two seasons, meets the Potomac Boat Club Preps. Both of these teams won convincingly in the first round. The other game involves a battle between the Boys' Club Optimists and the Y. M. C. A. Flashes, teams of proven ability which survived first-round tests.

Boat Club Faces Real Test.

The Potomac Boat Club will be facing a real test against Company F. Both teams have won two tournament contests. The Boatmen polished off the Quaintico Marines, 34-23, and the Skelstons, 33-11, while the Hyattsville Guards routed Fort Humphreys, 41-14, and Company E, of the District Guards, 39-15.

The game is expected to hinge on the play of the rival centers. Both teams boast stars in the tap-off position. Company F has Rufus Vincent, one of its two giants, to pit against Timmons, the Boat Club star. Vincent has starred in both of the Hyattsville victories, running his point total into double figures in each game. In addition, Potomac will have to stop "Big John" Costinette, massive forward. Costinette's "hot hand" turned the Company E game into a rout. If he strikes the same stride tonight, it may mark the elimination of the Potomac Boatmen.

The "river gang" is not without capable players, however. Wiler, Lilly, Atkins and the others are well versed in tournament play and can

Army Names Captains For Wniter Sports

West Point, N. Y., March 23.—Captains of Army boxing, swimming, hockey and wrestling teams have just been elected for next year, Maj P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, announced today. The new sports leaders are: Boxing, Eugene L. Brown, Nashville, Tenn.; wrestling, Merle L. Fisher, Savanna, Ill.; swimming, William A. Davis, East Orange, N. J., and hockey, John K. Waters, Lutherville, Md. They are all in the class of 1931.

Brown, the new boxing captain, has not been defeated in two years of intercollegiate boxing. He was developed by Billy Cavanaugh, and boxes in the 135-pound class. Brown attended Phillips Exeter Academy prior to admission to West Point. His father is Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers. Davis, the new swimming captain, holds the Military Academy record for the 100-yard swim. Both in 1929 and 1930 he led the team in the number of points scored. In addition to two letters in swimming, he has a major A for track.

Reds Even Series by 1-0 Victory Over Athletics

MIAMI, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—With the world's champion Reds evened the series Athletics here today, taking the fourth exhibition encounter, 1 to 0. Walker scored the Reds' lone tally on a double steal when Schang threw high to second, making Williams' return late to the plate.

Pete Donohue, staginb a comeback this season, worked the first three innings for the Reds and held the champions to two hits. Bennie Frey, rookie, and Rube Ehrhardt, veteran, followed on the mound and both were effective, Frey allowing two bingles and Erhardt three.

The Athletics had only one man beyond first base when Dykes banged out a double. The Reds' lone tally was handed them by McNair and Schang.

Hudlin, Ferrell Hold New Orleans Hitless

New Orleans, La., March 23 (A.P.).—Permitting their opponents no hits, the Cleveland Indians defeated the New Orleans Pelicans, 11 to 1, here today.

Manager Peckinpaugh said it was the first time in his memory that the Indian pitchers have gone through an exhibition game without permitting a hit. On the mound for Cleveland during the first five innings was Willis Hudlin and during the remainder Wesley Ferrell.

The Indians reached Willie Leitz, Pelican pitcher, for eight hits and seven runs in the first three innings.

45 to Compete For A. A. U. Ring Titles

Pairings to Be Made Following Weighing Today.

J. C. C. Enters Group of 11; Glory Only Reward in Bouts.

EVERYTHING is in readiness with the exception of pairing of the competitors for the first annual District of Columbia A. A. U. championship boxing tournament, which opens tomorrow night at the City Club and continues Thursday night at Knights of Columbus Hall and next Monday night at the Jewish Community Center.

The committee in charge met yesterday morning at the Jewish Community Center and arranged all details. It was decided that only members of the three host clubs will be admitted to the bouts, thus closing the doors to the general public. This was found necessary owing to the limited seating capacities of the host organizations.

The pairings will be drawn tonight at the J. C. C. at 9 o'clock by a special committee of newspapermen. All entrants will have weighed in prior to that time during the hours of 3 to 8 p. m. The weighing-in also will be conducted at the Center.

Eight additional entries were revealed yesterday by Edward Rosenblum, chairman of the committee, who had been out of the city for several days previously. The total number of competitors thus was brought to 45, which the committee termed highly gratifying in view of the circumstances surrounding amateur boxing in the District.

Fighters Get Only Glory.

The local law prohibits the charging of admission and award of prizes at boxing exhibitions. It even makes illegal any official citation in writing concerning the winning of a decision or championship. The tournament therefore lacks some of the attractiveness attending championship boxing events in other associations of the A. A. U., but at the same time gains amateur atmosphere of the purest. Neither the competitors nor the sponsoring organizations will derive any material benefit, but all seem satisfied, nevertheless.

Eight championships will be contested from flyweight to heavyweight. The semifinals will be held Thursday night at Knights of Columbus Hall and the finals next Monday night at the Jewish Community Center. Owing to the small number of entries in the flyweight, light-heavyweight and heavyweight divisions, it is probable that no bouts will be staged in those three classes tomorrow night.

J. C. C. Enters Group Of Seven.

Seven of the eight entries revealed yesterday by Chairman Rosenblum were filed by J. C. C. boxers, thus bringing the total representing the Sixteenth street organization to eleven. The City Club will be represented by fifteen and the Knights of Columbus by fourteen.

Among the J. C. C. group are Jocko Miller, winner of the South Atlantic lightweight championship in 1929, and Leroy Bordeau, holder of the S. A. light-heavyweight title. Bordeau, along with Mike Tardugno, featherweight, and Charley Fish, welterweight, of the Center Team, are also members of the Georgetown University Boxing Team, which completed its activities last Saturday in the intercollegiate tournament at Philadelphia.

Angie Tardugno, brother of Mike, will wear J. C. C. colors in the bantamweight division, and, as in the case of his brother, is regarded a strong contender for the championship of his class.

Five unattached entrants are listed, namely, Charles Stramer, featherweights; Charles Williams and Harold Fields, welterweights; Warren Van Sciver, middleweight, and W. L. Tucker, heavyweight. The last named is a protege of Goldie Ahearn, former

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VICTORIAN, $6.20, $6.00, $6.00; ALEXANDER PANTAGES, $16.80, $6.60; DONNAY, $2.40.

VICTORIAN, in trouble soon after the start, raced to a contending position in the first eighth and under restraint until one mile had been raced went to the front approaching the stretch turn, and won with ease. ALEXANDER PANTAGES trained steadily and running his usual game race came fast in the stretch, but was outclassed by the winner. DONNAY came from far behind to finish going fast. MY DANDY set the pace and held on courageously in the final drive. LONGUS made up much ground and finished very fast. BROWN WISDOM, followed MY DANDY closely in the early running, but had little left on the final run. ULUNIU showed early speed, but weakened. VICTORIAN, LISTO and CALF ROPER were caught in a jam when BROWN WISDOM bore out and MY DANDY bore in soon after the start. NAISHAPUR was never a contender. DOWAGIAC stopped badly.

GALLAGHER FACES TEST TONIGHT

D. C. Heavyweight to Face Friedman in Baltimore Ring.

MARTY GALLAGHER, former Washington heavyweight, will reach a vital stage in his campaign tonight when he meets Al Friedman, of Boston, in the feature bout of a fight card in the 104th Medical Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

Gallagher hasn't been going anywhere in the fight game although he has won notable victories during his four-year career, but if he defeats Friedman he probably will get a shot at Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City slugger, who enjoys a much better place in the heavyweight ranks than the artwhile Washington plumber's helper.

If Marty fails tonight it is doubtful that he ever again will receive the attention of promoters in the "big money." He has slipped so many times just when he had been considered on the doorstep of success that one more disappointing showing doubtless will tend to keep him forever among the bourgeoise, so to speak.

Friedman May Know Too Much for Marty.

Friedman is in about the same class as Gallagher, but it is believed he has undergone a more beneficial experience to date. He may prove to know too much for Gallagher.

Both fighters are reported to be in tip-top condition, and the fans are looking for action aplenty. Scores of Washingtonians have reserved seats.

The supporting card, which opens at 8:30 o'clock, will show Lee Halfpenny vs. Lew Raymond, Frankie McKenna vs. Harry Surnskey and Harry Groves vs. Al Maltin.

Cleveland Team Wins Western Soccer Title

Cleveland, March 23 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Bruells won the Western Division soccer title here today by defeating the Holley Carburetors, of Detroit, 2 to 0.

Both goals were in the first half off George Caraffi's boot. The first goal was made after thirteen minutes of play and the second three minutes later. Cleveland forced the pace all the way.

The winner is now entitled to play for the National Challenge Cup at New York.

"Curly" Byrd to Speak At American U. Banquet

H. C. "Curly" Byrd, director of athletics of Maryland University, has been invited to be the principal speaker at the banquet to be given in honor of American University athletes Friday night in the dining room of the university.

During the course of the program the members of the basket ball team will be awarded letters in recognition of their services of the past season. Those to be honored are George Olsen, Orville Targee, Oscar Sells, John Fuchs, Warren Colison and John Woods.

Eastern Star Triumphs by 3 Lengths

Alexander Pantages Second; Donnay in Third Place.

My Dandy Sets Early Pace; Brown Wisdom Falters.

By PAUL B. ZIMMERMAN.

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mexico, March 23 (A.P.).—Out from the dust of Brown Wisdom's flying feet came Victorian, of the Warm Stable, Lexington, Ky., to win the first annual running of the Agua Caliente Handicap in record time. A crowd of 25,000 saw the race.

The speedy Eastern 5-year-old staged a rousing spurt on the homestretch to finish three lengths ahead of Alexander Pantages, Allocarrodlo Stable, Los Angeles, and five lengths in front of Donnay, Rancocas Stable entry, New York, third, in 2 minutes 3¼ second for the mile and one quarter.

Brown Wisdom, sporting the silks of the Reichert brothers, Chicago, faltered after running around to the final turn, and drew a bad sixth, nine lengths behind the winner. Victorian had gone to the post a 2-to-1 favorite with Brown Wisdom, and although he brought the Warm Stable $98,400, he paid only $6.20 on $2 pari-mutuel tickets.

Victorian Responds At Ellis' Call.

Victorian responded to the clever riding of George Ellis, to come up fourth on the opening stretch, after leaving the gate in seventh place against the field of fourteen starters. On the back stretch this son of Whiskbroom II moved into second, a length and a half behind the leader, and challenged his outstanding contender on the final turn, forging to the front by a nose.

Here Brown Wisdom, despite the lash of Jockey Charles Allen's quirt, faltered badly, with Alexander Pantages, Donnay, My Dandy, a stablemate of Brown Wisdom, and Longus, from the R. C. Stable, Ventura, Calif., cantering by to leave the co-favorite in the dust.

Alexander Pantages was a long shot and paid $16.80 on the pari-mutuel machines to place. Favored by the expert riding of Frankie Coltiletti, despite a 2-pound overweight, the Allocarrodlo 5-year-old started out in second to last position, fought his way to fourth place at the half-way mark and made a spirited dash for the finish wire, with Donnay at his heels.

My Dandy Sets Early Pace.

My Dandy went out fast from the gate and fought off the field until the last turn, when his strength gave out. The stablemate of Brown Wisdom managed to muster enough courage, however, to pull in fourth.

Packing top weight of 126 pounds, Victorian easily proved the class of the race, seemingly running under wraps until called upon to give the final spurt sufficient to carry him well in front and going away at the end.

The triumph placed the Warm entry in third place among the all-time big-money winners, with a total of $251,875 earned. This placed him only a short way behind Zev and Display. Zev holds the top position with $313,639.

While Victorian set a new track record, he was three-fifths of a second behind the mark set by Cariaris and tied by Golden Prince last year in the Coffroth Handicap, of which the Agua Caliente is an outgrowth. The Coffroth was reverted to history last spring with the closing of the old Tia Juana Track.

Golden Prince Not In Race.

Golden Prince did not defend his honors today. He was scratched several weeks ago after a winter season of indifferent results.

The big race, feature of the winter season which will close next Sunday, did not gross the $140,000 expected, due to the fact that the field was cut from the 80 nominations to 14 starters.

RISKO AND CAMPOLO TO BATTLE AGAIN TONIGHT

Garden Scene Of Second Contest

Godfrey, Carnera and Other Heavies on Week's Card.

McLarnin - Thompson Clash at New York on Friday.

NEW YORK, March 23 (A.P.).—Boxers in the lighter divisions, for the most part, will rest on their laurels this week, while the heavyweights go to the head of the class.

George Godfrey, Primo Carnera, Johnny Risko and Victorio Campolo, among others, will be "doing their stuff" in various sectors of the fistic front.

Risko and Campolo are matched in the ten-round feature bout of a charity show in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The Garden tried to put this battle on some time ago, but the New York State Athletic Commission stepped in and ruled that Risko was "too small" for Campolo. The Garden promptly matched the two in one of the two bouts of the Sharkey-Scott show and Risko cuffed the big Argentine around for ten rounds, only to have Referee Kid McPartland call the bout a draw.

Clark Threatens Godfrey.

Godfrey, the "black menace" from Leiperville, Pa., meets Roy (Ace) Clark in a ten-rounder at Philadelphia tomorrow night. Clark recently lasted six rounds with Carnera, putting up a great battle. He weighs 235 pounds; Godfrey, 250.

Carnera battles George Trafton, Chicago pro football player, in a ten-rounder at Kansas City Wednesday night.

Madison Square Garden has matched Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welterweight, with Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, in the main ten-rounder of its Friday night show.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

MONDAY — At Madison Square Garden, New York, Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, vs. Harry Smith, Harlem, light heavyweights, and Doc Conrad, Newark, vs. Vincent Forgione, Philadelphia, middleweights, each 10; at White City, Chicago, King Levinsky, Chicago, vs. Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., 8, and Charlie Retziaff, Duluth, vs. Pedro Lopez, Wheeling, W. Va., 8.

TUESDAY—At Milwaukee, King Tut, Minneapolis, vs. Lope Tenorio, Philippines, lightweights, 10; at New York, Broadway Arena, Joe Glick, Brooklyn, vs. Georgie Balduc, New York, lightweights, 10; at Oklahoma City, George Hoffman, New York, vs. Joe Packo, Toledo, heavyweights, 10; at Los Angeles, Frankie Campbell, Los Angeles, vs. Ray Spiker, San Diego, heavyweights, and Goldie Hess, Los Angeles, vs. Eddie Thomas, Bellingham, Wash., junior lightweights, each 10.

WEDNESDAY—At Kansas City: Ivan Laffineur, France, vs. Meyer Crace, Chicago, welterweights; ten.

Heavy Card Set For Friday.

THURSDAY — At Boston, Argonne Athletic Club; Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, vs. Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro, and Henry Perlick, Kalamazoo, vs. Hy Diamond, Boston, all lightweights; each ten.

FRIDAY—At Boston: Al Friedman, Boston, vs. Joe Monte, Brockton, Mass., heavyweights; ten. At New York, Madison Square Garden; Gorilla Jones, Akron, Negro, vs. Abe Bain, middleweights; ten. At San Francisco; Eddie Roberts, Tacoma, vs. Alf Ros, Spain, middleweights; ten. At St. Louis; Benny Bass, Philadelphia, vs. Eddie Shea, Chicago; Davey Abad, Philadelphia, vs. Martie Fields, Chicago; all junior lightweights; Midget Mike Moran, Pittsburgh, vs. Johnny Kaiser, St. Louis, featherweights, and Augie Pisano, New York, vs. Billy Wallace, Cleveland, lightweights; each ten. At Davenport, Iowa; Mickey Walker, Rumson, N. J., vs. Kayo White, Chicago, Negro, middleweights; ten, (nontitle).

Athlete Urges Open Pay For Collegiate Players

Iowa City, March 16 (A.P.).—Open payment of college athletes is advocated by Dennis Myers, guard on the University of Iowa's 1929 football team, in an oration for the annual university oratorical contest.

"Underhand" methods now used by large and small schools to recruit athletes, Myers contends, have brought intercollegiate sport into disrepute.

Col. Erickson Again Named President of Circuit.

At a reorganization meeting of the Capital City Baseball League held Saturday in the office of the Municipal Playground Department, six men prominent in amateur baseball circles in and around the District were elected members of the board of governors in addition to the three officers who were reelected.

Col. Hjalmar Erickson, of the Army War College, was reelected president. Richard S. Tennyson, vice president, and R. J. Atkinson, secretary-treasurer, were reelected to their respective positions.

William Sanderson and Walter J. Newman, long associated with amateur athletic teams in the District; J. P. Koerner, of Cherrydale; Hugh Waldrop, of Bladensburg; F. Barnard Welsh, of Rockville, and Charles Deuterman, jr., of Ballston, were chosen to comprise the board of managers, who, along with the officials, will guide the destinies of the growing circuit during the coming season.

Directors Long Active In League.

Col. Erickson, who has been associated with many sports in and out of the service, last season took up the presidency of the league which Capt. John R. D. Cleland had held since the inception of the amateur circuit six years ago.

Sanderson, Newman and Koerner have directed the activities of many teams in the league. The former has piloted Auth teams to several championships, while Newman's Corinthian A. C. Teams have always figured prominently in the annual title battles for various class championships. Koerner has five teams under his supervision under the Lionel A. C. standards, and last year managed the Lincoln Post Nine, which came within striking distance of the District American Legion championship.

Waldrop is manager of the Dixie Pig A. C., which has been prominent in basket ball, bowling and baseball in recent years. His unlimited team was the runner-up in the most spirited race in the league's history last season.

Welsh Prime Mover In Rockville A. A.

The newly organized Rockville Athletic Association claims Welsh as its president and prime mover. He has been prominent in Montgomery County athletics as well as in political circles and a successful member of the bar. Deuterman has piloted the A. B. & W. Bus Unlimited Nine in recent years but this season will direct a team composed almost entirely of Arlington County players under the auspices of the Bauserman Motor Co.

The second week in April has been designated by the league officials as organization week. Meetings will be held throughout that week for the reorganization of the five classes—insect, midget, junior, senior and unlimited. Each class will meet separately and managers of teams wishing to enter teams are invited to attend these sessions, at which plans for the season will be discussed and any rule changes necessary will be made.

NET FINALS RAINED OUT.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 23 (A.P.). The Alcazar Courts were still too wet today for the final match in the Southeastern tennis tournament between John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J. They will play for the title tomorrow, if weather conditions permit.

ST. JOES WIN, 5-4.

The St. Joseph Midgets yesterday defeated the Joe Judge Nine, 5 to 4. James hurled for the winners. Call Atlantic 3506-J between 6 and 8 p. m. for games with the winners.

Stribling-Scott Battle In London April 10

Miami, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, and Phil Scott, English champion, who was defeated by Jack Sharkey here last month, have booked to fight at Albert Hall, London, April 10, Po Stribling announced here. Terms were not made public.

VICTORIAN VICTOR IN $125,000 RACE

Of the also rans, the showing of Naishapur, winner of the Tia Juana Derby last year, and Dowagiac were most disappointing. Naishapur was quoted at 4-to-1 odds and pulled up in eleventh place, while the black gelding from the Wild Rose Farm, New Orleans, a 6-to-1 shot, finished last.

The scratching of Jim Dandy, Wilshire Stable colt, before declaration time this morning cut the gross value of the race to $124,700; of this, $98,400 went to the owner of the winner, $5,000 to the winning jockey and $5,000 to the trainer of Victorian.

Alexander Pantages won $9,000 by finishing second; Donnay earned $4,500 for third, and My Dandy $1,500 for fourth.

RANGERS GAAIN SEMIFINALS.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The New York Rangers advanced to the semifinals of the playoffs for the Stanley Cup tonight by defeating the Ottawa Senators, 5 to 2, in the second and last game of the series between the third-place teams of the National Hockey League. Combined with a 1-to-1 tie in the first encounter, tonight's victory gave the Rangers a margin of 6 goals to 3 for the series.

for broadcast of the spelling bee between Congress and the press Saturday night, March 29. Both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting system are to place several microphones in the National Press Club auditorium in Washington where the affair is to be held, so that not a word will be missed by the listeners. Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, is to act as "spelling master" for the contest, which will be between senators and representatives and Washington newspaper correspondents. There will be eleven spellers on each side.

Pirates Divide in Two Games.

San Francisco, March 23 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates and the San Francisco Seals, of the Pacific Coast League, divided an exhibition bill today, the West Coast team winning the morning game, 2 to 1, and Pittsburgh taking the second, 6 to 5.

Stuart Clarke, playing for Traynor at third, smashed a homer in each game for the Pirates.

Angels Flay Bush, Beat Cubs, 7 to 4.

Los Angeles, Calif., March 23 (A.P.). Los Angeles slaughtered Guy Bush's offerings today and defeated the Cubs, 7 to 4.

Bud Teachout limited the Angels to three hits and one run during his five innings on the mound, while Bush, who succeeded him at the start of the sixth inning, was nicked for eight hits and six runs. Five of the Angels' runs came in the seventh inning. Clyde Beck, utility Cub third and second baseman, hit two homers, while George Harper, of the Angels, collected three hits.

Jolley's Doubles Aid White Sox.

San Antonio, Tex., March 23 (A.P.). A big third inning gave the Chicago White Sox an exhibition victory over the New York Giants today by a 5-to-1 score. They scored four runs in the third after getting their first counter in the second. Smead Jolley started things going on both occasions by tapping Judd's delivery for a pair of doubles. Mel Ott's homer in the eighth inning brought the only New York run.

Columbus Hammers Robin's Hurlers.

Clearwater, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—The Columbus Senators, of the American Association, hit hard against three Brooklyn pitchers today, to win an exhibition game from the Robins, 11 to 4. Ray Moss, Clise Dudley and Bill Clark all proved ineffective against the Columbus batters, who collected sixteen hits.

Brooklyn contributed six errors to the debacle. A home run by Wysong, first Columbus pitcher, sent the Senators off to a big lead in the fourth inning.

Braves Win in Ninth Over Yanks, 7 to 6.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves took another exhibition game from the New York Yankees today, scoring two runs in the ninth inning to gain a 7-to-6 victory.

The Braves fell on George Pipgras in the first two innings and batted out five runs. The Yanks got two of them back in the second and tied it up in the sixth.

Jockey Falls, Remounts To Win French Stake

Auteuil, France, March 23 (A.P.).—Although he fell and threw his rider at the second jump, Max Derivaud's Javelot won the Murat Stakes steeplechase handicap for all ages today. Strelitz was second and Grimouchou third.

Javelot, the even-money favorite, cleared the first jump successfully, but spilled his jockey, Fruhinsholtz, at the next one. Unhurt, Fruhinsholtz remounted and continued the race. When 1 mile of the 2¾-mile jaunt had been completed Javelot was at least 100 lengths to the bad. Four other horses, however, fell, and so cautiously did the rest take the jumps, made more difficult by the muddy going, that Javelot made up ground rapidly and won by a length and a half. Strelitz was the only horse that completed the race without falling once. Grimouchou, the third place winner, fell, but his jockey also remounted and finished the race.

Takoma Out to Surprise J. C. C. Five.

The Takoma Firemen have proven so quiet in their preparation for their clash with the Jewish Community Center that the Sixteenth street five is taking no chances. Takoma, with a big gym to practice in, has not been idle and will be out on the floor tonight determined to stop the winning streak of the Center Quintet.

Two unlimited class quarter finals games are scheduled for tomorrow night. The clashes will offer tests for two of the strongest teams in the tournament. The Woltz Photographers, last year's champions, will meet the Y. M. C. A. Five, which, led by Dutch Krumm battled its way uphill to triumph over the Brentwood Hawks in the second round. It was the hope of the "Y" players that they would be drawn in a bracket which would allow them to meet Woltz. Tomorrow night is their chance.

Woltz was surprised in its last game when the Calvary Drakes matched points for a half before bowing by a 36-to-23 score. The Photographers hope to

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON COUNTY FIREMAN INJURED

Lieut. W. L. Allwine Crushed by Fire Truck—Many Brush Fires Reported.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the burning of brush in the lower sections of the county yesterday, the Jefferson District Fire Department was kept on the run, answering four alarms in the space of a few hours.

While eager to respond to all calls, the department met with a sad misfortune when leaving the fire house about noon yesterday. One of its lieutenants, W. L. Allwine, brother to Chief Frank Allwine, was crushed between the door and the running board of the engine.

He was taken to the Emergency Hospital in Washington, where he is said to be in serious condition.

Chief Allwine announced last night that he is now inaugurating a new method of fighting brush fire. He will station a man near the houses which may be in the vicinity of the fire and then let it burn itself out, at the same time protecting all property.

"It appears that the many warnings which have been issued by the Firemens Association have failed thus far to have any effect, and instead of allowing the citizens to burn the brush we will do it for them when called out," he said.

"As chairman of the fire prevention committee, I will hold another meeting Friday night at the Cherrydale fire house at 8 o'clock," he said.

At this meeting, in addition to discussing ways and means of preventing fires, the committee will formulate plans to continue its effort for the establishment of a central fire alarm system for Arlington County.

As stated by Chief Allwine, it is proposed to take the matter again before the county board of supervisors at its meting next Monday and ask that the system be established with a central switchboard located at the courthouse.

"With the creation of such a system," Chief Allwine said, "the county can be zoned into fire districts and many runs which are now made by distant companies to a fire could be eliminated and much wear on the apparatus could be saved," he said.

Announcement is made that the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County will celebrate its seventh anniversary with a tea at the New Idea Country Club Tuesday afternoon, April 8, between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock.

Among the guests will be Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, president of the Woman's City Club of Washington; Judge Mary O'Toole and Dean Riley, of the Washington College of Law, and Mrs Frances D Merchant.

Members of the Ku Klux Klan of Arlington County with the Klan Band of Ballston attended services in a body last night at the Clarendon Fresbyterian Church.

The monthly social meeting of the Ashton Heights Woman's Club will be held tomorrow night in the clubhouse at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. N. M. McKnight, president of the Creative Arts Club of Arlington County, is announced as the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Joseph L. Crupper, chairman of the Fourth District of Virginia Federation of Woman's Clubs, has called a meeting of the various clubs of the district, including Falls Church, Manassas, Lyon Park, Lyon Village, Alexandria and Ashton Heights. The meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse.

Hugh Reid, member of the General Assembly from Arlington County, is announced as the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Lyon Village Citizens Association, to be held Wednesday night at the home of Robert N. Anderson.

Mr. Reid will review the activities of the recent session of the General Assembly, paying special attention to bills passed affecting Arlington County. Officers will be elected at this meeting.

Consideration of the proposed bond issue for the enlargement of a number of the county public schools, including the Washington-Lee High School, will be given at the monthly meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association to be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The auxiliary to the Ballston Fire Department will meet Thursday afternoon in the Firemen's Hall at 2 o'clock.

Members of the Piedmont, Alexandria and Washington Chapters of American War Mothers will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Arthur J Porter, Wilson boulevard and Clarendon avenue, in Clarendon.

The Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department holds its monthly meeting tonight in the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

A feature of the meeting of the Lyon Park Citizens Association, to be held tomorrow night, will be the illustrated lecture on national forests to be delivered by John Kuhns, of the United States Department of Agriculture, supervisor of the national forest in Oregon.

The proposed school bond issue of $580,000 has been indorsed by the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School.

The action followed the report which was given of the careful survey which had been made by the United States Bureau of Education and which report is now on file with the county school board. Announcement is made that the weekly luncheons will be resumed Thursday of this week. Mrs. R. Witts will be in charge.

Ship Is Badly Damaged By Flames in Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., March 23 (A.P.).—The passenger and freight steamer General Mathews, of the Norfolk & Mobjack Bay Steamboat Co., was practically destroyed by fire early this morning at her dock at the plant of the Norfolk Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. with a loss estimated at more than $150,000 by J. A. Cheatham, general manager of the owning company.

Part of the crew of 15 men were asleep aboard the boat when the fire broke out, but were awakened and got ashore before the fire had gained much headway. The vessel was built in Philadelphia in 1901 at a cost of $350,000.

Loudoun County Group Holds Quarterly Convention at Lincoln.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lincoln, Va., March 23.—Two medal contests, a silver and a gold, featured the quarterly convention of the Loudoun County Women's Christian Temperance Union, held at Lincoln Friday. Mabel Virts, of the Lincoln Graded School, was the winner of the gold medal, which was presented by J. V. Nichols, of Purcellville. Little Constance Wine, also of Lincoln Graded School, won the silver medal.

The convention was opened in the morning by devotional exercises led by George Selleck. Mrs. Henry B. Taylor, of Lincoln, welcomed the guests and Mrs. J. H. Emerick, of Purcellville, responded. Splendid reports from all the departments were given.

The Rev. W. M. Compton, of the Leesburg M. E. Church South, led the devotional exercises in the afternoon. Others on the program were Mrs. Henry Hoge, Mrs. Howard Hoge, N. C. Nichols and H. M. Hoge.

THREE HURT IN FIRE AT VIRGINIA HOUSE

Firemen Injured Slightly as Blaze Damages Home in Braddock Heights.

DEPARTMENT KEPT BUSY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
212 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Three firemen were hurt yesterday morning while fighting a fire at the residence of Maj. E. E. MacMoreland, at Braddock Heights. All were taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where they were treated by Dr. Samuel B. Moore, then sent home.

Harry Simpson broke his left arm near the wrist; Roy Blunt sprained his right ankle, and Albert Ayler was cut about the hands.

The fire was confined to the roof at the house occupied by Maj. MacMooreland, which is owned by W. Selden Washington, and was caused by a defective flue. The damage other than the roof was by water, principally to the walls, as the firemen covered the furniture with tarpaulins.

Flames were discovered early this afternoon in a closet in the apartment of P. C. Florence, the second floor of 117 South Fairfax street, and were extinguished by chemicals. The fire was caused by the joist from the flooring extending into the chimney. Damage was slight other than to the clothing in the closet.

The fire department also was called out yesterday afternoon to fight two small fires—one a chimney in the 200 block of North Columbus street, and the other a grass fire near St. Mary's Cemetery, South Washington street.

Commissioner of Revenue Charles H. Callahan has mailed out the forms for listing personal property and incomes for the current year and the taxpayers have until June 1 to make returns. A penalty is provided for delinquents.

A total of approximately 7,000 forms are to be sent out by the commissioner, including residents of the newly annexed territory. Every individual, male and female, who has attained the age of 21 years, is required to file a return, whether subject to taxation or not.

The historic old tavern, Gadsby's, which was purchased through the efforts of the citizens' committee, for the local American Legion Post, has been restored, and is now ready to be furnished by the different organizations in the city, all furniture to be originals of the period of 1752-53. The Alexandria Garden Club will observe garden week there April 28 to May 3, the first meeting in the restored building. The City Hotel adjoining is being restored and furnished as a clubhouse and meeting place for the legion and auxiliary and other patriotic organizations.

Ashby F. Ward, aged 22 years, the son of Mrs. Mary C. Valentine, died Saturday night at his home, 1607 King street. He was a member of Royal Arcanum, Kismet Council of Washington. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

The Alexandria Citizens Association will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Town Hall of Potomac, presided over by John Barton Phillips, the president.

Speakers will be Representative Edwin F Cooke, of New York; City Manager Wallace Lawrence and F. C. Goodnow, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mountain Is Attached By Sheriff in Virginia

Winchester, Va., March 23.—Virtually a whole mountain in the western section of Frederick County has been seized and attached by Sheriff Pannett in the name of the Commonwealth of Virginia to secure a Maryland bank, it was learned today. The sheriff returned late last night from Great North Mountain, where he performed the legal ceremony of levying upon six tracts of land, aggregating 7,918 acres, owned by the Maryland Mining & Fruit Co., Inc., defendants in an action brought by the Citizens Bank, Keedyville, Md., which has a claim of approximately $7,500 against the corporation.

It was said to be one of the very few instances in this county in which real estate has been attached by the sheriff, legal attachments being almost invariably levied against personality.

H. N. Clagget, 78, Dies; Was Retired Farmer

Hamilton, Va., March 23.—Hezekiah Norton Clagget, 78, a retired farmer, and the father of Dr. J. E. Clagget, of Hamilton, died at his home at Marlboro, Frederick County, this morning. He was a native of West Virginia, being the son of the late Hezekiah and Eliza Baker Clagget, and the last of a family of ten children.

Mr. Clagget came to Virginia 30 years ago. He was a prominent member of the Presbyterian Church. Besides Dr. Clagget, another son survives, Harry Clagget, of Marlboro, and two daughters, Mrs. H. E. Shull, Marlboro, and Mrs. R. J. Shull, Stillwater, Okla. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning with interment in Mount Hebron Cemetery, Winchester.

TOWN COUNCIL TOPIC AT VIENNA MEETING

CENSUS TAKERS NAMED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

A mass meeting of Vienna citizens was held in the town hall Saturday night on the call of the council for the purpose of nominating candidates for the town officials to be elected June 10. Leon L. Freeman, delegate from Fairfax County to the Assembly, presided.

The Town of Vienna does not have a special charter but transacts its business under the general State laws governing incorporated towns.

At present the town officials consist of a mayor, five councilmen and a town sergeant. The State law requires that there be not less than three nor more than nine councilmen. The meeting Saturday night went on record as favoring the limiting of the number of councilmen to five and to have this printed on the official ballots.

This meeting does not prevent other citizens of the town from qualifying and being candidates for office. Under the law a candidate must qualify 60 days prior to the time on which the election is to be held. They must qualify before the county clerk who certifies their name to the county election board. The time limit this year will expire at midnight April 10.

Persons who were suggested at the mass meeting as desirable candidates for the offices are as follows:

For mayor—Edgar T. Bennett and M. O. Bradford.

For councilmen — Vernon Gowin, Fred N. Hagman, Joseph Berry, Alton Money, H. A. Money, John Paul Jones, E. L. Myers and C. A. Ashton.

For town sergeant—W. E. Thompson and French Fritter.

William W. Louk, who for the last six years has been a councilman, intentionally disqualified himself from holding office, as he believed that he had served long enough.

William E. Trusler, of Manassas, in charge of the second enumeration district of Virginia, has appointed his assistants in taking the 1930 census in Fairfax County. They are:

Centerville District—Mrs. H. M. Palmer and M. L. Mohler.

Dranesville District—B. W. Middleton and J. A. Dyer.

Providence District, of Vienna and Fairfax—Mrs. Lena Fitzhugh Stuntz, Mrs. Maurice Fox and S. Marshall Thompson.

Falls Church District and Falls Church—Grace M. Erwin, Frank H. Hannah, Philip L. Switzer and Egbert T. Watt.

Lee District—Harlow A. Rice and Egbert T. Watt.

Mount Vernon District—Mrs. Nell E. Berry.

Rezin A. Farr, of Fairfax, who is in charge of the manufacturing census, will also cover the separate reservations or institutions, such as Ivakota Farm, Camp Humphreys and Occoquan.

The work will be started April 2 and must be completed in 30 days.

The members of Piedmont Chapter at Falls Church, the Alexandria Chapter and Washington Chapter of American War Mothers and their friends will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Arthur J. Porter at Clarendon. This open meeting comes at the same time as the regular monthly gathering of the Piedmont Chapter, whose membership has been increased to 25.

The Houston Men's Bible Class of the Crossman Methodist Church at Falls Church will meet tonight in the church. They plan to take up the church business, which must be transacted before the quarterly conference, which is to be held next month.

There will be a meeting of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department tonight. The women's auxiliary of the department will meet tomorrow night at the home of Miss Catherine Schofield. At this time they will complete their plans for a card party to be held in the Masonic Hall in Washington next month.

The Dranesville District Percheron Breeders Association will hold a meeting tonight at the home of Joseph A. Wheeler at Brown's Chapel.

The Herndon Chapter, Daughters of America, will hold their regular meeting tonight in Wilkins Hall in Herndon.

There will be a meeting of the volunteer fire department in the engine house at McLean tonight. The committee appointed to investigate the elevating of the siren on the engine house will make its report at this meeting.

The Ladies' Circle of the Presbyterian Church at Herndon will hold their meeting tonight. They will make complete arrangements in regard to the financial and other business questions at this time.

The recently elected officers of the Harmony Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at Vienna, will be held tonight in the lodge hall in Vienna.

The second week of the March term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court will open this morning with the trial of Dr. Thomas F. Dodd, a prominent physician of Seminary, Va., who was indicted at the November term of court for felonious assault upon a woman who was supposed to be visiting him for medical attention, according to the indictment.

Christian Endeavorers Meet in Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 23.—Members of the Society of Christian Endeavor from many cities and towns of northern Virginia and nearby West Virginia sections were here today and tonight for a society institute, held in Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church. It was the last to be addressed in 75 cities of 10 Southern States by Dr. Ira Landrith, Chicago, citizenship superintendent of the international society, and W. Roy Breg, Atlanta, Southern secretary of that organization.

Local churches identified with the Christian Endeavor movement closed tonight for a general mass meeting in Loudoun Street Church, the various pastors taking part. Combined choirs sang under the leadership of Floyd Haines. Miss Eloise Caldwell, president of the Winchester Christian Endeavor Union, presided.

Cumberland Head To Retire in 1932

Dr. Thomas W. Koon Has Served City in Public Office Many Years.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 23.—Dr. Thomas W. Koon, completing sixteen years as Mayor of Cumberland, and reelected for a ninth term last Tuesday, today made formal announcement that he will not seek the honor again, but will retire in 1932 to give full time to the practice of his profession and his private business affairs. If he completes the approaching term as mayor he will have served as mayor and as city councilman 24 years.

Concerning the more important matters to be projected in the next two years, Mayor Koon said he hoped to solve the problem of the railroad crossing danger and inconveniences and to establish an intelligent and thorough plan for sewering the city.

The city has already acquired the land needed for a sewage disposal plant below the city between the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal and the Potomac River.

CONGRESS BATTLES PLANNED IN VIRGINIA

Election of Six Democratic Representatives Seen as Certainty.

WARN AGAINST FRICTION

Richmond, Va., March 23.—Although President Hoover carried practically every Virginia district in the Republican landslide of 1928, reliable reports are that six of the seven Democratic members of Congress from the Old Dominion will be returned this fall without opposition. These are:

S. O. Bland, First; Andrew J. Montague, Third; Patrick H. Drewry, Fourth; Joseph Whitehead, Fifth; Clifford A. Woodrum, Sixth, and Harry St. George Tucker, Tenth.

No candidates have announced in opposition, either in the Democratic party primary or in the general election, and political leaders say that it is unlikely that any will.

Many District Fights.

Stirring legislative fights are in prospect in the four other districts, either within the party or from Republican ranks. Three candidates are in the field to succeed R. Walton Moore in the Eighth, who has announced his retirement. There are three candidates for the Democratic nomination—Judge Howard M. Smith, Alexandria; State Senator Frank L. Ball, Arlington, and Crandall Mackey, Arlington.

There also is a fight for the Democratic nomination in the Second to run against Melancus Lankford, Republican. Aspirants are former Representative Joseph T. Deal, Delegate W. W. Vellines, and probably Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, a former member of the State Legislature.

In the Seventh, a fight looms for the Democratic nomination to oppose Jacob A. Garber, Republican, although Judge John W. Flahburne, of Charlottesville, is the only announced candidate at present. Efforts to have former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd to accept the Democratic nomination, in order to avoid a party fight, seem to have made little impression upon the orchardist and newspaper publisher.

Counsel Against Friction.

In the "fighting" Ninth, a Republican-Democratic fight, characteristic of this southwest Virginia region, already has shaped up. John W. Flannagan, of Bristol, was named as the Democratic nominee at the convention held in Bristol Thursday. Representative Joseph T. Shaffer, Republican, will be renominated at the G. O. P. convention to be held next Saturday.

In the Sixth District there has been some talk of Mayor Fox of Roanoke opposing Representative Clifford L. Woodrum for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Fox is not inclined to stir up any dissension in party ranks at this time, he has told friends, and thinks that the best interests of his party will be served by his remaining out of the field. Representative Woodrum was the only Virginia representative unopposed in the Republican landslide of 1928.

Democratic State leaders, seeking gradually to come back from the setbacks of two years ago, are counseling against internal fights in all the districts, maintaining that if they are able to present a solid front there are good indications of regaining the three seats lost in 1928 to the Republicans. This policy was carried out in the Ninth with the forces centering upon Mr. Flannagan after supporters of three other leaders indorsed the Flannagan candidacy.

T. Preston Marks Dies At Home in Berryville

Berryville, Va., March 23.—T. Preston Marks, aged 71, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Marks, of Stephen City, Frederick County, died from pneumonia early this morning at his residence on East Main street. He is survived by his widow, who was Mrs. George Estep, of Clarke County, a daughter of Mr. Herman Ritter, of Millwood, and one daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. A. C. Dunn, of Richmond, Va., and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Laura Jones, of Durham; Mrs. Frank Booth, George A. Marks and S. J. Marks, of Richmond, Va., and Bernard Marks, of Tampa, Fla.

Funeral services will be held from the M. E. Church South, by the pastor, the Rev. A. L. Eusler, tomorrow at 2 p. m. with interment in Green Hill Cemetery. Pallbearers will be W. M. Jones, Thomas Jones, Herbert Marks, Charles Marks, Ralph Owens and Hugh Owens.

Ill Health Drives Man In Maryland to Suicide

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 23.—Despondency because of illness which followed injuries received in an automobile accident recently is believed to have induced Harry McCusker, 35 years old, to kill himself last night.

He used a small-caliber rifle during the absence of his mother, whom he had asked to leave the house and visit a sister. When Mrs. McCusker returned she found her son's body.

JOINT RACE MEETING PLANNED BY CLUBS

VARSITY EVENT SLATED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 23.—The joint race meeting of the Albemarle County Hunt and the Keswick Hunt Club will be held at the Farmington Country Club course Saturday, April 19, according to an announcement by H. C. Hutchins, of Greenwood, secretary. Entries will close April 9.

The meeting will be held under the sanction of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association and is to be participated in by gentlemen riders acceptable to the race committee, which reserves the right to reject any entry or refuse permission to any one to ride. Horses must be the bona fide property of the owner at the time of entry, and overweights will be permitted, allowances and penalties to be stated at time of entry. There will be no charge for stabling nor will there be any entry fees.

Five events are carded for the day's program, as follows:

The Manton Manor Plate—Four-year-olds and upward. Maidens. Weight, 160 pounds. No allowances. Winner to receive plate to be presented by Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, the former Marion du Pont, of Montpelier. Distance, about 2½ miles across country. To be ridden in colors.

The Varsity—For horses 4 years old and upward. Distance about 3 miles. Horses must be owned by students of the University of Virginia or members of any organized hunt. Riders to be students attending the University of Virginia. Winner to receive plate presented by Frederic W. Scott, of Richmond, Va. The executive committees of the Albemarle and Keswick Hunts will present a piece of plate to the rider of the winner. Weight, 165 pounds. Allowance, 5 pounds to half-breeds. No sex allowance. Distance, about 2 miles across country. To be ridden in colors.

The Albemarle-Keswick Hunt Cup—Distance, about 3½ miles. For horses that have been hunted at least one season with any organized hunt and to be ridden by a member in hunting costume. Weight, 165 pounds. No allowance. Winner to receive plate presented by the Albemarle County Hunt and the Keswick Hunt Club.

The Farmington Plate—Four-year-olds and upward. Horses that have been hunted or used as a hack by present owner. Riders to be members of an organized hunt, university students or other amateurs acceptable to the committee. Winner to receive plate presented by the Farmington Hunt. Weight, 160 pounds. Winner of one race on the flat to carry 5 pounds extra, or more than one race, 10 pounds extra. Half-breds allowed 5 pounds. No sex allowance. Distance, about 1½ miles on flat. To be ridden in colors or hunting costume.

Officers in all arms of the United States service that can qualify as riders in the above races may ride in their uniforms in lieu of colors or hunting costumes.

The Farmers Race—For horses owned by farmers and to be ridden by a farmer or a farmer's son who has never ridden a winner in a race other than a strictly farmers' race. Horses must be nonwinners except in a farmers' race. Winner to receive $50; second, $25; third, $10. A blanket to all other horses that start and finish. Prizes in this race presented by Randolph Ortman, of Chicago and Greenwood. Catch weights. Distance, about 1 mile across country.

Danville Union Meeting Is Addressed by Trio

Danville, Va., March 23 (A.P.).—Men and women members of trade union circles in this section attending the quarterly sessions of the Piedmont Council of Labor Unions, were addressed this afternoon by three nationally known speakers—Francis J. Gorman and Miss Matilda Lindsey, of the Union Textile Workers of America, and Miss Gertrude McNally, Washington, secretary of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

Gorman, who last night issued a statement in the name of the union, charging local mill management with discharging competent workers because of union affiliation, and calling a protest parade and mass meeting, today said the committee already has meet to tentatively arrange for the affair to be held within two weeks.

Bus Line Franchise Asked.

Danville, Va., March 23 (Special).—George M. Cease, of Richmond, has applied to the State corporation commission for a franchise to operate a line of buses between Danville and Norfolk. The Danville Transit Corporation has been formed with a maximum capital of $25,000. The running time between the two cities will be 6½ hours.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

COLUMBIA

"THE ROGUE SONG." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen adaptation of the operetta, "Gypsy Love," by Franz Lehar, A. M. Willner and Robert Badonsky, starring Lawrence Tibbett, baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera, supported by Catherine Dale Owen, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. An all-Technicolor production directed by Lionel Barrymore. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL

One of the most completely rounded entertainments the screen has ever revealed and by far the most prophetic achievement of the cinema to date, this peculiarly composite production should do no less than confound those who have held the higher reaches of dramatic and operatic expression to be beyond the present capabilities of the cameras and microphones. Its music soars to heights unknown to tin pan alley; variant emotions cause its action to run a gantlet of many moods; stupendous backgrounds in natural color lend it the beauty of spectacular pageantry and the vigor of its performance a forcefulness nothing short of dynamic.

Many of these qualities, to be sure, will be found, upon analysis, to center in Lawrence Tibbett, whose glorious voice and a histrionic endowment that has caused him to be known as the greatest actor on the operatic stage rehabilitate a jaded screen with a fillip of distinguished novelty. There is no one else in pictures like him, and a close scrutiny of his performance yesterday afternoon failed to disclose any characteristic of voice or manner that was not wholly delightful.

It can not be too strongly emphasized that despite the artistic legend that clings to the Tibbett name, "The Rogue Song" is distinctly mass entertainment. Its fundamental dramatic elements are no more abstruse than a Gypsy bandit's love for his little sister, a royal princess' love for her brother and the troubled love of this singing Tartar brigand and the gently bred patrician for each other.

Into the weaving of the tale have been combined bits of surest appeal from opera, melodrama, operetta, spectacle and the ballet—all vivified and enlivened by the flexibility of the camera performing at its best. The pursuit of Yegor and his men through the mountain passes by the Cossacks is a leaf from the book of "Broncho Billy" Anderson or "Bill" Hart; "The Narrative," in which Yegor recounts the seduction of his sister in the presence of the prince who caused her death, and whose death he plots, is the climax of the play expressed in song in the manner of pure opera; the laughable contributions of Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are from sources no more exalted than their two-reel comedies; the dancing ensembles are merely Albertina Rasch girls in more sedate mood than usual. Deftly devised for sure audience reaction, every atom of it.

Tibbett's is the only singing role. His magnificent barytone is heard in songs ranging from simple love ballads to impassioned numbers of true operatic caliber. "Once in the Georgian Hills," "To Live, To Love," "Little White Dove" and "When I'm Looking for You" you will remember, but will not be able to sing. The picture opens with Tibbett leading his mounted henchmen in "The Bandit Song" and closes with the same utilization of the "Rogue Song." One concerted number for feminine voices is introduced in "The Shame Cry," celebrating the humiliation of Nadja, led by Elsa Alsen and weirdly beautiful.

In the non-singing roles the star is rendered excellent support by a numerous cast, in which Catherine Dale Owen is foremost and Judith Vosselli, Lionel Belmore, Nance O'Neal, Burr McIntosh, Wallace MacDonald, Ullrich Haupt, Florence Lake and Kate Price are important.

While the color photography frequently obscures features and is deficient in clarity and sharp definition in the ensembles, it is vastly helpful to the magnificent exteriors which predominate in the production.

"Screen Snapshots," the Hearst Metrotone News and orchestral overture are the superfluous supplementaries.

PALACE

"ROADHOUSE NIGHTS." Paramount talking picture; film story by Ben Hecht; directed by Hobart Henley. Cast headed by Helen Morgan, Charles Ruggles and Fred Kohler. Reviewed Saturday night by C. Ransom.

This picture is first of all a good old shooting melodrama with the prescribed elements of swift action, violence, suspense and comic relief, but as the author, Ben Hecht, has some littry standing as a student of life it may be well to call it also a study of contacts between bootleggers and newspaper men in an advance state of uncivilization.

The title might give rise to a hope for a variety of adventurous nights in a number of roadhouses, but everything happens at just one unsavory river inn near a Michigan lakeside town, with a half-million worth of booze in the cellar and a hard crowd waiting for the moment to load it on boats for Chicago. That is, everything happens there except what goes on in the city room of the Chicago Times and on the telephone line between them. There is also the police headquarters of the Michigan town, where the boss bootlegger takes charge after kidnapping the chief of police and other officials and presumably terrorizing the populace.

Mr. Hecht is declared to know profoundly all about newspaper men and the underworld, so we must follow his leads with respect. The portrait offered by Charles Ruggles, who acquired the reporter habit in "Gentlemen of the Press," seems authentic enough, and if big bootleggers are realy so grim and vicious, the one acted by Fred Kohler may be likewise believed in. But both kinds of citizen are commonly thought to have more plain sense and shrewdness than Mr. Hecht allows them. One reporter—not Ruggles—tries to telephone his paper the whole story in the bootlegger's presence and naturally gets murdered. Then the Ruggles reporter, after many adventures on the trail of his slain pal, also telephones the office with the bad man standing by. Ruggles, pretending to be drunk, gets his message through by tapping in Morse on the transmitter, and the hard, sophisticated gangster puts his gun away, convinced that there is nothing wrong but wire trouble.

Helen Morgan, of "Show Boat" fame, has the only feminine part, as a cabaret singer, the bootlegger's sweetheart. She acts well and has depths, but needs a better opportunity. This is Charlie Ruggle's picture.

"Southern Melodies," as the stage interlude is called for no particular reason, introduces Pat Henning in startling dance steps, Bobby Gillette as master of ceremonies and banjoist, the three Dennis sisters in pleasing songs, the Four Flash Devils, who are good tumblers; Berta Donn, soprano; Al and Gussie Blum, Smith and Hadley, and the Chester Hale girls in some clever and graceful "routines." There is a news reel.

Eleven billion dollars worth of commodities have been handled through the Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., harbors in the past 35 years.

EARLE

"HELLO, SISTER." A James Cruze production, directed by Walter Lang, with Olive Borden and Lloyd Hughes featured, supported by George Fawcett and Bodil Rosing. Reviewed Saturday night.

Enlivening entertainment has here been compounded from such divergent ingredients as roadhouse and church—a combination usually dubious and always presumed to be charged with dynamite and highly explosive. It is highly explosive, as a matter of fact, but in this instance, happily, with laughter. The sequences having to do with pulpit and pew are executed respectfully, and what chaffing is done reflects only upon a generation of heedless and hoydenish youth.

It seems to me surprising that this means of contrast has not been hit upon before to emphasize the futility of most of the foibles of flaming youth and the enduring worth of certain priceless heritages from the ages. For, after all, "Hello, Sister" can pretend to nothing beyond a jovial attempt to prove that all night drinking bouts are not the ultima thule of existence. This it accomplishes through the familiar device of a will left by a rich grandfather who bequeaths all of his wealth to his only flapper heiress—provided she gives up the habits of tobacco, alcohol and the gay night life and goes to church every Sunday for a period of six months. If the terms of the final testament are violated, the fortune is to pass to a commercial concern that has been dying on its feet for five years.

To thwart the questionable designs of the president of this firm, and to safeguard the minute fulfillment of the provisions of the bequest, the family lawyer plants his handsome young assistant as a deacon in the church of which Vivian is a member. Having been given so much of the plot, any self-respecting playgoer should be able to destroy every remaining vestige of novelty and suspense for himself.

Audibility is a decided asset to both Olive Borden and Lloyd Hughes. In their present vehicle they are articulate and engaging young people who are altogether likeable. They even sing a bit together during the church bazaar. Their associates in the cast are numerous and capable.

The companion attraction for the week is supplied by Helen Kane, a unique musical comedy and screen personality who has baby-talked her way into tremendous popularity and who is present on the stage in the flesh to sing a group of her songs, accompanied at the piano by Joe Keden. Miss Kane, it turns out, is a charming young woman whose voice the microphones magnify and whose stature the cameras diminish. At the performance I attended Miss Kane knocked the customers all in a heap with "Was There Anything Wrong in That?" "Pass the Sugar" and "Do Do Something," with "Aintcha Kinda Kinda Glad?" and "He's So Unusual" for her two encores. A lot of girl, Helen Kane, and a sure-fire hit in any man's theater.

The bill is completed by a Paul Terry animated cartoon comedy, "Pretzels;" comprehensive newsreel and orchestral overture comprised of "Beside an Open Fireplace" and Rudy Vallee's "Stein Song," sung by the crooner and a male ensemble through the loud speaker to lend the band an added wallop.

FOX

"LET'S GO PLACES." Fox talking-singing-dancing production, featuring Walter Catlett, Sharon Lynn, Lola Lane, Frank Richardson and Joseph Wagstaff. Directed by Frank Strayer. Reviewed Saturday afternoon by Mary Porter Russell.

Back-stage films having gotten themselves into disrepute through oversupply, the behind-the-screens picture steps forward to carry on the task of providing situations into which song and dance may be introduced with some semblance of logic. This one comes labeled as a Movietone musical farce, and it is a billing with which there is no disposition here to quarrel. Of farce there is plenty; of music there is as many as could be desired. abundance; of movietones there are

From the time young Paul, the tenor, loses his job with a New York designing firm, at the beginning of the picture, until he crashes through as a singing star of Hollywood at its close, some seven or eight songs are sung, two pretentious revue numbers are staged and a crazily hot dance called the boop-boopa-doop trot is set to motion on a ballroom floor, led by the supercute Dixie Lee. Several of these, if you like jazz, are of interest, notably, the "Parade of the Blues," with duet between Sharon and Frank Sharon Lynn and ensemble, and a Richardson, entitled "Fascinating Devil." Joseph Wagstaff's principal offerings are "Reach Out for the Rainbow" and "Hollywood Nights of Love."

Shots of Hollywood and motion picture sound stages are shown during the course of Paul's experiences in the cinema capital, where he is accepted as the great French tenor, Du Bonnet, whose name he has innocently assumed. The complications ensuing from this mistaken identity provide the comedy, which lacks much of being convulsing. Mr. Wagstaff, as Paul, is of less significance than in the more serious role entrusted to him in "The who plays opposite him, has done Song of Kentucky," and Lola Lane, nothing to modify the harsh accent with which her previous appearances have associated her. Walter Catlett and the effervescent Mr. Richardson, however, are helpful.

Alexander Callam gathers in the honors of the stage show with his fine rendition of "Song of Songs." Those introduced by him in the "Columns Idea" are Rome and Gaut, long and short comedians; Nellie Arnaut and brothers, who perform lins; Niles Marsh, a female impersonator, whose high singing tones are more convincing than his appearance, and Billy Rolls and Maxine Evelyn, dancers. The latter are featured with the Sunkist Beauties in a number called "Half and Half," somewhat reminiscent of the "Black and White" offering from "Show of Shows." The scarf dance with which the chorus opens the revue is effectively done.

Leon Brusiloff conducts the orchestra in a highly pleasing overture, and the Fox Movietone News speaks for itself with its usual success.

Fleming Named Director Of Wheeling Association

Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, has been elected a director of the Fidelity Investment Association, of Wheeling, W. Va., according to announcement yesterday.

The association, a national organization, was founded for the stimulation of thrift and on the lines of a life insurance company, its policies being in the form of annuities. The late Secretary of War Good was a former member of its board of directors and Senator Southerland, of West Virginia, is a vice president of the association.

RKO-KEITH

"FRAMED." RKO picturization of a story by Paul Schofield, featuring Evelyn Brent and Regis Toomey, supported by William Holden, Ralf Harolde and Maurice Black. Directed by George Archainbaud. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

They passed the "framing" around pretty thoroughly in this one, and it is a proportionately better crook play than usual on that account.

Rose Manning's dad seems to have been the first one to be bumped off, so Rose dedicated the remainder of her life to wreaking vengeance upon "Butch" McArthur, the police inspector whose men had done the shooting. Working with the night club proprietor for whom she served as hostess and Inspector McArthur's son, Jimmy, as her principal instruments of revenge, Rose not only managed to frame the senior McArthur, "Chuck" G
